Second Storm in Five Days Plagues Sector

A second snowstorm of major proportions to hit this area within the last five days forced the closing of most schools, public and parochial, resulted in cancellation of meetings and other events, and created hazardous driving conditions.

Depth of the new snowfall varied between four and six inches by 10 a. m., and at that hour snow was still falling throughout the area. The weatherman forecast six to nine inches. Drifting was reported in some sectors of the county, adding to the hazard of motorists.

The new snow piled up on the nine-inch accumulation from the snowstorm of near-blizzard power that swept the area last Saturday and Sunday.

Operators of the city buses reported that every effort was made to keep the buses operating on city streets on schedule. It was observed that many residents left their cars at home and rode the buses to work.

Police and Board of Public Works officials in Kingston, Saugerties and other communities appealed to car owners not to park on streets and highways. They noted that parked vehicles hamper snow removal forces in their work.

Collections of rubbish in the city will be made on schedule a BPW official said.

Fire officials have asked residents and business men, who are near fire hydrants, to remove snow from the fire plugs at least three feet, in order to avoid delays in connecting hoselines in the event of fire.

With six to nine inches forecast for this storm, highway officials, cast a gloomy glance at later snow and flurries that will follow today's storm, might be the forerunner of another snowstorm late Friday.

The second storm within the week is expected to taper off late in the day. Some rain and sleet mixed with snow during the early hours this morning.

State police of the area summed driving conditions in one word "Bad."

County Highway Department crews were ordered out at about midnight to salt and sand the main traffic arteries, and at 6 a. m. the snow plow forces were pressed into action.

A County Highway Department spokesman reported at 10 a. m. that four to six inches of new snow had fallen at that hour, and some drifting was reported. He said there had been no change in the earlier forecast which predicted 6 to 9 inches for this area.

An official of the Board of Public Works in Kingston reported that four to five inches of snow had blanketed the snow that fell last weekend. That report was made at 10 a. m. City sanding crews were on the job at 10 p. m. Tuesday, and shortly after that plows were in action, covering the main arteries in the city.

Labor Is Firm on Boycott

Not Being Moved By Johnson's Plea

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Labor leaders, in their first full scale row with President Johnson, vow they will not retreat from their boycott of U.S. wheat shipments to the Soviet Union.

"There's nobody who can change this deal but me," said President Thomas W. Gleason of the International Longshoremen's Union Tuesday. "And I will not back down."

Has Full Support

Gleason had the full support of AFL-CIO officials, including President George Meany, in rejecting Johnson's plea to end the boycott.

Labor's attitude appeared to harden in the face of renewed attempts at a settlement by Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, special emissary of the President.

Gleason and Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO's Maritime Trades Department, insist that at least half the wheat be shipped in U.S. vessels.

All claimed the Johnson administration had reneged on the late President John F. Kennedy's promise that at least half the wheat would be transported in American ships. He demanded that the federal government renew the pledge in writing, with the signatures of all Cabinet officers invlved.

Angry at Two

Compounding the dispute is the anger of Hall and Gleason at Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges for accusing the unions of trying to make foreign policy.

Hall, in an interview, said Hodges' statement was "the last refuge of an incompetent."

Gleason, in another interview, denied his union is trying to influence foreign policy.

The labor leaders also are angry at Hodges because the Maritime Administration, under the Commerce Department, granted Continental Grain Co. a waiver permitting more than 50 per cent foreign shipping.

Continental claimed it could not find enough U.S. ships of the right size at the right time and place.

Reynolds, who failed in an earlier attempt at a settlement, began a new round of closed conferences.

Boycott 4 Ships

A spokesman for the maritime unions said only Johnson's personal intervention could resolve the dispute.

Gleason's longshoremen are boycotting four foreign ships scheduled for loading on the Gulf Coast with wheat sold to the Soviet Union by Continental.

The Continental sale involves about $75 million worth of grain. Other export licenses issued by the Commerce Department could bring wheat sales to the Soviet Union to $400 million.

The longshoremen's officials say none of it may ever get off American docks if the deadlock isn't settled on their terms.

Ships Take Out 1,000 To Angra

Refugees Fear Island Destruction

ANGRA DO HEROISMO, Azores (AP)—A mercy fleet from five nations brought more than 1,000 dazed and shocked refugees to Angra today from the earthquake devastation of Sao Jorge Island.

U.S., Norwegian, British, Italian and Yugoslav ships shuttled back and forth over the 20-mile stretch of water between this island of Terceira and Sao Jorge.

Villages in Ruins

Refugees told of villages shaken to ruins, and said the air was thick with sulphur, an indication that a new volcano is building up on the ocean floor.

The evacuation operation was halted in the afternoon, however, "because authorities believe the situation has become stable," said Cmdr. Alvaro Cardoso, captain of the port of Angra.

"Tremors are becoming weaker and less frequent," he added.

Rocking Four Days

The refugees said the earth on the Azores island had been rocking for four days, and one of them said the recurring quakes made it impossible to sleep.

Twenty tremors were registered by Azores authorities on Sao Jorge during Tuesday night.

The quakes have been most intense on western Sao Jorge. About 20,000 islanders call Sao Jorge home. It is an elongated island, 34 miles long and about 1½ miles wide.

Tremors also were felt Tuesday night on Terceira and elsewhere in the mountainous Azores, a Portuguese possession west of Lisbon. The quake waves have wrecked or damaged hundreds of homes on Sao Jorge, but no casualties have been reported.

Communications Shaky

Thousands of Sao Jorge inhabitants fled to a port at the east end of the island to await removal. They feared the quakes, now in their sixth day, would set off volcanic eruptions that would destroy their island.

Telephone and telegraph communications with Sao Jorge were shaky and reports from the stricken island varied. Some said virtually the entire population of 20,000 had assembled for evacuation; other reports put the number at about 7,000.

Gov. Teotonio Machado Pires, whose district includes Terceira and Sao Jorge, said the quakes on Sao Jorge were "getting worse each minute."

The Portuguese news agency ANI said th tremors on Sao Jorge were the result of a new volcano building up on the ocean floor.

Excuse Two From Jury In Ruby Trial

DALLAS (AP) — Two more jury candidates in Jack Ruby's murder trial were excused today when they said they would not vote the death penalty for him if he is convicted.

They were the fifth and sixth to be called.

None Seated Yet

No jurors have been seated yet.

The two were J. I. Richardson, 36, a purchasing agent; and Jesse R. Jones, 59, a foreman.

Dist. Atty. Henry M. Wade, in his usual introduction to questioning a prospective juror, said the state would ask that Ruby be executed in the electric chair, and he asked both candidates whether "you have religious or conscientious scruples against voting the death penalty."

Both said they do have.

Ruby's chief defense counsel, Melvin Belli, said he wished to make a permanent objection to excusing prospective jurors on grounds that they would not return a verdict of the death penalty.

"This leaves us with a panel only of those with an affirmative state of mind on the death penalty," Belli said.

Will Call New Panel

Wade had told reporters that Judge Joe B. Brown and defense and state lawyers agreed before court today that if a jury cannot be obtained from the current panel of 750 — plus 150 designated specifically for the Ruby trial — a new panel will be convened next week.

Normal jury duty in Dallas is for one week. Thus the court would dismiss those called for this week and start afresh with a new group of probably 650 prospective jurors.

After the first four prospective jurors, two men and two

Legion Says U.S. Must Be Firm on Gitmo and Canal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The American Legion supports President Johnson's policy of making the Guantanamo Naval Base self-sufficient, says Daniel F. Foley, national commander of the Legion.

Foley made the statement here Tuesday while attending the 45th annual conference of the Legion's New York State Department.

Foley added that he believed both the possession of the Guantanamo base and retention of the Panama Canal under American control are issues on which the United States "must stand firm."

He called the perpetuity proviso of the U.S.-Panama treaty on the canal "not renegotiable."

In a dinner speech Tuesday night, Foley called for a strengthening of this country both externally and internally.

Emergency Service For Nurses, Doctors

Emergency transportation will be provided nurses and physicians in the city from their homes to Kingston or Benedictine Hospital and return by Doctor's Ambulance it was announced this afternoon by Gilbert Gray.

Any nurse or physician unable to obtain transportation from home to a hospital and return due to the storm will be transported by ambulance service if they telephone that office, FE 1-3488. Service will continue until the emergency is over.

Study Group Proposes 20.8-Million Aid Hike

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state study commission today proposed a stop-gap increase of $20.8 million in per-capita aid to the cities, towns and villages of New York State.

As recommended by the Commission on Per Capita Aid, the increase would take effect April 1, 1965. It would not have to be financed in Gov. Rockefeller's narrowly balanced $2.9-billion budget for the new fiscal year.

The commission's preliminary report said its proposal would raise total per-capita aid to $119.6 million a year.

Based on Population

The money is allotted on the basis of population and may be used locally for any purpose.

The commission said it would continue its studies toward a major revision of the per-capita aid program.

Democrats have been clamoring for at least a doubling of the present level, which has not been raised since the program was initiated in 1946.

The commission, headed by former Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, was established at Rockefeller's request to look into demands for more per-capita assistance. Bills were to be introduced in the Legislature today to carry out its proposals.

Other Matters

In other state government developments:

—Railroad unions rejected a compromise proposal designed to win Republican support in the Legislature for Rockefeller's plan to repeal the full-crew laws.

—The Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial and Labor Relations said it would schedule public hearings soon on a controversial bill that would prohibit employers from hiring professional strikebreakers to replace workers on strike.

—The Senate gave final legislative approval to two key bills in Rockefeller's anti-crime program — measures that would broaden and clarify the power of police in making arrests and conducting raids

$11.2 Million Hike

The commission on per capita aid said its plan would increase financial assistance to cities by $11.2 million, including $8.2 million additional for New York City. Villages would gain $1.4 million and a new type of grant for towns outside villages would require another $8.2 million.

The commission's plan would introduce a new feature into the per-capita aid program — per capita aid would be pegged to the full value of taxable property in cities, towns and villages. Those that have relatively less taxable property per capita would receive more aid.

For example, a community with a full value of $4,000 for each citizen would receive $1 more in aid for each resident than a community with property valued at $8,000 per citizen.

Tax Burden Increases

The commission said it was recommending the new grant for towns outside villages in recognition of "the extraordinary increase in tax burden of those areas since per-capita aid was initiated in 1946."

Details of the financial effect on each community of the state will be made available in another report to be issued next week, the commission said.

The full-crew repeal bill, as originally proposed by Rockefeller, would preserve the jobs of railroad employes with more than two years of seniority. The measure failed to muster sufficient support for passage in the Assembly, however, and it was amended to give job protection

CWA Victorious Over Teamsters By 3 to 2 Margin

Attempts of a Teamsters' Union to set itself up as the bargaining representative for 24,000 New York Telephone Company Workers, have failed, according to results of recent voting announced here today.

The Communications Workers of America (CWA-AFL-CIO) continue in control by a 3-2 margin in what was reported the biggest collective bargaining election since the end of World War 2.

95 PC Vote Cast

Tabulated and announced by the National Labor Relations Board in New York City, the vote showed 12,558 for CWA to 8,751 for the teamsters.

Another 574 ballots were cast for the independent Brotherhood of Telephone Workers and 286 for no union at all. The total vote represented about 95 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots.

G. A. Johnson, local manager of the telephone company, said this morning, "Needless to say, we are all very pleased with the outcome."

Johnson gave the following statement from Willard G. Hampton, executive vice president of the telephone company.

"This decision by our employes should bring an end to the disruptive influences of the Teamsters' 18-month long raid.

Corwin Is Not Running Again For County DA

District Attorney David W. Corwin, New Paltz Attorney, today announced that he would not seek re-nomination for the office to which he was elected in 1961.

In announcing his intention not to seek a second term, Mr. Corwin said: "I do not intend to seek re-election to the office of District Attorney at the expiration of my present term. I will devote full time to my private practice."

Cutter Spots Two Liferafts

Rescue Three Crewmen From Battered Vessel

NEW YORK (AP)—A rescue ship today hauled aboard the first survivors from the storm-battered British merchantman, Ambassador, which had wallowed helplessly in mountainous North Atlantic seas for over 24 hours.

The Fruen, a Norwegian freighter, secured a line to the derelict shortly before 9 a.m. (EST), and removed three crewmen, the Coast Guard reported.

Some Still Aboard

Four to six men still were reported still aboard the hulk, which was listing at 50 degrees.

Other members of the 35-man crew abandoned ship early Tuesday afternoon as sea water crept higher in her engine room. Their fate was not known.

The Coast Guard Cutter Coos Bay, directing the search and rescue effort some 660 miles southeast of Halifax, N.S., said two liferafts, each with four or more persons aboard, had been sighted at sunset.

The Vulcania, an Italian passenger liner, was assigned to search for the rafts and any other survivors. Two aircraft flew search patterns, hampered by a low clouds.

Winds, Sea Hamper Efforts

Forty-knot winds and 25-foot seas complicated the rescue efforts.

The 443-foot Ambassador, carrying grain from Philadelphia to England, sent out an SOS early Tuesday. Her distress signal said her engines were disabled.

Unable to maneuver in the raging storm, the Ambassador was pounded by thundering waves which crushed in her forward hatch and flooded her engine spaces. About seven hours after the SOS, the abandon ship order was given.

Liferaft Dropped

Rescue aircraft dropped three 20-man liferafts that inflate as they hit the water.

Another Italian liner, the Leonardo da Vinci, was the first rescue ship to reach the Ambassador. After reporting that she was unsuccessful in attempts to pick up survivors because of heavy seas, the Da Vinci continued to New York when the Fruuen arrived.

Without power or operable pumps, the Ambassador floundered helplessly, the Coast Guard said.

The 7,308-ton vessel had ra-

B. W. Johnston, Retired Druggist, Dies in Hospital

Benjamin W. Johnston, 88, of 274 Clinton Avenue, died today in Kingston Hospital where he had been a patient for some time.

Mr. Johnston for many years conducted the B. W. Johnston Drug Store at 26 East Strand and is believed to be Ulster County's oldest druggist.

Born in Kingston on January 9, 1876, son of Benjamin A. and Margaret McDowell Johnston, he attended local schools and was graduated from Ulster Academy.

He was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F&AM and had served with the 14th Separate Company, predecessor of Company M, New York National Guard.

Athlete in Youth

During his early life, he was a well-known athlete playing basketball with local semi-professional teams. Prior to moving to Clinton Avenue he had resided at the famil homestead, 189 West Chestnut Street.

For many years, the Johnston drug store on East Strand was conducted in the manner of the old time stores where residents of the area would come in time of need rather than seek the assistance of a physician for minor ailments and injuries. It was a popular meeting place for local residents and while not conducted as a luncheonette, as are many present-day drug stores, the Johnston store was the noon

County Vols Hold Their Feb. Meeting

James Raskowski, a student at the Immaculate Conception School, Kingston, honorary fire chief of Ulster County for the month of February was guest of honor at the February meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening. The honorary fire chief was sponsored by A. H. Wicks Truck and Engine Company.

Honorary chief for March will be Eileen Luczia, a New Paltz student who is sponsored by the New Paltz Fire Department. Honorary fire chiefs are selected from among the essay contest winners in the Fire Prevention Week contest.

Guests of Veteran Vols

Meeting at Kingston Municipal Auditorium as guests of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, there were 29 companies represented by approximately 100 members. Threat of a new snowstorm was called responsible for the small number of companies represented.

Herbert Faurote of Bloomington presided at the meeting which was opened with prayer by the Rev. William Williams, chaplain of Wiltwyck Hose Company.

It was announced that the by-laws had been printed and will be given out to companies by the secretary as dues are paid.

There was no nomination for the post of second vice president and that post remains open.

Following a report by the board of directors, a committee was named to contact the five companies in the county not yet members of the county association. These companies are in Town of Rochester, Town of Saugerties and three in the Town of Olive.

Express Appreciation

A vote of thanks was given George Majestic, Gardiner supervisor, who sponsored a resolution in the board of supervisors calling on that body to request our Senator and Assemblyman to oppose any legislation which would deprive volunteer fire companies of any part of the 2 per cent Foreign Insurance Company tax money. There have been suggestions that the money be shared with the paid departments. The board of supervisors unanimously approved the Majestic resolution, with four city supervisors abstaining from voting on the grounds Kingston has both volunteer and paid departments.

A suggestion was made that in view of the increasing costs over the years, the percentage might be raised to three per cent

Area People Get Appointments By Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today the appointments of three members of the board of trustees for the Senate House Association at Kingston.

The appointees are:

Mrs. Elsie K. Ingram of (Box 332) Kingston, for a term ending Oct. 6, 1968, to succeed Abraham Rothkopf of Ellenville whose term expired.

Mrs. William Heidgerd of (54 Huguenot St.) New Paltz, for a term ending Oct. 9, 1968, to succeed Mrs. Ruth Decker of Highland, whose term expired.

Albert Kurdt of (190 Tremper Ave.) Kingston, for a term ending Oct. 9, 1964, to succeed Mrs. Vincent Connelly of Kingston, who resigned May 20, 1963.

The posts carry no salary.

Rockefeller also appointed Mrs. Gertrude Ertel Schomer of (142 Washington Ave.) Kingston, as a member of the board of visitors to Wassaic State School for a term ending Dec. 31, 1964.

Mrs. Schomer succeeds Miss Alice M. Scardefield, of Kingston, who died May 6, 1963.

Members of the board of visitors serve without salary.

No Compromise on Rights To Test Johnson's Power

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A no-compromise attitude on the House-passed civil rights bill seems likely to provide an ultimate test of President Johnson's ability to get controversial legislation out of Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader who will serve as Senate floor manager for the measure, said the President is completely committed to the strong terms of the House bill.

Humphrey added there would be "no wheels or deals" to gain its passage even if it takes weary weeks to break through a Southern filibuster. The measure may be brought up next week.

Humphrey's optimism that the House bill can be passed without substantial changes was not shared by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

"There are going to be some compromises," Dirksen said in an interview. "I am going to give the administration an opportunity to compromise, and we'll see what happens."

Dirksen said he will offer a proposal calling for voluntary desegregation of hotels, motels, restaurants and other places of public accommodation. The House-approved bill would

Study Group Proposes 20.8-Million Aid Hike

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A state study commission today proposed a stop-gap increase of $20.8 million in per-capita aid to the cities, towns and villages of New York State.

As recommended by the Commission on Per Capita Aid, the increase would take effect April 1, 1965. It would not have to be financed in Gov. Rockefeller's narrowly balanced $2.9-billion budget for the new fiscal year.

The commission's preliminary report said its proposal would raise total per-capita aid to $119.6 million a year.

Based on Population

The money is allotted on the basis of population and may be used locally for any purpose.

The commission said it would continue its studies toward a major revision of the per-capita aid program.

Democrats have been clamoring for at least a doubling of the present level, which has not been raised since the program was initiated in 1946.

The commission, headed by former Lt. Gov. Frank C. Moore, was established at Rockefeller's request to look into demands for more per-capita assistance. Bills were to be introduced in the Legislature today to carry out its proposals.

Other Matters

In other state government developments:

—Railroad unions rejected a compromise proposal designed to win Republican support in the Legislature for Rockefeller's plan to repeal the full-crew laws.

—The Joint Legislative Committee on Industrial and Labor Relations said it would schedule public hearings soon on a controversial bill that would prohibit employers from hiring professional strikebreakers to replace workers on strike.

—The Senate gave final legislative approval to two key bills in Rockefeller's anti-crime program — measures that would broaden and clarify the power of police in making arrests and conducting raids

$11.2 Million Hike

The commission on per capita aid said its plan would increase financial assistance to cities by $11.2 million, including $8.2 million additional for New York City. Villages would gain $1.4 million and a new type of grant for towns outside villages would require another $8.2 million.

The commission's plan would introduce a new feature into the per-capita aid program — per capita aid would be pegged to the full value of taxable property in cities, towns and villages. Those that have relatively less taxable property per capita would receive more aid.

For example, a community with a full value of $4,000 for each citizen would receive $1 more in aid for each resident than a community with property valued at $8,000 per citizen.

Tax Burden Increases

The commission said it was recommending the new grant for towns outside villages in recognition of "the extraordinary increase in tax burden of those areas since per-capita aid was initiated in 1946."

Details of the financial effect on each community of the state will be made available in another report to be issued next week, the commission said.

The full-crew repeal bill, as originally proposed by Rockefeller, would preserve the jobs of railroad employes with more than two years of seniority. The measure failed to muster sufficient support for passage in the Assembly, however, and it was amended to give job protection

CWA Victorious Over Teamsters By 3 to 2 Margin

Attempts of a Teamsters' Union to set itself up as the bargaining representative for 24,000 New York Telephone Company Workers, have failed, according to results of recent voting announced here today.

The Communications Workers of America (CWA-AFL-CIO) continue in control by a 3-2 margin in what was reported the biggest collective bargaining election since the end of World War 2.

95 PC Vote Cast

Tabulated and announced by the National Labor Relations Board in New York City, the vote showed 12,538 for CWA to 8,751 for the teamsters.

Another 574 ballots were cast for the independent Brotherhood of Telephone Workers and 286 for no union at all. The total vote represented about 95 per cent of those eligible to cast ballots.

G. A. Johnson, local manager of the telephone company, said this morning, "Needless to say, we are all very pleased with the outcome."

Johnson gave the following statement from Willard G. Hampton, executive vice president of the telephone company.

"This decision by our employes should bring an end to the disruptive influences of the Teamsters' 18-month long raid.

Ready To Start Talks

"The company is ready to start bargaining a new contract with the Communication Workers of America as soon as the re-

No Compromise on Rights To Test Johnson's Power

AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A no-compromise attitude on the House-passed civil rights bill seems likely to provide an ultimate test of President Johnson's ability to get controversial legislation out of Congress.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader who will serve as Senate floor manager for the measure, said the President is completely committed to the strong terms of the House bill.

Humphrey added there would be "no wheels or deals" to gain its passage even if it takes weary weeks to break through a Southern filibuster. The measure may be brought up next week.

Humphrey's optimism that the House bill can be passed without substantial changes was not shared by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

"There are going to be some compromises," Dirksen said in an interview. "I am going to give the administration an opportunity to compromise, and we'll see what happens."

Dirksen said he will offer a proposal calling for voluntary desegregation of hotels, motels, restaurants and other places of public accommodation. The House-approved bill would

Corwin Is Not Running Again For County DA

District Attorney David W. Corwin, New Paltz Attorney, today announced that he would not seek re-nomination for the office to which he was elected in 1961.

In announcing his intention not to seek a second term, Mr. Corwin said: "I do not intend to seek re-election to the office of District Attorney at the expiration of my present term. I will devote full time to my private practice."

Cutter Spots Two Liferafts

Rescue Three Crewmen From Battered Vessel

NEW YORK (AP)—A rescue ship today hauled aboard the first survivors from the storm-battered British merchantman, Ambassador, which had wallowed helplessly in mountainous North Atlantic seas for over 24 hours.

The Fruen, a Norwegian freighter, secured a line to the derelict shortly before 9 a.m. (EST), and removed three crewmen, the Coast Guard reported.

Some Still Aboard

Four to six men still were reported still aboard the hulk, which was listing at 50 degrees.

Other members of the 35-man crew abandoned ship early Tuesday afternoon as sea water crept higher in her engine room. Their fate was not known.

The Coast Guard Cutter Coos Bay, directing the search and rescue effort some 660 miles southeast of Halifax, N.S., said two liferafts, each with four or more persons aboard, had been sighted at sunset.

The Vulcania, an Italian passenger liner, was assigned to search for the rafts and any other survivors. Two aircraft flew search patterns, hampered by a low clouds.

Winds, Sea Hamper Efforts

Forty-knot winds and 25-foot seas complicated the rescue efforts.

The 443-foot Ambassador, carrying grain from Philadelphia to England, sent out an SOS early Tuesday. Her distress signal said her engines were disabled.

Unable to maneuver in the raging storm, the Ambassador was pounded by thundering waves which crushed in her forward hatch and flooded her engine spaces. About seven hours after the SOS, the abandon ship order was given.

Liferaft Dropped

Rescue aircraft dropped three 20-man liferafts that inflate as they hit the water.

Another Italian liner, the Leonardo da Vinci, was the first rescue ship to reach the Ambassador. After reporting that she was unsuccessful in attempts to pick up survivors because of heavy seas, the Da Vinci continued to New York when the Fruuen arrived.

Without power or operable pumps, the Ambassador floundered helplessly, the Coast Guard said.

B. W. Johnston, Retired Druggist, Dies in Hospital

Benjamin W. Johnston, 88, of 274 Clinton Avenue, died today in Kingston Hospital where he had been a patient for some time.

Mr. Johnston for many years conducted the B. W. Johnston Drug Store at 26 East Strand and is believed to be Ulster County's oldest druggist.

Born in Kingston on January 9, 1876, son of Benjamin A. and Margaret McDowell Johnston, he attended local schools and was graduated from Ulster Academy.

He was a member of Rondout Lodge No. 343, F&AM and had served with the 14th Separate Company, predecessor of Company M, New York National Guard.

Athlete in Youth

During his early life, he was a well-known athlete playing basketball with local semi-professional teams. Prior to moving to Clinton Avenue he had resided at the famil homestead, 189 West Chestnut Street.

For many years, the Johnston drug store on East Strand was conducted in the manner of the old time stores where residents of the area would come in time of need rather than seek the assistance of a physician for minor ailments and injuries. It was a popular meeting place for local residents and while not conducted as a luncheonette, as are many present-day drug stores, the Johnston store was the noon

James Raskowski, a student at the Immaculate Conception School, Kingston, honorary fire chief of Ulster County for the month of February was guest of honor at the February meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening. The honorary fire chief was sponsored by A. H. Wicks Truck and Engine Company.

Honorary chief for March will be Eileen Luczia, a New Paltz student who is sponsored by the New Paltz Fire Department. Honorary fire chiefs are selected from among the essay contest winners in the Fire Prevention Week contest.

Guests of Veteran Vols

Meeting at Kingston Municipal Auditorium as guests of the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association, there were 29 companies represented by approximately 100 members. Threat of a new snowstorm was called responsible for the small number of companies represented.

Herbert Faurote of Bloomington presided at the meeting which was opened with prayer by the Rev. William Williams, chaplain of Wiltwyck Hose Company.

It was announced that the by-laws had been printed and will be given out to companies by the secretary as dues are paid.

There was no nomination for the post of second vice president and that post remains open.

Following a report by the board of directors, a committee was named to contact the five companies in the county not yet members of the county association. These companies are in Town of Rochester, Town of Saugerties and three in the Town of Olive.

Express Appreciation

A vote of thanks was given George Majestic, Gardiner supervisor, who sponsored a resolution in the board of supervisors calling on that body to request our Senator and Assemblyman to oppose any legislation which would deprive volunteer fire companies of any part of the 2 per cent Foreign Insurance Company tax money. There have been suggestions that the money be shared with the paid departments. The board of supervisors unanimously approved the Majestic resolution, with four city supervisors abstaining from voting on the grounds Kingston has both volunteer and paid departments.

A suggestion was made that in view of the increasing costs over the years, the percentage might be raised to three per cent

Assembly Passage Of Cash for Trade Stamps Uncertain

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Trading stamps would be worth cash instead of merchandise under a Senate-approved bill that was before the Assembly today.

The bill also would place trading-stamp companies under state regulation. Prospects for Assembly passage appeared uncertain.

Area People Get Appointments By Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today the appointments of three members of the board of trustees for the Senate House Association at Kingston.

The appointees are:

Mrs. Elsie K. Ingram of (Box 332) Kingston, for a term ending Oct. 6, 1968, to succeed Abraham Rothkopf of Ellenville whose term expired.

Mrs. William Heidgerd of (54 Huguenot St.) New Paltz, for a term ending Oct. 9, 1968, to succeed Mrs. Ruth Decker of Highland, whose term expired.

Albert Kurdt of (190 Tremper Ave.) Kingston, for a term ending Oct. 9, 1964, to succeed Mrs. Vincent Conneliy of Kingston, who resigned May 20, 1963.

The posts carry no salary.

Rockefeller also appointed Mrs. Gertrude Ertel Schomer of (142 Washington Ave.) Kingston, as a member of the board of visitors to Wassaic State School for a term ending Dec. 31, 1964.

Mrs. Schomer succeeds Miss Alice M. Scardefield, of Kingston, who died May 6, 1963.

Members of the board of visitors serve without salary.

NEW YORK (AP)—Ideas on how to cut unemployment are almost as numerous as persons out of work. Everyone is against large - scale unemployment. But often he's also against the other fellow's plan for making more jobs.

All Have Ideas

On the same day this week that the secretary of labor was making a plea for cutting down overtime to spread the work, labor leaders were advocating shorter work weeks with the same goal in view, and the president of the nation's second largest bank was saying both schemes were unsound and more harmful than helpful.

Tax cut advocates were sure their goal would solve the problem by boosting the economy. Some union leaders were saying higher wage scales would do the trick better by getting the money where it counts.

Government economists were urging labor and management to work closer on all problems, chronic or acute, including the role of automation in the loss of jobs.

Some saw more education and discouragement of student drop-outs as the cure. And plans for retraining those whose jobs had been eliminated were as varied in size and scope as they were numerous.

Earlier retirements appealed to many in labor ranks—especially the younger ones. The United Automobile Workers Union was reported studying a scheme whereby the work week of workers over the age of 60 would be progressively shortened. This would let the older worker "get used to retirement ahead of time" — and provide more of the available work for the younger ones.

Longer Steel Vacations

The steel industry is trying longer vacations for senior workers.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz' assault on the recent increase in overtime when so many are out of work was in support of an administration plan to set higher rates for overtime in industries where it figured that that would make employers create more jobs instead. But the secretary was against the plan of many union labor leaders to cut the official work week to 35 hours from 40.

In the auto industry overtime averaged 5.4 hours last October. The union figured wiping that out would add 60,000 jobs.

Wirtz, looking at office jobs, said 1.5 million clerical workers currently work 41 or more hours a week while 400,000 others are looking for office jobs. The administration contends that making overtime too expensive would create more jobs.

Called Defeatist Approach

But David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, told a Detroit audience that raising overtime pay from time and a half to double time was a defeatist approach, and a 35-hour week would also be inadequate.

Many employers have taken the same line: Double time pay for overtime would increase costs without creating many jobs, since much overtime is on an emergency basis to meet a rush of orders, equipment breakdowns or worker absenteeism. If it cost too much the employer was more likely just to eliminate it, thereby losing the order or delaying shipment; the worker would lose the extra pay he now gets at times; the consumer might have to pay higher prices because of higher costs.

Why Scramble for a Million!

Privileges Are Varied For U.S. Pensioners

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Why aren't there more financially successful people in America?

If it is true, as much of the rest of the world suspects, that we are a dollar-mad nation, why aren't more of us rich? While as a country we are astonishingly wealthy, the individual man of vast wealth is still something of a rarity to most of us.

The favorite native American legend is the Horatio Alger success story, the tale of the poor boy who claws and paws his way to the big money by hard work and other virtues.

Because of this rags-to-riches legend, foreigners often conclude that this is the main goal and dream of most Americans —to become Horatio Alger-type heroes themselves.

The chief goal of most Americans is better expressed in the popular wisecrack, "I don't want to be a millionaire—I just want to live like one."

Many of us enjoy creature comforts unavailable to millionaires only a generation or so ago, and all of us have pleasures unknown even to kings of the 18th century.

Have Edge on Greats

The average U.S. old age pensioner today owns a better-fitting pair of false teeth than King George III could buy with all the gold in the British treasury. He can also sit at home and watch a baseball game on television, a privilege never achieved by Genghis Khan, Peter the Great of Russia, or Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

There is no mystery about becoming a millionaire. It is a wide open secret.

Dozens of millionaires have written memoirs in which they clearly chart the path to great personal wealth.

The trouble with all these recipes is that they point inevitably to the old truism—you don't get something for nothing.

To make a million dollars the hard way, you have to sacrifice something else—leisure, friendship, loafing, or sporting with Amaryllis in the shade.

Hardly Worth Gain

Some millionaires later in life believe the great concentration of effort that made them rich was worthwhile. Others think what they lost was hardly worth the gain. But few really yearn to be poor again.

The reason why there aren't more millionaire Americans is that most Americans think the price tag required is too high. Money isn't really that important to them. They'd rather spend the time being with their families, drinking, bowling, chasing girls, or going hunting or fishing.

Plant Experimentations

Experiments with plants have led to the conclusion that plants exposed to blue, green, red, white and yellow lights at night grow larger and sometimes develop more blooms.

INSURANCE AGENTS OFFICERS—New officers of Local 93, Insurance Agents International Union (AFL) assume duties at the annual installation dinner held last week at Tommy's Restaurant, High Street. They are Charles Hoffay, treasurer; Thomas Beckert, secretary; Frank Stauble, outgoing president; John Nelson, incoming president and William Farrell, vice president. Guest of honor Louis Robinson of Saugerties, retired agent was installing officer. The outgoing president was commended for his service to the organization which is comprised of Prudential agents of the Kingston District and the offices in Phoenicia and Saugerties. Nelson outlined the union's plans for the coming year.

Engineer Week Being Observed

National Engineers' Week is being observed this week by the engineering profession.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has by proclamation proclaimed the observance in honor of the "skill, resourcefulness, and imagination of the American engineer" who has played "a major role in the growth of this nation."

"National Engineers' Week served to remind us all that the engineering profession offers unprecedented opportunities for energetic, able creative young men and women to provide leadership in the exciting and important tasks of today and tomorrow, and as designer and innovators to contribute to man's highest and noblest aspirations," the President's proclamation concludes.

The Ulster County Chapter of New York State Society of Professional Engineers is an affiliate of the National Society.

Membership of the Ulster County Chapter include members employed in the following fields of work:

New York State Department of Public Works; New York City Board of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity; Ulster County Department of Highways; International Business Machine Corporation; engineers in private practice and others.

The National Society is made up of more than 60,000 professional engineers in all technical branches who are registered to practice engineering in accordance with the laws of their states and territories. They are engineers in private practice, and engineers in industry, education and government service. The organization was founded in 1934. The publication of the monthly "American Engineer" magazine has a circulation of over 70,000 copies and is one of the most widely circulated monthly engineering publications.

ONE MAN'S MEAT

Wiping out starvation and malnutrition in the world would be a difficult enough matter if it only involved spreading the knowledge of modern farming methods, improving distribution or curbing runaway population growth.

The goal is made immeasurably more elusive because of a factor often overlooked—religious and superstitious taboos concerning food.

Half the children born in central Africa die before the age of five, writes Gwen Schultz in "Today's Health." In this same area of the continent, milk is looked on as a vile body waste. Some think it a sin to drink milk. Other groups believe milk will make women sterile. Many Latin-American mothers believe a sick child should not be given milk.

Numerous peoples in eastern and southern Asia, where cattle are in abundance, also reject milk. In many places, cattle are status symbols and are seldom killed for food.

India has one-tenth of the world's cattle. Not only are they sacred to the Hindus but so are all other animals.

The pig is shunned by Moslems and Jews, as is well known. The latter also forbid the eating of shellfish or meat and dairy products at the same meal.

In parts of Asia and Africa, eggs are considered to be excrement, Eating them will destroy one's fertility or potency.

Fish is one of the cheapest and best sources of protein, yet many starving people reject it. In some parts of Africa fish are considered unclean and possessed of evil spirits.

Lest Westerners shake their heads in disbelief, it should be recalled how the Irish during the 18th-century potato famine and Europeans after World War II rejected American corn because they thought it was fit only for animals.

Westerners have their own food taboos and often impose them on people they are trying to help. Monkeys, bats, rats, termites, and other such things may be unpalatable to us but they provide valuable proteins whose loss the bringers of civilization do not always replace.

Sophisticated cultures are also spreading the belief that breastfeeding is vulgar and just not done. Thus infants are being weaned earlier to the starchy diet of their elders, which eventually shortens their lives.

"Do unto others" is not the uncomplicated rule it seems to be.

CITIZEN'S OBLIGATION

The reputation of George Washington, in these latter times, is rather like an heroic statue bedizened with odd bits of finery that hide its true nature. The popular view of Washington tends to obscure his greater significance as a prime mover in developing and strengthening the concept of national union.

Much has been made of Washington's caution, in his farewell address, against entangling alliances with foreign powers. The wisdom of this counsel in an era when we were a small, weak nation no longer has much force. But what the first president had to say about preserving the Union through adherence to the fundamental law on which the Union is based is as pertinent now as it was in 1796.

Consider these remarks about the citizen's obligation toward his government: "Respect for its authority, compliance with its laws, acquiescence in its measures, are duties enjoined by the fundamental maxims of true liberty. The basis of our political systems is the right of the people to make and to alter their constitutions of government. But the Constitution which at any time exists, till changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all. The very idea of the power and the right of the people to establish government presupposes the duty of every individual to obey the established government."

This is in essence a championing of the concept of due process. That is a key ingredient of the mortar that holds the Union together. The anniversary of Washington's birth is a good time to ponder how his words apply to our more complex day in which the basic domestic problem is much the same as when Washington spoke.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith may not have the money and support that some other presidential candidates enjoy, but she is one up on them in one respect. She has a campaign song with a message: Leave it to the girls! It's a catchy tune, but we have a hunch it won't catch many votes.

JOHNSON SHOULD BLESS HIS CRITICS

When President Lyndon Johnson sounded off against the "bellyachers" who refuse to remain "calm" in the face of the Panama, South Vietnam, Zanzibar, Tanganyika, Cyprus, Guantanamo and de Gaulle-Red China crises, he was giving in to his greatest weakness, which is an inability to hide sensitivity to criticism. The unfortunate part of this particular outburst is that it didn't distinguish between the President's friendly well-wishers and his enemies nor, for that matter, did it reckon with the fact that it is sometimes of great value to have criticism even from those who are trying to get a man's scalp. This is especially true when it comes to criticism of foreign policy. Sometimes one needs one's home-grown enemies here in order to deal with one's enemies abroad. There was Barry Goldwater's attack on the Administration's handling of the Guantanamo business, for example.

Goldwater said, bluntly, that we ought to send the Marines in to turn on the water faucet. Whether this would be a good thing or not at this stage of events is arguable. The Marines might not have what it takes to face the eight or ten thousand Russians in Cuba's Oriente Province. But, whether it was sensible or not, Goldwater's reaction presented Johnson with a first-rate counter in the necessary game of psychological warfare. Simply because Goldwater was ultra-tough, it enabled Lyndon Johnson to be medium-tough with less fear that Fidel Castro might react with still another disconcerting move.

It is a mistake, ever, to think that foreign policy is made primarily by a nation's diplomats or Department of External Affairs. Foreign policy is a resultant of many forces, both internal and external. It must reckon with a nation's vision of its own place in the world on the one hand, and on the possibilities of making that vision a reality, on the other.

If politics, in foreign policy, ends at the water's edge, nobody in the White House would have the least idea of either the nation's thinking about itself or its willingness to overcome difficulties in asserting its desires.

Johnson's own thinking on foreign affairs has always been medium-tough in the past. In 1960, when he was campaigning for the Presidential nomination, he said he wouldn't apologize to Khrushchev for the U-2. In the Bay of Pigs crisis, he was all for providing the anti-Castro Cubans with air strike support. In the missile crisis, he argued for getting the Soviet troops and technicians out of Cuba along with the missiles. In putting Thomas Mann at the head of U.S.-Latin American affairs, he chose a man who had been instrumental in throwing the Communists out of Guatemala. This particular columnist-critic likes Johnson's reaction to foreign affairs because it hasn't been timid. But no President can be even medium-tough if what the population gives him to work with is merely "calmness."

"Calmness" in a time of reverses abroad would be interpreted by every single foreign office in the world as a sign that the U.S. had lost its ability to react. It would be taken as an indication that our bones are ready to be picked.

Now, if only because he is a Texan I am sure that Johnson wishes to convey no such impression. If he can only forget his thin skin for a moment, I am sure he will see the value of those who "bellyache" about Castro, or Panama, or de Gaulle. The existence of the "bellyachers" is evidence of the old "Don't Tread On Me" spirit. And Johnson needs to be able to point to the existence of that spirit if he is to play his cards right in the diplomatic poker game.

Once upon a time, James Huneker, the art critic, had a most pernicious enemy. He prayed for that enemy's obliteration. Then, one day, the enemy obligingly died. Huneker found it tougher to write his own stuff without having the criticism of the enemy in mind. Soon he found himself wishing the enemy could be brought back to life. Lyndon Johnson might reflect with profit on this anecdote as he surveys the world from Guantanamo to Cyprus.

Shingles and Chicken Pox: Same Virus Causes Both

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The days when a shingle was something used to inflict corporal punishment on a wayward child are gone. But shingles is still a punishing disease.

It is caused by a virus. In children and young adults the same virus causes chicken pox. As age advances, the number of cases of shingles and the severity of the disease increases. Most persons who get this disease had chicken pox childhood and were exposed to it again two or three weeks before the onset.

The virus usually settles in one of the nerve trunks of the spinal cord and as it travels along the nerve the overlying skin becomes red and very painful. Blisters form, and after about 10 days they dry up and the disease subsides. Shingles can be a very serious disease when one of the nerve trunks in the head is involved as this may lead to loss of taste, facial paralysis and even blindness.

The older the victim, the more likelihood there is that, after the acute disease has subsided, a very annoying itching will persist for several months or even years.

Many drugs and even surgical procedures have been used to relieve the pain, but with disappointing results. Freezing the affected skin by spraying it with ethyl chloride has been found to give relief for some victims. This process usually has to be repeated several times. Recent reports indicate that other treatments are also promising. Abitylguanide, given by mouth before nerve damage has been done, apparently shortens the course of the disease and prevents severe complications.

Gamma globulin injected into the muscle every second day in the acute stage of the disease causes prompt subsidence of the pain and probably prevents the painful neuritic aftermath that plagues so many of the older victims.

In another study, a weak solution of procaine was injected into the vein. This treatment had to be repeated several times in some victims, but gave excellent results. The procedure is not without danger and must be carefully supervised by a doctor who has had experience with it.

What was once considered a condition for which nothing could be done is beginning to yield to modern medical methods.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Medical care for the aged emerges clearly now as the top priority item on President Johnson's 1964 "must" list—after civil rights and tax reduction.

The president himself has not yet struck off such a list, as his most immediate predecessors often did. But people around him suggest that any priority tabulation would include, besides the three items already set down:

The "war on poverty" package, including some education proposals.

New authorization funds for area redevelopment.

A mass transit program.

Some kind of omnibus housing bundle.

Youth employment proposals.

New wheat legislation.

A foreign aid bill close to budget requests.

In the view of some administration men, medicare is the perfect topic to occupy the House in a big way while the Senate undertakes its long and predictably stormy struggle over civil rights.

The prescription, as indicated by the President's health message, would be the same as proposed by the late John F. Kennedy: Hospital care for the aged, financed through social security taxes.

The pivot man in this matter is Democratic Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. If Johnson somehow can gain his support, medicare will find the necessary 13 committee votes for a favorable beginning verdict. Eleven are set now.

SHOULD THESE proposals continue to be mired in Ways and Means, the administration could turn back to the Senate for propulsive action.

The Senate killed medicare, 52 to 48, in midsummer of 1962. But since then the vote prospect for the administration has been improved materially by the 1962 election of Senators Birch Bayh of Indiana, Daniel Brewster of Maryland, George McGovern of South Dakota, Thomas McIntyre of New Hampshire, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

The narrow defeat of medicare in 1962 thus could become a razor-thin victory in the Senate in 1964.

Support by Mills obviously would give the proposals their maximum lift in a full House vote. Prior Senate passage would perhaps be the next best thing.

CRUCIAL Southern Democratic resistance in the House to health, housing and welfare measures has not really been gauged in a major test since the great civil rights crisis broke in 1963.

At the outset of the Kennedy administration, the resisters numbered between 60 and 65. Gradually the total was whittled to between 35 and 40. On a couple of notable occasions it fell below 30.

The question today is whether a backlash response among southerners nettled over the civil rights bill could hike that figure back toward old levels. Recent House action throttling the administration's new food stamp relief plan suggested such resentment.

Medicare, if it can get to the House floor, could provide the supreme test of the present state of conservative Democratic resistance.

Short of this, the gauge must be had from House decisions on the poverty package, proposed larger urban renewal effort and other housing items, mass transit, area redevelopment, youth employment. Bills on the last three have cleared the Senate but are bogged in the House Rules Committee. Others must start from scratch.

The U.S. Supreme Court And House Representation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States can certainly throw a monkey wrench into the machinery. Within the last two days, the country has been told by one of the justices that almost all of the members of the present House of Representatives may have been illegally elected and that this is what the latest Supreme Court opinion means.

Just what does this do to the validity of the legislation passed by this Congress? And what about the acts of previous Congresses which were elected in the very same way that the Supreme Court now denounces?

The nation has again been given an example of the almost incredible power which the Supreme Court of the United States assumes to exercise over the other branches of the government merely by the use of what is called "judicial interpretation."

For many decades, whenever a fundamental change in the existing system was deemed necessary by the people, they adopted an amendment to the Constitution in the manner prescribed in that document. But this course isn't being followed today.

Justice John M. Harlan explained—more clearly than any layman could—the meaning of the 6-to-3 decision rendered by the court this week on the subject of reapportionment of Congressional districts. In his minority opinion, he said:

"I had not expected to witness the day when the Supreme Court of the United States would render a decision which casts grave doubt on the constitutionality of the composition of the House of Representatives. It is not an exaggeration to say that such is the effect of today's decision. The court's holding that the Constitution requires states to select representatives either by elections at large or by elections in districts composed 'as nearly as practicable' of equal population places in jeopardy the seats of almost all the members of the present House of Representatives."

Justice Harlan pointed out that in the last Congressional election in 1962, Representatives from 42 states were elected from Congressional districts and that in all but five of those states there was a sizable inequality in the population of the districts. He then added:

"Thus, today's decision impugns the validity of the election of 398 Representatives from 37 states, leaving a 'Constitutional' House of 37 members now sitting."

There are many arguments in favor of changing the system of representation in Congress so that a state's population will be equitably divided into districts for picking members of the House of Representatives. But the real question today is not whether the districting system that has been used by any state is inequitable, but whether the Supreme Court shall prescribe the method of change. Justice Harlan called attention to the simple wording of the Constitution itself, which says:

"The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators."

Justice Harlan declared that "there is nothing to indicate any limitation whatsoever on this grant of plenary initial and supervisory power," and that the power thus granted by the Constitution to Congress and the states is exclusive.

Justice Hugo Black, who wrote the majority opinion, based his argument almost entirely on the wording of another section of the same article in the Constitution, which says that the Representatives shall be chosen "by the people of the several states." There is, however, no dispute about the right of the people to vote for members of Congress. The controversy arises over the method by which a state apportions its population into districts for the election of its Representatives in Congress.

For decades the Supreme Court steered away from any decision on this because it regarded it as a "political" question. This, incidentally has been given by the Supreme Court for nearly 100 years as its reason for refusing to rule whether the Fourteenth Amendment was fraudulently ratified.

Plainly there are defects in the present system of establishing Congressional districts, but this ought to be remedied by Constitutional amendment, which should clearly set forth a basis on which apportionment shall be made in order to prevent inequities. Justice Harlan said:

"The Constitution does not confer on the court blanket authority to step into every situation where the political branch may be thought to have fallen short. The stability of this institution ultimately depends not only upon its being alert to keep the other branches of government within Constitutional bounds but equally upon recognition of the limitations of the court's own functions in the Constitutional system. . . .

"By yielding to the demand for a judicial remedy in this instance, the court in my view does a disservice both to itself and to the broader values of our system of government."

No such sweeping indictment of the usurpation of power by the Supreme Court has been rendered by any justice in recent years. The principle that the Constitution can be amended only in the manner prescribed in that document itself has been brushed aside many times by the present Supreme Court. Never has it gone so far, however, as to issue a decision the effect of which, in the words of Justice Harlan, "is to declare Constitutionally defective the very composition of a coordinate branch of the Federal government."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

GRAND BAHAMA, B.W.I.—This was a sand dune a few years ago. It was 150 miles long, shaped like a boomerang. The sun was brassy. Jade waves darkened the white sand. The palms leaned like drunken women in Easter hats. There was a coral road. Native villages were strung on it as beads. Once, pirates hid here until the trade winds were right.

The Jolly Rogers are back. They wear $50 shoes and Sulka ties. They own private planes, and some of them own people. The dunes have come to life. Luxury and beauty and gambling have come to Grand Bahama. Translated into my idiom, this is bucks, broads and bones. Until a few years ago, there was nothing except the Jack Tar Hotel at West End, a tanker bunkering station at Freeport, and a missile-tracking tower.

Last year a Canadian named Louis Chesler bought the middle fifty miles of the island. It makes a big sand box. The Florida real estate broker felt that Mr. Chesler had 110,000 acres of nothing. Chesler is a big handsome man with wavy, graying hair and a lot of cocoanuts, none of which are on the trees.

Twice I had met this man, and on both occasions he laughed loud enough to tinkle the chandeliers. All I knew about him was that he was a millionaire promoter — Seven Arts Film Productions, General Development Corporation — and he had a lot of sporting blood, most of which seemed to be racing at top pressure.

Two years ago, when Chesler first bought the middle of Grand Bahama, it did not seem compatible with his position as chairman of the Board of General Development, because GD sells lots in Florida subdivisions like Port Charlotte, Port St. Lucie and Port Malabar. It was like an architect going into the wrecking business.

Grand Bahama is part of the British West Indies; the island closest to mainland U. S. From Palm Beach to Grand Bahama is 55 miles. To sell Florida while selling Grand Baham would appear to be unfair competition with oneself. However, it is now plain that Chesler hopes to sell a couple of million lots in Florida to sun-hunters of small and medium income, and Bahama lots to those who can afford the British gaming group.

What he achieved constitutes the most adroit trick of 1963. He got a gambling license. It doesn't sound like much, unless you understand that there is no gambling in the British Bahamas. One must also realize that the Bay Street Boys in Nassau control the islands, and they prefer to have American dollars funnel into Nassau, rather than into the dead, deserted dunes of Grand Bahama. Also, influential men in Florida opposed the plan.

Chesler not only got his gambling license, but he got it for ten years on an "experimental" basis. This means that no one else can get one. An experiment is an experiment. The Canadian selected an area adjacent to the town of Freeport, and began to build.

He was gambling on a prodigious scale: $8,500,000 for a beautiful hotel and casino on the beach; dredging a marina for yachts; building a golf course and signing Craig Wood to direct its operations; building a swimming pool within 40 feet of high tide; putting in an airport; attracting Atlas Cement to build a $50,000,000 plant; watching banks and clinics and even churches grow.

The whole thing is called Lucaya and, when it opened a month or so ago, the press was invited for a look. Chesler had stated that he wanted Lucaya to be the "Riviera" of America, and one reporter expected French croupiers. Most of the bow-tied men who work the gambling tables are clipped British or pure Las Vegas.

The shirred Brussels drapes hang right; the tropical gardens around the lobby look like tame jungles; the sun shines when Chesler orders it; and the veteran Charles Craddock runs the hotel. In promotional ventures of this size, it is customary to find more press agents than cash customers. There was but one: Allan Witwer, who specializes in writing motion pictures, magazine articles, and the first half of good novels. In New York, Bernard Glazer, formerly of Coronet Magazine, is also promoting Lucaya.

Kelly and I visited the Lucayan Room, a circular place with an orchestral combination moving on a round table. The food was fine; but the stained glass windows disturbed me. I didn't know whether to sit or genuflect. The architect, A. Herbert Mathes, built a lighthouse too. At the casino, we found the usual yacht owners jammed shoulder-to-shoulder around the roulette tables. As always twice as many women gamblers as men.

Mackay Airlines and Grand Bahama Airways fly to Freeport daily; ships sail from Miami and Palm Beach for Grand Bahama and make it in under six hours. One leaves for Florida at 4 a. m. A man named Jelly Wehby tried the craps table three nights and walked out with a $29,000 profit, but I don't count this because Mr. Jelly is a professional who is called "the man with the golden arm."

Chesler's gamble has not yet paid off. But no one can doubt that he has found gold in the dunes without digging . . .

ONE MAN'S MEAT

Wiping out starvation and malnutrition in the world would be a difficult enough matter if it only involved spreading the knowledge of modern farming methods, improving distribution or curbing runaway population growth.

The goal is made immeasurably more elusive because of a factor often overlooked—religious and superstitious taboos concerning food.

Half the children born in central Africa die before the age of five, writes Gwen Schultz in "Today's Health." In this same area of the continent, milk is looked on as a vile body waste. Some think it a sin to drink milk. Other groups believe milk will make women sterile. Many Latin-American mothers believe a sick child should not be given milk.

Numerous peoples in eastern and southern Asia, where cattle are in abundance, also reject milk. In many places, cattle are status symbols and are seldom killed for food.

India has one-tenth of the world's cattle. Not only are they sacred to the Hindus but so are all other animals.

The pig is shunned by Moslems and Jews, as is well known. The latter also forbid the eating of shellfish or meat and dairy products at the same meal.

In parts of Asia and Africa, eggs are considered to be excrement, Eating them will destroy one's fertility or potency.

Fish is one of the cheapest and best sources of protein, yet many starving people reject it. In some parts of Africa fish are considered unclean and possessed of evil spirits.

Lest Westerners shake their heads in disbelief, it should be recalled how the Irish during the 18th-century potato famine and Europeans after World War II rejected American corn because they thought it was fit only for animals.

Westerners have their own food taboos and often impose them on people they are trying to help. Monkeys, bats, rats, termites, and other such things may be unpalatable to us but they provide valuable proteins whose loss the bringers of civilization do not always replace.

Sophisticated cultures are also spreading the belief that breastfeeding is vulgar and just not done. Thus infants are being weaned earlier to the starchy diet of their elders, which eventually shortens their lives.

"Do unto others" is not the uncomplicated rule it seems to be.

New wheat legislation.

A foreign aid bill close to budget requests.

In the view of some administration men, medicare is the perfect topic to occupy the House in a big way while the Senate undertakes its long and predictably stormy struggle over civil rights.

The prescription, as indicated by the President's health message, would be the same as proposed by the late John F. Kennedy: Hospital care for the aged, financed through social security taxes.

The pivot man in this matter is Democratic Rep. Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. If Johnson somehow can gain his support, medicare will find the necessary 13 committee votes for a favorable beginning verdict. Eleven are set now.

SHOULD THESE proposals continue to be mired in Ways and Means, the administration could turn back to the Senate for propulsive action.

The Senate killed medicare, 52 to 48, in midsummer of 1962. But since then the vote prospect for the administration has been improved materially by the 1962 election of Senators Birch Bayh of Indiana, Daniel Brewster of Maryland, George McGovern of South Dakota, Thomas McIntyre of New Hampshire, Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin and Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.

The narrow defeat of medicare in 1962 thus could become a razor-thin victory in the Senate in 1964.

Support by Mills obviously would give the proposals their maximum lift in a full House vote. Prior Senate passage would perhaps be the next best thing.

CRUCIAL Southern Democratic resistance in the House to health, housing and welfare measures has not really been gauged in a major test since the great civil rights crisis broke in 1963.

At the outset of the Kennedy administration, the resisters numbered between 60 and 65. Gradually the total was whittled to between 35 and 40. On a couple of notable occasions it fell below 30.

The question today is whether a backlash response among southerners nettled over the civil rights bill could hike that figure back toward old levels. Recent House action throttling the administration's new food stamp relief plan suggested such resentment.

Medicare, if it can get to the House floor, could provide the supreme test of the present state of conservative Democratic resistance.

Short of this, the gauge must be had from House decisions on the poverty package, proposed larger urban renewal effort and other housing items, mass transit, area redevelopment, youth employment. Bills on the last three have cleared the Senate but are bogged in the House Rules Committee. Others must start from scratch.

The U.S. Supreme Court And House Representation

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court of the United States can certainly throw a monkey wrench into the machinery. Within the last two days, the country has been told by one of the justices that almost all of the members of the present House of Representatives may have been illegally elected and that this is what the latest Supreme Court opinion means.

Just what does this do to the validity of the legislation passed by this Congress? And what about the acts of previous Congresses which were elected in the very same way that the Supreme Court now denounces?

The nation has again been given an example of the almost incredible power which the Supreme Court of the United States assumes to exercise over the other branches of the government merely by the use of what is called "judicial interpretation."

For many decades, whenever a fundamental change in the existing system was deemed necessary by the people, they adopted an amendment to the Constitution in the manner prescribed in that document. But this course isn't being followed today.

Justice John M. Harlan explained—more clearly than any layman could—the meaning of the 6-to-3 decision rendered by the court this week on the subject of reapportionment of Congressional districts. In his minority opinion, he said:

"I had not expected to witness the day when the Supreme Court of the United States would render a decision which casts grave doubt on the constitutionality of the composition of the House of Representatives. It is not an exaggeration to say that such is the effect of today's decision. The court's holding that the Constitution requires states to select representatives either by elections at large or by elections in districts composed 'as nearly as practicable' of equal population places in jeopardy the seats of almost all the members of the present House of Representatives."

Justice Harlan pointed out that in the last Congressional election in 1962, Representatives from 42 states were elected from Congressional districts and that in all but five of those states there was a sizable inequality in the population of the districts. He then added:

"Thus, today's decision impugns the validity of the election of 398 Representatives from 37 states, leaving a 'Constitutional' House of 37 members now sitting."

There are many arguments in favor of changing the system of representation in Congress so that a state's population will be equitably divided into districts for picking members of the House of Representatives. But the real question today is not whether the districting system that has been used by any state is inequitable, but whether the Supreme Court shall prescribe the method of change. Justice Harlan called attention to the simple wording of the Constitution itself, which says:

"The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each state by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators."

Justice Harlan declared that "there is nothing to indicate any limitation whatsoever on this grant of plenary initial and supervisory power," and that the power thus granted by the Constitution to Congress and the states is exclusive.

Justice Hugo Black, who wrote the majority opinion, based his argument almost entirely on the wording of another section of the same article in the Constitution, which says that the Representatives shall be chosen "by the people of the several states." There is, however, no dispute about the right of the people to vote for members of Congress. The controversy arises over the method by which a state apportions its population into districts for the election of its Representatives in Congress.

For decades the Supreme Court steered away from any decision on this because it regarded it as a "political" question. This, incidentally has been given by the Supreme Court for nearly 100 years as its reason for refusing to rule whether the Fourteenth Amendment was fraudulently ratified.

Plainly there are defects in the present system of establishing Congressional districts, but this ought to be remedied by Constitutional amendment, which should clearly set forth a basis on which apportionment shall be made in order to prevent inequities. Justice Harlan said:

"The Constitution does not confer on the court blanket authority to step into every situation where the political branch may be thought to have fallen short. The stability of this institution ultimately depends not only upon its being alert to keep the other branches of government within Constitutional bounds but equally upon recognition of the limitations of the court's own functions in the Constitutional system. . . .

"By yielding to the demand for a judicial remedy in this instance, the court in my view does a disservice both to itself and to the broader values of our system of government."

No such sweeping indictment of the usurpation of power by the Supreme Court has been rendered by any justice in recent years. The principle that the Constitution can be amended only in the manner prescribed in that document itself has been brushed aside many times by the present Supreme Court. Never has it gone so far, however, as to issue a decision the effect of which, in the words of Justice Harlan, "is to declare Constitutionally defective the very composition of a coordinate branch of the Federal government."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

GRAND BAHAMA, B.W.I.—This was a sand dune a few years ago. It was 150 miles long, shaped like a boomerang. The sun was brassy. Jade waves darkened the white sand. The palms leaned like drunken women in Easter hats. There was a coral road. Native villages were strung on it as beads. Once, pirates hid here until the trade winds were right.

The Jolly Rogers are back. They wear $50 shoes and Sulka ties. They own private planes, and some of them own people. The dunes have come to life. Luxury and beauty and gambling have come to Grand Bahama. Translated into my idiom, this is bucks, broads and bones. Until a few years ago, there was nothing except the Jack Tar Hotel at West End, a tanker bunkering station at Freeport, and a missile-tracking tower.

Last year a Canadian named Louis Chesler bought the middle fifty miles of the island. It makes a big sand box. The Florida real estate broker felt that Mr. Chesler had 110,000 acres of nothing. Chesler is a big handsome man with wavy, graying hair and a lot of cocoanuts, none of which are on the trees.

Twice I had met this man, and on both occasions he laughed loud enough to tinkle the chandeliers. All I knew about him was that he was a millionaire promoter — Seven Arts Film Productions, General Development Corporation — and he had a lot of sporting blood, most of which seemed to be racing at top pressure.

Two years ago, when Chesler first bought the middle of Grand Bahama, it did not seem compatible with his position as chairman of the Board of General Development, because GD sells lots in Florida subdivisions like Port Charlotte, Port St. Lucie and Port Malabar. It was like an architect going into the wrecking business.

Grand Bahama is part of the British West Indies; the island closest to mainland U. S. From Palm Beach to Grand Bahama is 55 miles. To sell Florida while selling Grand Baham would appear to be unfair competition with oneself. However, it is now plain that Chesler hopes to sell a couple of million lots in Florida to sun-hunters of small and medium income, and Bahama lots to those who can afford the British gaming group.

What he achieved constitutes the most adroit trick of 1963. He got a gambling license. It doesn't sound like much, unless you understand that there is no gambling in the British Bahamas. One must also realize that the Bay Street Boys in Nassau control the islands, and they prefer to have American dollars funnel into Nassau, rather than into the dead, deserted dunes of Grand Bahama. Also, influential men in Florida opposed the plan.

Chesler not only got his gambling license, but he got it for ten years on an "experimental" basis. This means that no one else can get one. An experiment is an experiment. The Canadian selected an area adjacent to the town of Freeport, and began to build.

He was gambling on a prodigious scale: $8,500,000 for a beautiful hotel and casino on the beach; dredging a marina for yachts; building a golf course and signing Craig Wood to direct its operations; building a swimming pool within 40 feet of high tide; putting in an airport; attracting Atlas Cement to build a $50,000,000 plant; watching banks and clinics and even churches grow.

The whole thing is called Lucaya and, when it opened a month or so ago, the press was invited for a look. Chesler had stated that he wanted Lucaya to be the "Riviera" of America, and one reporter expected French croupiers. Most of the bow-tied men who work the gambling tables are clipped British or pure Las Vegas.

The shirred Brussels drapes hang right; the tropical gardens around the lobby look like tame jungles; the sun shines when Chesler orders it; and the veteran Charles Craddock runs the hotel. In promotional ventures of this size, it is customary to find more press agents than cash customers. There was but one: Allan Witwer, who specializes in writing motion pictures, magazine articles, and the first half of good novels. In New York, Bernard Glazer, formerly of Coronet Magazine, is also promoting Lucaya.

Kelly and I visited the Lucayan Room, a circular place with an orchestral combination moving on a round table. The food was fine; but the stained glass windows disturbed me. I didn't know whether to sit or genuflect. The architect, A. Herbert Mathes, built a lighthouse too. At the casino, we found the usual yacht owners jammed shoulder-to-shoulder around the roulette tables. As always twice as many women gamblers as men.

Mackay Airlines and Grand Bahama Airways fly to Freeport daily; ships sail from Miami and Palm Beach for Grand Bahama and make it in under six hours. One leaves for Florida at 4 a. m. A man named Jelly Wehby tried the craps table three nights and walked out with a $29,000 profit, but I don't count this because Mr. Jelly is a professional who is called "the man with the golden arm."

Chesler's gamble has not yet paid off. But no one can doubt that he has found gold in the dunes without digging . . .

New Yorkers In Washington

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although it is almost a year since the Supreme Court decision banning official prayer and Bible reading in public schools, many New York congressmen report steady and sometimes heavy mail on the subject.

Most mail urges passage of a constitutional amendment to permit prayer in the public schools.

Taxes Replace Prayer

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester Republican, said he received more mail on prayer —about 15,000 letters and postcards—than on any other subject last year. About 90 per cent of it favored prayer in the public schools.

Taxes replaced prayer as the top issue in Keating's office this January but several House members say it is still their most active legislative issue, at least as far as their mail is concerned.

Foremost among the members is Rep. Frank J. Becker, Long Island Republican, who initiated the as yet unsuccessful move to bring a prayer resolution to the House floor for debate.

His office reports it receives about 100 letters daily from all parts of the country, favoring the proposed constitutional amendment.

Becker's petition to discharge the House Judiciary Committee from further consideration of the proposed amendment and bring the measure to the House floor has been signed by 134 House members, 83 shy of the number needed to discharge.

The Supreme Court's 1962 decision against a prayer suggested by the New York Board of Regents triggered the uproar over prayer in the public schools.

Most on Prayer Issue

The prayer issue never has been the top mailbag attraction in the office of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., where civil rights and health care for the aged are consistent leader.

But most of the mail received recently by Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, Albany Democrat, has been on the prayer issue, and for Rep. Howard W. Robison, Owego Republican, religion is a double-barreled issue in his mailbag. His leading mail subject is a purely local issue—the cancellation of paid religious broadcasting in the Binghamton area—followed by prayer in the public schools.

The House passed recently a bill to compensate New York's Seneca Indians more than $20 million for construction of the Alleghany River reservoir which will flood much of their Allegany reservation. The bill's number is H.R. (for House of Representatives) 1794.

The treaty that gave the Senecas title to their land forever was signed on Nov. 11, 1794.

Missing Assemblyman Is on West Coast

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—The wife of Assemblyman Robert Hatch Jr., reported to be missing since Feb. 7, says her husband has been staying with relatives on the West Coast.

A 13-state missing-person alarm was cancelled Tuesday after Mrs. Marie [illegible]tch reported to police that she had heard from her 42-year-old husband.

Mrs. Hatch said her husband would return home in a few days.

"He's been suffering from nerves," she told a reporter.

She reported her husband's absence to State Police Monday.

Shriver Takes Oath

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sargent Shriver was sworn in Tuesday as a special assistant to President Johnson to direct the administration's antipoverty campaign.

Johnson and members of the Cabinet were on hand as Herbert Miller, White House administrative officer, administered the oath to Shriver.

"Now you can officially wage war and make peace at the same time," Johnson told Shriver who will continue to direct the Peace Corps.

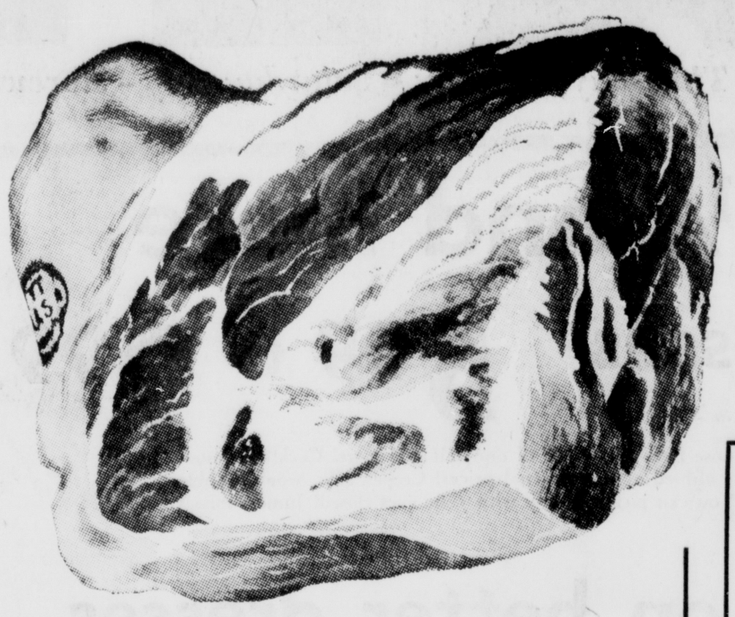

NAMED AFTER BEER: This choice cut of beef got its name from the place where it was traditionally served. In the early days of New York this cut of beefsteak was quite often served in taverns where porter (a very dark-brown beer) was sold.

Smothers Bros. Riding Crest to Tidy Fortunes

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Yes, Virginia, the name is really Smothers and they are really brothers. The Smothers Brothers are riding the crest of the folk craze to a pair of tidy fortunes.

Within three short years, the brothers have played most of the television variety shows many times over and gleaned gold from concerts throughout the land—100 in 1963. The jug-eared, staring-eyed pair net as much as $7,500 for a night's work.

Different From Others

What do they do? Sing folk songs. But they are different from the guitar-strummers with whom the campuses and coffee houses abound. Their stock in trade is offbeat, between-song patter that seems to be created at the moment. It isn't. Their ad libs are perfected by weeks and months of polishing.

The Smothers were back in the Hollywood base of operations after a month of needed rest. Tom, the older, wacky brother, lives in Hollywood with his bride. Dick, two years younger at 25, makes his home with wife and baby in Salinas, Calif.

"Business has been good," reported Tom, who has a sound head despite his stage demeanor. "In one week we were paid $7,500 for not doing our second Judy Garland show (she decided to do it alone). On one day's notice we did a Hollywood Palace show for $7,500. We got $3,500 for appearing at the Troubador—not our usual price, but our agent wanted us to play a local date so he could bring in people from the studios."

Talk of Movies, TV

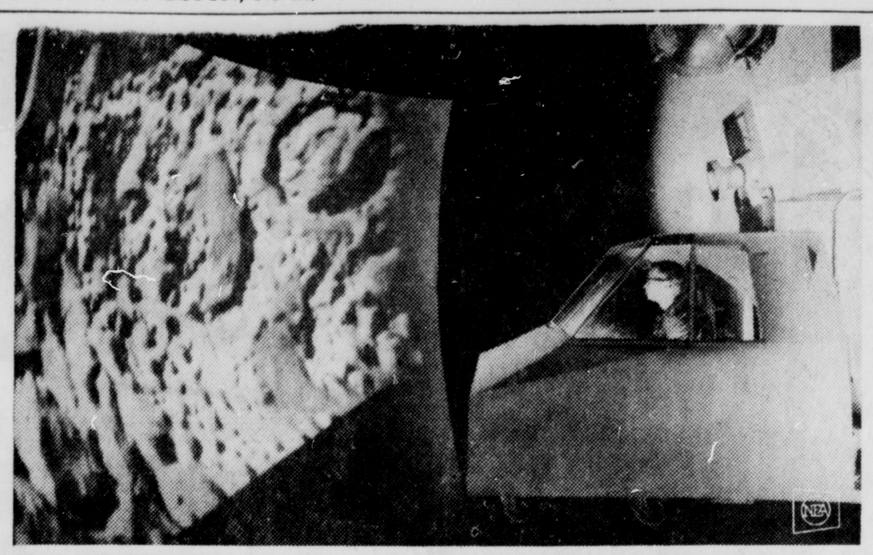

There's talk of movies and television series for the boys, and they'd like to be able to stay in one place for a while. But they have no real complaints, and no wonder. They've come far from their $4-per-night engagements at a San Jose State College hangout.

As with many folknicks — Kingston Trio, Randy Sparks, etc. — the Smothers got their first break in a San Francisco nitery. Their first splash in the bigtime was on Jack Paar's nightly show three years ago.

"Paar kept telling our agent he didn't like folk singers—except Burl Ives," said Dick. "But one night he had a cancelation and we went on. Everything worked right that night. We played the Paar show 13 times and every time he said he didn't like folk singers—except Burl Ives."

Representation

According to the first census of the United States in 1790, each member of Congress representend 33,000 persons; the present ratio is one representative for every 430,000 persons.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 19 the 50th day of 1964. There are 316 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, what the Marine Corps calls its toughest battle in history started on the tiny Pacific island of Iwo Jima when the first troops landed after more than 70 days of shelling had failed to soften up Japanese positions. It took four frightful days of unending fighting before the American flag was planted atop Mt. Suribachi.

On this date:

In 1803, the 17th State, Ohio, was admitted to the union.

In 1878, Thomas A. Edison patented a new device called the phonograph.

In 1915, British and French forces bombarded the Dardanelles.

In 1942, Japanese bombers made their first attack on the Australian mainland.

In 1946, the British government announced a delegation would leave for India to help work out a plan for her independence.

Ten years ago ... The Army rejected a demand by Sen. Joseph McCarthy to disclose the names of persons connected with the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, described by McCarthy as a Communist leader.

Five years ago ... Former Teamsters Union President Dave Beck was convicted in federal court in Tacoma, Wash., on charges of income tax evasion.

One year ago ... President Betancourt of Venezuela arrived in Washington for a four-day visit and was welcomed by Prsident Kennedy.

New York was the first state to require dog licenses, in 1894.

Heart Attack Fatal To Former Newsman

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Wilson Sullivan, former city editor of the Albany Times-Union and a prominent realtor, died Tuesday night after suffering a heart attack at an Albany Realty Board meeting. He was 60 years old.

Sullivan was city editor of the Times-Union from 1926 until 1933. He had started his newspaper career on the now-defunct Albany Evening News in 1921.

In 1933, he founded O'Conner-Sullivan Inc., the Albany real estate firm of which he was chairman when he died.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Elizabeth, and two sons, James, 12, and Joseph, 9.

It took four frightful days of unending fighting before the American flag was planted atop Mt. Suribachi.

On this date:

In 1803, the 17th State, Ohio, was admitted to the union.

In 1878, Thomas A. Edison patented a new device called the phonograph.

In 1915, British and French forces bombarded the Dardanelles.

In 1942, Japanese bombers made their first attack on the Australian mainland.

In 1946, the British government announced a delegation would leave for India to help work out a plan for her independence.

Ten years ago ... The Army rejected a demand by Sen. Joseph McCarthy to disclose the names of persons connected with the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, described by McCarthy as a Communist leader.

Five years ago ... Former Teamsters Union President Dave Beck was convicted in federal court in Tacoma, Wash., on charges of income tax evasion.

One year ago ... President Betancourt of Venezuela arrived in Washington for a four-day visit and was welcomed by Prsident Kennedy.

New York was the first state to require dog licenses, in 1894.

STRATFORD - UPON - AVON (AP) — Scholarly studies into the life and times of Stratford's famous son are being a $100,000 boost by the Ford Foundation during this quadricentennial year.

The American grant is to the University of Birmingham's Shakespeare Institute here, which provides research facilities for graduate students at work on advanced academic degrees in Elizabethan drama.

Heart Attack Fatal To Former Newsman

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Wilson Sullivan, former city editor of the Albany Times-Union and a prominent realtor, died Tuesday night after suffering a heart attack at an Albany Realty Board meeting. He was 60 years old.

Sullivan was city editor of the Times-Union from 1926 until 1933. He had started his newspaper career on the now-defunct Albany Evening News in 1921.

In 1933, he founded O'Conner-Sullivan Inc., the Albany real estate firm of which he was chairman when he died.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Elizabeth, and two sons, James, 12, and Joseph, 9.

A Regular Community

LAWRENCE, Neb. (AP) — When Jack Lemke started tearing down an old farmhouse he discovered the place wasn't vacant after all.

Living beneath the building were 21 racoons, two skunks and a tomcat.

WAKE UP RARIN' TO GO

Without Nagging Backache

Now! You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain—you want relief—want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink—often setting up a restless uncomfortable feeling.

Doan's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. by speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains, 2. by soothing effect on bladder irritation. 3. by mild diuretic action tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years. For convenience, ask for the large size, Get Doan's Pills today!

12-Inch Snow Is Predicted for Areas of State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Much of New York State grappled today with heavy, blinding snow that threatened to mount to a foot in some areas by nightfall. Highway and air travel was disrupted, some flights were cancelled and many schools were closed.

The Weather Bureau said the eastern part of the state was bearing the brunt of the coastal attack. Nearly a foot had fallen before noon at Prattsville, in the Catskills.

The bureau predicted general flurries tonight and tomorrow.

The storm hit the southern area during the night and gusted northward.

The fall in New York City was lighter than in areas to the north, but high winds were blamed for power failures in The Bronx section of the city.

In Albany, after four inches had fallen, Gov. Rockefeller decided to drive, instead of flying, to New Hampshire to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. The Albany Airport was closed.

The storm came in the wake of an onslaught Sunday that buried some sections in as much as 16 inches of snow.

The Weather Bureau said the eastern portion could expect another visit at the end of this week.

Motor Firm Fined $25 for Sticker Sans Inspection

DeMicco Motors Inc., of 327 Broadway, summoned late last year on a charge dealing with "issuing an inspection certificate without making an inspection" was fined $25 today by Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney Jr.

Domenick DeMicco, of the corporation, which was represented by Attorney Hubert A. Richter, pleaded guilty. Robert A. MacKinnon appeared for the district attorney's office.

A city court summons was issued in December based on information of State Trooper E. J. Lenihan. The charge dates back to Nov. 18.

Joseph T. Aiello, 21, of RD 1, Box 460, Kingston, charged with speeding last Nov 16, pleaded guilty today to the charge of failure to keep right, and was fined $10. Attorney John E. Gotelli appeared for him.

John F. Coughlin, 22, of 68 Broadway, summoned on stop-sign and speeding charges, pleaded guilty, and was fined $5 and $10.

John R. Kelly, 24, of 65 Howland Avenue, found guilty of a one-way street violation Tuesday, was fined $5.

Seek Young Girl Who Left Bus En Route to School

Search continued today for Carol Tropp, 15, of New York City, who left a bus on the State Thruway at the Malden service area at 4 p. m. Tuesday while being taken to the Hudson Training School for girls.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling of Kingston station, said the girl was in custody and on her way to the state institution, when she disappeared. She was reportedly seen talking to a couple of young men who left in a Connecticut-licensed car.

The girl had been in the Youth Home in New York City. She was described as follows: weight, 125 pounds; wearing a blue coat, plaid dress; black hair with blond streaks combed upwards.

Teletype alarms were sent out asking authorities to assist in apprehending the missing girl. State police and authorities from Saugerties conducted the local search.

Baker Pleads Fifth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bobby Baker refused today on the basis of his Fifth Amendment protection and other constiutional grounds to surrender subpoenaed documents to the Senate Rules Committee.

Baker was with the committee in a closed session for more than an hour. When he and his lawyers came out, they told a crowd of newsmen jammed in a Senate corridor of Baker's stand.

Excuse Two . . .

women, were dismissed Tuesday, Belli said he is "finally and utterly convinced that a jury cannot be had here."

But Wade said "two of the four actually did qualify."

"They had formed no preconceived opinions as to Ruby's gult or innocence, and they said they could vote the death penalty," Wade said. "Two out of four is above average."

The two to whom he referred were rejected by Belli on a peremptory challenge — meaning he was not required to say why he refused to accept them.

Ruby is charged with the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, two days after the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas last Nov. 22. Oswald had been accused of killing the president.

Seldom Talks

Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip club, seldom talks with anyone at the defense table. Entering or leaving the courtroom, he walks rapidly, looking neither to right nor left.

In effect, Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown ruled against moving Ruby's trial last Thursday, after several days of testimony about the outlook for getting a jury.

Belli can renew his motion for a change of venue, however.

He said he also will continue to argue that anyone who witnesses the shooting of Oswald on televsion is ineligible to serve as a juror.

Belli contends Texas law forbids any witness to a crime from sitting on the jury before which the crime is tried. He says the television viewers of last Nov. 24, when Ruby killed Oswald, were "witnesses."

No Compromise

make such desegregation mandatory in a selected field.

If he can't get the Senate to accept his voluntary plan, Dirksen said he will consider falling back on an alternative proposal for compulsory integration of businesses offering food and lodging to interstate travelers.

Although Southern opponents of the House bill plan to talk at length in an effort to prevent any Senate progress toward its passage, they probably would be tempted to suspend their vocal marathon long enough to permit a vote on any proposal to water down its terms.

If that happens, a majority of the Senate would decide whether the controversial accommodations section should be changed and thus open the way to other possible alterations in the measure's provisions.

Southerners were called into a strategy session today by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Could Risk Defeat

Johnson has demonstrated the ability to wrangle the votes needed for a majority. But he could risk final defeat of the bill if he fails to come to some kind of terms with Dirksen and the substantial number of Republicans who follow the Illinois senator.

It has been obvious to all concerned that Humphrey and Democratic Leader Mike Manfield of Montana now do not believe they can muster the needed support of two-thirds of those voting to cut off debate and thus open the way to action on the bill.

Dirksen's Help Needed

Furthermore, they are resigned to the likelihood that they will never fulfill the two-thirds requirement without Dirksen's active help.

The alternative is to try to wear out the filibusterers with around-the-clock sessions. But such attempts in the past usually have wound up by wearing out the majority, who have to keep 51 members on hand at all times in order to prevent adjournment for lack of a quorum. The filibusterers can rest in relays, keeping only a handful of their members in the chamber.

The railroad brotherhoods declared Tuesday that the amended version would be unconstitutional.

"The sole reason the minimum crew laws were enacted was to insure the safety of the traveling public and the railroad employes," the unions said. "Such statutes were never intended nor can they be justified or upheld legally as make-work measures."

Bill for City UR Agency Passes in State Assembly

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson's bill creating a Kingston Urban Renewal Agency passed the State Assembly Tuesday.

It follows local Common Council action Feb. 4 authorizing Mayor John J. Schwenk to forward a Home Rule Message to the Senate and Assembly certifying the necessity of the agency.

Wilson's Bill establishes the agency a body corporate and politic, to be in perpetual duration and to consist of five members to be appointed by the mayor.

In announcing passage of his bill, Assemblyman Wilson stated the bill provides the members of the agency who are first appointed shall be designated to serve for terms of one, two, three, four and five years from the day of appointment. Thereafter the terms will be for a five year period.

The legislation must now be acted upon by the Senate where Senator E. Ogden Bush has prepared a similar measure.

Hoffa May Take Stand: Defense

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, may testify at his trial on charges of attempted jury tampering, his lawyers say.

The defense could finish up by the middle of next week, they added. The trial began Jan. 20. The government rested last Friday.

Thomas E. Parks, Negro handyman at a Nashville funeral home, testified Tuesday—the third of the five men on trial with Hoffa to do so.

Hoffa and the others are charged with trying to fix the jury in the labor leader's 1962 trial at Nashville on a conspiracy charge. That trial ended with a hung jury.

Parks and his nephew, Larry Campbell, are accused of offering $10,000 to Carl Fields, son of a juror in the Nashville trial, if his father voted for acquittal. Campbell, a Teamsters business agent a Detroit, also is a defendant.

Parks, 45, said he never knew Fields' father was on the Hoffa jury. He said he once passed $100 to Fields at the request of James Walker, a Nashville policeman who testified for the government. Parks said Walker told him "he needed some information and that he would pay me for helping him out to deliver the message for him that he wanted."

Two Plead Guilty To Theft of Gas

Accused of stealing gasoline from a pump at a Chevron station on Route 9W, Town of Kingston, at about 11 p. m. Tuesday, two Kingston youths were arrested by state troopers on petit larceny charges.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling of the Kingston station, who made the arrest with Trooper John McMickle, said a report was received that two youths were acting in a suspicious manner at the service station.

Houghtaling and McMickle investigated and said later they found Raymond Charles Sickler of 38 Taylor Street, and Arthur George Ellsworth of 110 Gage Street, both 19.

Sickler and Ellsworth were later arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Frrigan, Town of Kingston. They pleaded guilty and each receivd a 30-day suspended sentence.

Injured in Skid

Germaine M. Holler, 24, of RD 2, Box 314, Kingston, injured in a nearly morning mishap at North Front Street and Clinton Avenue, was reported in fair condition later today at the Benedictine Hospital. Police said snow had made the intersection slippery and the sedan she drove skidded into a pole. She suffered ankle and forehead injuries. Officer Ira Hadsel investigated the mishap reported at 2:56 a. m.

Injured in Fall

Margo Vestergaard, 24, of Tinker Street, Woodstock, was injured in a fall shortly after 10 a. m. today at Broadway and East Union Street. She was taken to Kingston Hospital in a Fatum ambulance for treatment of an injury of the right leg.

Elwood Morris Dies, Was Noted Gun Collector

Elwood P. Morris, 54, of 39 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, well known gun collector and dealer, died suddenly Tuesday night at his home of a heart seizure.

He was owner and operator of the Brick House Gun Shop in New Paltz and was known throughout the United States as a collector, dealer and authority on guns.

Mr. Morris was commander of the Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotill 10-12 of Kingston. He was a member of the New York State Gun Collectors Association and the Mohawk-Hudson Gun Collectors Association.

A U. S. Air Force veteran of World War II, he was a member of Sullivan-Shafer Post American Legion of New Paltz, and the Disabled American Veterans of Long Island. He was also a member of the U. S. Power Squadron of Poughkeepsie, New Paltz Rod and Gun Club and the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union.

Born in New York City March 15, 1909, a son of the late John and Loretta Morris, he was educated in New York City schools. He had made his home in New Paltz for the past 17 years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Clara Koenig whom he married in 1934; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ryan of Jackson, N. J.; a brother, John Morris of Red Oaks Mills; two sisters, Mrs. Emil Wagner and Mrs. Leon Krom, both of Kingston; three grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Friday 2 p. m. at the Pine Funeral Home Inc., New Paltz with the Rev. G. J. Wullschleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church officiating. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Thursday 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

CWA Victorious

sults of this election are certified by the National Labor Relations Board."

The current agreement expires Feb. 27.

Johnson said CWA members from this area including Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, took part in the balloting, but until the breakdown of the vote is compiled by the NLRB the number of area employes voting will not be available.

Most of the tlephone workers affected in the mail balloting conducted earlier this month work in the Metropolitan New York area. About 5,600 work in the upstate region from Newburgh to Buffalo.

A. R. Beirne, CWA said in Miami, Fla., after the results of the election were announced in New York City, that the results showed that the telephone workers "will have nothing to do with the Hoffa leadership."

James A. Hoffa is president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. The Teamsters conducted a long and vigorous campaign in most of the state to woo away the CWA, but they failed.

The NLRB called the election last month upon a demand by the Teamsters Union, headed by James R. Hoffa, whose communications division has been trying unsuccessfully for several years to enroll workers of the Bell Telephone System.

Members of New York Local 1101 of the CWA, voted last Dec. 31 to withdraw from the CWA. Members indicated a desire to join the Teamsters Union.

A spokesman for the CWA said the withdrawal of Local 1101 from the CWA was "illegal" under the rules of the NLRB and that the members of the local were "stil" members of the CWA." The parent union suspended the top officers of the local.

B. W. Johnston

gathering place for many downtown employes who went there to eat their lunch and purchase a soda or a favorite after-lunch cigar.

Always a Welome There

The store was provided with benches for the accomodation of friends who were always welcomed by the proprietor.

The business was disposed in 1953 when Mr. Johnston retired and the Rondout section of Kingston lost one of its popular meeting places for the many friends Mr. Johnston had made over a lifetime.

Mr. Johnston was a musician of accomplishment and as a violinist played with local musical organizations and groups.

He was married to Josephine Molyneaux who predeceased Mr. Johnston.

There are no immediate survivors. Surviving are several nieces and nephews both in Ulster County and in California. Among the local surviving nieces and nephews are Jay Molyneaux of Hurley, Jean Molyneaux Schwartz of Pompono Beach, Fla., Abram F. Molyneaux of Woodstock, Mrs. Nancy Goble of Hurley and Mrs. Gloria Simmons of Hurley.

Funeral will be held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home Inc., 296 Fair Street Saturday at 2 p. m.

Friends may call at the funeral home on Friday from 2-4 and 7-9 p. m. discuss the islanders' plight.

The Arizpa, another American ship, was among six vessels en route to the 35-mile-long island in response to an SOS broadcast by the U.S. Air Force base at Lajes Tuesday. Other rescue ships were of British, Japanese and Norwegian registry.

Two Portuguese navy patrol boats were dispatched to join the hastily assembled rescue fleet, but a navy spokesman said 27-foot waves in the area may delay them considerably.

Sao Jorge's telephone and telegraph communications with Lisbon and other Azores islands were restricted to official calls.

Burns Are Fatal To Father of Rosendale Family

Death early today claimed the life of John Schallerkamp, 38, of 97 Main Street, Rosendale, who suffered burns last Friday morning, as he dashed through flames to rescue his 9-month-old daughter after fire broke out in their home.

Schallerkamp died at Kingston Hospital at 2:45 a. m.. He had suffered second and third degree burns of more than 50 per cent of his body as he rescued his infant., Denise, from a smoke-flame-filled second floor room.

Child Still Critical

A spokesman at the hospital today described the condition of the child as "still critical." She reportedly suffered third degree burns over 80 per cent of her body.

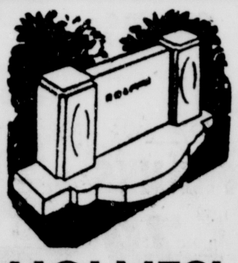

Schallerkamp's wife suffered shock as the result of the fire, and was treated at the hospital and later released.

Rosendale Fire Chief Robert Markle, who investigated the fire with Kingston State Police said Tuesday the investigation disclosed the fire started in an overstuffed chair in the corner of the bedroom occupied by the child.

Rescues Infant

The fire victim, according to reports, smelled smoke in his home at about 9:30 a. m. Friday, and he went upstairs to investigate. He dashed through the flames and carried the infant from the crib to the first floor. Schellerkamp, his daughter and wife, were taken to the hospital by Moylan's ambulance.

Authorities said one man stayed in a badly damaged postal building to transmit over the shaky circuit.

12-Inch Snow Is Predicted for Areas of State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Much of New York State grappled today with heavy, blinding snow that threatened to mount to a foot in some areas by nightfall. Highway and air travel was disrupted, some flights were cancelled and many schools were closed.

The Weather Bureau said the eastern part of the state was bearing the brunt of the coastal attack. Nearly a foot had fallen before noon at Prattsville, in the Catskills.

The bureau predicted general flurries tonight and tomorrow.

The storm hit the southern area during the night and gusted northward.

The fall in New York City was lighter than in areas to the north, but high winds were blamed for power failures in The Bronx section of the city.

In Albany, after four inches had fallen, Gov. Rockefeller decided to drive, instead of flying, to New Hampshire to campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. The Albany Airport was closed.

The storm came in the wake of an onslaught Sunday that buried some sections in as much as 16 inches of snow.

The Weather Bureau said the eastern portion could expect another visit at the end of this week.

Motor Firm Fined $25 for Sticker Sans Inspection

DeMicco Motors Inc., of 327 Broadway, summoned late last year on a charge dealing with "issuing an inspection certificate without making an inspection" was fined $25 today by Special City Judge Bernard A. Feeney Jr.

Domenick DeMicco, of the corporation, which was represented by Attorney Hubert A. Richter, pleaded guilty. Robert A. MacKinnon appeared for the district attorney's office.

A city court summons was issued in December based on information of State Trooper E. J. Lenihan. The charge dates back to Nov. 18.

Joseph T. Aiello, 21, of RD 1, Box 460, Kingston, charged with speeding last Nov. 16, pleaded guilty today to the charge of failure to keep right, and was fined $10. Attorney John E. Gotelli appeared for him.

John F. Coughlin, 22, of 68 Broadway, summoned on stop-sign and speeding charges, pleaded guilty, and was fined $5 and $10.

John R. Kelly, 24, of 65 Howland Avenue, found guilty of a one-way street violation Tuesday, was fined $5.

Seek Young Girl Who Left Bus En Route to School

Search continued today for Carol Tropp, 15, of New York City, who left a bus on the State Thruway at the Malden service area at 4 p. m. Tuesday while being taken to the Hudson Training School for girls.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling of Kingston station, said the girl was in custody and on her way to the state institution, when she disappeared. She was reportedly seen talking to a couple of young men who left in a Connecticut-licensed car.

The girl had been in the Youth Home in New York City. She was described as follows: weight, 125 pounds; wearing a blue coat, plaid dress; black hair with blond streaks combed upwards.

Teletype alarms were sent out asking authorities to assist in apprehending the missing girl. State police and authorities from Saugerties conducted the local search.

Baker Pleads Fifth

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bobby Baker refused today on the basis of his Fifth Amendment protection and other constitutional grounds to surrender subpoenaed documents to the Senate Rules Committee.

Baker was with the committee in a closed session for more than an hour. When he and his lawyers came out, they told a crowd of newsmen jammed in a Senate corridor of Baker's stand.

Excuse Two . . .

women, were dismissed Tuesday, Belli said he is "finally and utterly convinced that a jury cannot be had here."

But Wade said "two of the four actually did qualify."

"They had formed no preconceived opinions as to Ruby's gult or innocence, and they said they could vote the death penalty," Wade said. "Two out of four is above average."

The two to whom he referred were rejected by Belli on a peremptory challenge — meaning he was not required to say why he refused to accept them.

Ruby is charged with the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, two days after the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas last Nov. 22. Oswald had been accused of killing the president.

Seldom Talks

Ruby, operator of a Dallas strip club, seldom talks with anyone at the defense table. Entering or leaving the courtroom, he walks rapidly, looking neither to right nor left.

In effect, Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown ruled against moving Ruby's trial last Thursday, after several days of testimony about the outlook for getting a jury.

Belli can renew his motion for a change of venue, however.

He said he also will continue to argue that anyone who witnesses the shooting of Oswald on television is ineligible to serve as a juror.

Belli contends Texas law forbids any witness to a crime from sitting on the jury before which the crime is tried. He says the television viewers of last Nov. 24, when Ruby killed Oswald, were "witnesses."

No Compromise

make such desegregation mandatory in a selected field.

If he can't get the Senate to accept his voluntary plan, Dirksen said he will consider falling back on an alternative proposal for compulsory integration of businesses offering food and lodging to interstate travelers.

Although Southern opponents of the House bill plan to talk at length in an effort to prevent any Senate progress toward its passage, they probably would be tempted to suspend their vocal marathon long enough to permit a vote on any proposal to water down its terms.

If that happens, a majority of the Senate would decide whether the controversial accommodations section should be changed and thus open the way to other possible alterations in the measure's provisions.

Southerners were called into a strategy session today by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Could Risk Defeat

Johnson has demonstrated the ability to wrangle the votes needed for a majority. But he could risk final defeat of the bill if he fails to come to some kind of terms with Dirksen and the substantial number of Republicans who follow the Illinois senator.

It has been obvious to all concerned that Humphrey and Democratic Leader Mike Manfield of Montana now do not believe they can muster the needed support of two-thirds of those voting to cut off debate and thus open the way to action on the bill.

Dirksen's Help Needed

Furthermore, they are resigned to the likelihood that they will never fulfill the two-thirds requirement without Dirksen's active help.

The alternative is to try to wear out the filibusterers with around-the-clock sessions. But such attempts in the past usually have wound up by wearing out the majority, who have to keep 51 members on hand at all times in order to prevent adjournment for lack of a quorum. The filibusterers can rest in relays, keeping only a handful of their members in the chamber.

Bill for City UR Agency Passes in State Assembly

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson's bill creating a Kingston Urban Renewal Agency passed the State Assembly Tuesday.

It follows local Common Council action Feb. 4 authorizing Mayor John J. Schwenk to forward a Home Rule Message to the Senate and Assembly certifying the necessity of the agency.

Wilson's Bill establishes the agency a body corporate and politic, to be in perpetual duration and to consist of five members to be appointed by the mayor.

In announcing passage of his bill, Assemblyman Wilson stated the bill provides the members of the agency who are first appointed shall be designated to serve for terms of one, two, three, four and five years from the day of appointment. Thereafter the terms will be for a five year period.

The legislation must now be acted upon by the Senate where Senator E. Ogden Bush has prepared a similar measure.

Hoffa May Take Stand: Defense

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, may testify at his trial on charges of attempted jury tampering, his lawyers say.

The defense could finish up by the middle of next week, they added. The trial began Jan. 20. The government rested last Friday.

Thomas E. Parks, Negro handyman at a Nashville funeral home, testified Tuesday—the third of the five men on trial with Hoffa to do so.

Hoffa and the others are charged with trying to fix the jury in the labor leader's 1962 trial at Nashville on a conspiracy charge. That trial ended with a hung jury.

Parks and his nephew, Larry Campbell, are accused of offering $10,000 to Carl Fields, son of a juror in the Nashville trial, if his father voted for acquittal. Campbell, a Teamsters business agent a Detroit, also is a defendant.

Parks, 45, said he never knew Fields' father was on the Hoffa jury. He said he once passed $100 to Fields at the request of James Walker, a Nashville policeman who testified for the government. Parks said Walker told him "he needed some information and that he would pay me for helping him out to deliver the message for him that he wanted."

Two Plead Guilty To Theft of Gas

Accused of stealing gasoline from a pump at a Chevron station on Route 9W, Town of Kingston, at about 11 p. m. Tuesday, two Kingston youths were arrested by state troopers on petit larceny charges.

Trooper Robert Houghtaling of the Kingston station, who made the arrest with Trooper John McMickle, said a report was received that two youths were acting in a suspicious manner at the service station.

Houghtaling and McMickle investigated and said later they found Raymond Charles Sickler of 38 Taylor Street, and Arthur George Ellsworth of 110 Gage Street, both 19.

Sickler and Ellsworth were later arraigned before Justice of the Peace Robert Frrigan, Town of Kingston. They pleaded guilty and each receivd a 30-day suspended sentence.

Injured in Skid

Germaine M. Holler, 24, of RD 2, Box 314, Kingston, injured in a nearly morning mishap at North Front Street and Clinton Avenue, was reported in fair condition later today at the Benedictine Hospital. Elwood Morris Dies, Was Noted Gun Collector

Elwood P. Morris, 54, of 39 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz, well known gun collector and dealer, died suddenly Tuesday night at his home of a heart seizure.

He was owner and operator of the Brick House Gun Shop in New Paltz and was known throughout the United States as a collector, dealer and authority on guns.

Mr. Morris was commander of the Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotill 10-12 of Kingston. He was a member of the New York State Gun Collectors Association and the Mohawk-Hudson Gun Collectors Association.

A U. S. Air Force veteran of World War II, he was a member of Sullivan-Shafer Post American Legion of New Paltz, and the Disabled American Veterans of Long Island. He was also a member of the U. S. Power Squadron of Poughkeepsie, New Paltz Rod and Gun Club and the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers Union.

Born in New York City March 15, 1909, a son of the late John and Loretta Morris, he was educated in New York City schools. He had made his home in New Paltz for the past 17 years.

Surviving are his wife, the former Clara Koenig whom he married in 1934; a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Ryan of Jackson, N. J.; a brother, John Morris of Red Oaks Mills; two sisters, Mrs. Emil Wagner and Mrs. Leon Krom, beth of Kingston; three grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

CWA Victorious

sults of this election are certified by the National Labor Relations Board."

The current agreement expires Feb. 27.

Johnson said CWA members from this area including Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh, took part in the balloting, but until the breakdown of the vote is compiled by the NLRB the number of area employes voting will not be available.

Most of the tlephone workers affected in the mail balloting conducted earlier this month work in the Metropolitan New York area. About 5,600 work in the upstate region from Newburgh to Buffalo.

A. R. Beirne, CWA said in Miami, Fla., after the results of the election were announced in New York City, that the results showed that the telephone workers "will have nothing to do with the Hoffa leadership."

James A. Hoffa is president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. The Teamsters conducted a long and vigorous campaign in most of the state to woo away the CWA, but they failed.

The NLRB called the election last month upon a demand by the Teamsters Union, headed by James R. Hoffa, whose communications division has been trying unsuccessfully for several years to enroll workers of the Bell Telephone System.

Members of New York Local 1101 of the CWA, voted last Dec. 31 to withdraw from the CWA. Members indicated a desire to join the Teamsters Union.

A spokesman for the CWA said the withdrawal of Local 1101 from the CWA was "illegal" under the rules of the NLRB and that the members of the local were "stil" members of the CWA." The parent union suspended the top officers of the local.

Burns Are Fatal To Father of Rosendale Family

Death early today claimed the life of John Schallerkamp, 38, of 97 Main Street, Rosendale, who suffered burns last Friday morning, as he dashed through flames to rescue his 9-month-old daughter after fire broke out in their home.

Schallerkamp died at Kingston Hospital at 2:45 a. m.. He had suffered second and third degree burns of more than 50 per cent of his body as he rescued his infant., Denise, from a smoke-flame-filled second floor room.

Child Still Critical

A spokesman at the hospital today described the condition of the child as "still critical." She reportedly suffered third degree burns over 80 per cent of her body.

Schallerkamp's wife suffered shock as the result of the fire, and was treated at the hospital and later released.

Rosendale Fire Chief Robert Markle, who investigated the fire with Kingston State Police said Tuesday the investigation disclosed the fire started in an overstuffed chair in the corner of the bedroom occupied by the child.

Rescues Infant

The fire victim, according to reports, smelled smoke in his home at about 9:30 a. m. Friday, and he went upstairs to investigate. He dashed through the flames and carried the infant from the crib to the first floor. Schellerkamp, his daughter and wife, were taken to the hospital by Moylan's ambulance.

Authorities said one man stayed in a badly damaged postal building to transmit over the shaky circuit.

B of E Supports Bills Increasing Aid to Schools

Saugerties Central Schools Board of Education this week announced its support to Senate Bill 778 and Assembly Bill 1560 regarding increased state aid totaling $110 million.

The companion bills would provide the following:

1. Raise the ceiling on operating expenses from $500 to $585 per pupil; the minimum guarantee for operating aid from $180 to $210; and the flat grant from $200 to $230.

2. Allow districts with operating expenses below the $585 level to use current year budgeted operating expenses in computing state support.

3. Raise required minimum local support from $9 to $9.50 per $1,000 of property valuation, scaled upward to $10.50 for all districts whose operating expenses reach $585 or more per pupil.

The Central School Boards Committee for Educational Research has unanimously agreed to give unqualified endorsement to the Conference Board's program.

These bills are supported by State Educational Conference Board consisting of the State School Boards Association, Inc., State Congress of Parents and Teachers, State Teachers Association, State Association of School District Administrators State Council of City and Village Superintendents, State Association of Secondary School Administrators, State Association of Elementary School Principals, Public Education Association of New York City, State Citizens Committee for the Public Schools, Inc.

Ultimate Weapon Is Theme of Talk By DAR Speaker

The Ultimate Weapon was the theme of an address heard by Saugerties Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution last week at the Saugerties Methodist Church. Mrs. Daniel Lamouree, Regent presided.

Mrs. William Russell reported membership as of February totaled 68. The name of Mrs. Louis B. Gaylord was presented for second reading after which a vote was taken. Mrs. Gaylord was elected to membership unanimously.

A report on National Defense was given by Mrs. Emerson Hull. She read a part of an article by Mrs. Henry S. Jones, ""Education for Patriotism or World-Mindedness."

A motion was approved that $10 be sent to Carol Jean Snow, Indian student, who is now in her last year of college.

After adjournment Mrs. Lamouree announced that the scheduled speaker for the afternoon, Howard Manfield, was unable to be present. In his place William A. Jackson would present the program.

He began his talk by stating the article already reviewed by Mrs. Hull fitted his subject "The Ultimate Weapon," which he stated is brain-washing or psychological warfare.

He told of experiments made on dogs by a Russian scientist, Dr. Pavlov (non-Communist) which were later used by Communists to condition prisoners of war. The system conditions the individual to accept and obey a central authority and is intended to render him mentally incapable of resistance.

It was announced that at the March meeting special guests would be Miss Phyllis Ann McLaughlin, DAR Good Citizen and also winners for the American History Month Essays. Members were reminded to bring dress material for the Girls Homemaker Committee.

Even the story about the 6-year-old boy who swallowed a pen knife is hard to digest.

There will be a lot fewer auto accidents if people will quit drinking any given amount.

People who let their accounts get over-charged when shopping soon get shocked by the bills.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius
Trade Mark Reg.

Reminiscing upon his retirement after 45 years on the Chicago police force, Arthur T. Linderman tabbed as one of the sure signs that a burglary was done by an ex-convict the fact that almost invariably, if there was a canary in the house, the cage has been opened to let him fly away.

It is difficult to determine whether an open, sincere, and virtuous action is the result of probity or artfulness.

A young clerk was called to the front office.

Boss—Of all my clerks, I notice you seem to be most interested in your work. No hours seem too long for you and you never let the slightest detail escape you.

Clerk—Yes, sir.

Boss—Yes, and so I am forced to fire you. It is such young men as you who learn here and then go out and start a rival business.

Still Investigating Fire at Connelly Home

Sheriff's officials continued their investigation today into a fire a week ago at a Connelly minister's residence, which they said was possibly of incendiary origin.

Flames caused extensive damage to the home of the Rev. Clarence W. Smith. Connelly firemen were credited with stopping the blaze before it could spread further. They said the fire broke out in a sunporch in the rear of the home.

County Investigator Thomas Mayone said the sunporch was not in use at the time and an investigation indicated that the fire may have been set. The blaze broke out late the night of Feb. 12 or early Feb. 13. A neighbor discovered flames shooting from the porch floor of the sunporch.

Pressman, Banks At Socialist Rally

Nathan Pressman of Ellenville and Max Banks of Woodridge, members of the Socialist Labor Party in this area, attended the pre-convention banquet and state convention of the New Jersey Socialist Labor Party last weekend at the Coronet in Irvington, N. J. Eric Hass, presidential candidate of the Socialist Labor Party in 1960, also attended the banquet. A talk by Henning Blomen of Boston, was delivered on the issues of the 1964 campaign.

A former resident of Monticello, Robert Clement, state secretary of the New Jersey Socialist Labor Party, gave a report showing an increase in party activities.

Albert Ronis of Bridgeton, a workingman, was nominated as the Socialist Labor Party candidate for U. S. Senator.

Dies of Burns

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Dorothy E. Anthony, 80, died Tuesday at Mt. St. Mary's Hospital of burns suffered Friday when a gas furnace exploded at her home.

Senate Confirms Reappointment of Rocky's Brother

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Senate has confirmed Gov. Rockefeller's reappointment of his brother Laurance for a five-year term on the Palisades Interstate Park Commission.

Laurance Rockefeller is vice president of the commission and also serves as chairman of the State Council of Parks. Both posts are unsalaried.

The Senate Tuesday also confirmed the governor's appointment of Leo Murin of Yonkers to the Workmen's Compensation Board for a term ending Dec. 31, 1970.

Murin, 55, has been the board's counsel since 1960. His new post carries a salary of $20,475.

Seymour H. Knox of Buffalo and Dr. Henry Allen Moe of The Bronx were confirmed in new terms as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the State Council on the Arts. Rockefeller's reappointment of 10 other council members also was confirmed.

The Senate also confirmed the appointment of Mrs. Alice W. St. Clair of Batavia to the Board of Visitors of Albion State Training School.

'64 Corvair Monza by Chevrolet

'64 Corvair Monza Club Coupe

It's got a frisky new engine
(that puts superior traction under you)

Ever see a Corvair wearing tire chains? Not likely.

And it's not often you'll find a Corvair owner bothering to switch over to snow tires either.

Why? Rear-engine traction. The engine weight over Corvair's rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power without any assist from special winter driving paraphernalia.

Reassuring to know this time of year—and also in the months to come when all that tidy white countryside turns into a melting pot that's likely to add to the misery.

Another thing about Corvair's engine: It's bigger this year. Nearly 19 per cent more power in the standard version. Which is something you'll appreciate most any time of year, fair weather or foul.

You'll also appreciate not having to fool around with antifreeze. And not having to flush the radiator or fuss with hose connections. The engine's air cooled.

Matter of fact, we have a feeling that if more people knew what a cinch Corvair makes winter driving, there wouldn't be quite so many looking for excuses to duck South this time every year.

But then you never know. Corvair's a real kick to drive in warm weather, too. Why not just try one at your dealer's and decide for yourself? Whatever the weather, it's bound to be a fine day for it.

Trump Mileage Is Necessary

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dr. Walter Lundberg of Austin, Minn., has sent a hand that fits in perfectly with this column on trump management.

He says that his bid for four hearts was aggressive and I agree with him, but the hands fit beautifully and in spite of the 5-0 break in trumps there was no way to beat him on the line of play he adopted.

The principal features of his play were that he realized that he could never afford to lead a trump himself and that he had to bring home seven trump tricks.

He took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, and led a diamond to dummy's nine.

This put East in the lead and he chose to lead a trump. Walter won with dummy's nine and led and ruffed another club. Now he led a diamond to dummy's ace, returned a spade to his ace in accordance with the time honored procedure of cashing his side tricks before the opponents would get a chance to ruff them.

A diamond was now ruffed by dummy's four of trumps and the last club was led from dummy. East discarded his last diamond, not that it mattered what he did. Walter ruffed with his last trump and led a spade. East had to ruff and give dummy two more trump tricks.

Early Return Is Asked on Cards On '64 Wheat Crop

Farmers in Ulster County who have wheat acreage allotments on their farms will soon receive postal cards which they are asked to complete and return to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service County Office as soon as possible, Joseph Sauer, chairman, Ulster Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

While postal cards have been used in previous years in connection with wheat allotment programs, the chairman explained, their return this year is more important than ever.

Since marketing quotas are not in effect for 1964, farm measurements of 1964 wheat acreage will not be made unless requested either by returning the card or by calling at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county office to furnish needed information. Upon request, the farm visit to measure the wheat acreage will be made without cost to the farmer.

The card asks how many acres of wheat will be harvested for grain on the farm in 1964, whether the farmer intends to apply for price support on the 1964 wheat crop, and if the allotment is more than 13.5 acres and the farmer will not apply for price support, whether he wants the wheat measured to preserve maximum acreage history credit.

Chairman Sauer urges that farmers return the cards as soon as possible so that the county office may obtain measurements and give producers an opportunity to adjust excess wheat acreage before the final disposition date. This date in Ulster County is June 15.

Trump Mileage Is Necessary

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dr. Walter Lundberg of Austin, Minn., has sent a hand that fits in perfectly with this column on trump management.

He says that his bid for four hearts was aggressive and I agree with him, but the hands fit beautifully and in spite of the 5-0 break in trumps there was no way to beat him on the line of play he adopted.

The principal features of his play were that he realized that he could never afford to lead a trump himself and that he had to bring home seven trump tricks.

He took the ace of clubs, ruffed a club, and led a diamond to dummy's nine.

This put East in the lead and he chose to lead a trump. Walter won with dummy's nine and led and ruffed another club. Now he led a diamond to dummy's ace, returned a spade to his ace in accordance with the time honored procedure of cashing his side tricks before the opponents would get a chance to ruff them.

A diamond was now ruffed by dummy's four of trumps and the last club was led from dummy. East discarded his last diamond, not that it mattered what he did. Walter ruffed with his last trump and led a spade. East had to ruff and give dummy two more trump tricks.

Early Return Is Asked on Cards On '64 Wheat Crop

Farmers in Ulster County who have wheat acreage allotments on their farms will soon receive postal cards which they are asked to complete and return to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service County Office as soon as possible, Joseph Sauer, chairman, Ulster Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

While postal cards have been used in previous years in connection with wheat allotment programs, the chairman explained, their return this year is more important than ever.

Since marketing quotas are not in effect for 1964, farm measurements of 1964 wheat acreage will not be made unless requested either by returning the card or by calling at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county office to furnish needed information. Upon request, the farm visit to measure the wheat acreage will be made without cost to the farmer.

The card asks how many acres of wheat will be harvested for grain on the farm in 1964, whether the farmer intends to apply for price support on the 1964 wheat crop, and if the allotment is more than 13.5 acres and the farmer will not apply for price support, whether he wants the wheat measured to preserve maximum acreage history credit.

Chairman Sauer urges that farmers return the cards as soon as possible so that the county office may obtain measurements and give producers an opportunity to adjust excess wheat acreage before the final disposition date. This date in Ulster County is June 15.

Supreme Court Decisions Have Helped U. S. Unity

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is almost 10 years since the Supreme Court, after watching Congress for half a century duck this country's most important social problem, decided to tackle the job itself.

This was the May 17, 1954, decision declaring segregation of Negroes unconstitutional. This, one of the most far-reaching court decisions in American history, began a social revolution still being fought out.

Again, after watching Congress and state legislatures fail for generations to give voters fairer representation, the court moved into this vacuum with two landmark political decisions.

In these—one in 1962, the second last Monday—the court said voting districts, from which representatives are sent to Congress and state legislatures, must be rearranged to make the population in each more equal.

As it is now, one district with 900,000 people may have only one representative in Congress while another, with only 200,000 people, also has one.

These social and political decisions had the effect of legislation, a field supposedly reserved under the Constitution for the legislative branch of government.

Nothing in the Constitution specifically gives the court the right to do this. But nothing in the Constitution says it can't. And it's the court which interprets the Constitution.

This is not the first time the court has assumed a right not spelled out. It has done that repeatedly, although for long periods haltingly.

In 1803 it decided it had the power to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional; in 1821 it claimed the right to do the same about state legislation. The court was denounced at the time.

But those decisions helped strengthen this country's unity. The 1821 decision—the power to knock out a state law—made it possible for the court in 1954 to knock out state segregation laws.

Justice John Marshall Harlan, who got on the court too late to take part in the 1954 case, opposed the redistricting decisions of 1962 and this week.

He warned last summer that if this kind of thing continued—when the legislative branch failed to act—there would be a "substantial transfer of legislative power to the courts."

What's the alternative? If the legislative branch fails to correct an obvious wrong, must the court also do nothing even though it has power to act? By its decisions the court has rejected such a philosophy.

Even after the 1954 decision Congress has gone less than all-out to end segregation. It passed two fairly mild civil rights bills—in 1957 and 1960. But now it is wrestling with a truly powerful antidiscrimination bill.

It cannot be plausibly argued that Southern Democrats were solely responsible for the failure of Congress to act in behalf of Negroes' civil rights through all of the 20th century until 1957.

They always were, and still are, a minority in Congress. The truth is that the rest of the members—always in a majority—never cared enough about the rights of Negro citizens to squelch the Southerners, as they could have, at any time. They just ignored the problem and the injustice.

If the court had not acted, segregation would probably still be considered constitutional, as it was until 1954, and might have continued so for years, since Congress showed no inclination to ban it.

Yet, such a policy would not only have built up racial hatred in this country but would have made American foreign policy look ludicrous now when it is trying to win the friendship of the world's backward peoples, especially since most of the world's people are not white.

Chamber Library Sets Program on Horses

The next children's program at the Town of Ulster Library sponsored by the Junior League of Kingston at the Chambers School Library, will be a program on Horses Saturday, Feb. 22 from 10 to 11 a. m.

Mrs. Robert Jacobson of Woodstock will present a talk on horses, telling of their breeds, uses of different types, their care and feeding. She will use pictures and drawings, many of which are her own to illustrate horse markings and other interesting facts children from the second through the sixth grade should enjoy. She is an accomplished horsewoman, being a rider and trainer herself. Her program has been well received in other libraries in the area where she has been presented.

The program, which will be about an hour in length, will feature a discussion period of questions and answers. All children of the town are invited to attend these interesting programs. No admission is charged. The Town Library opens at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, closing at noon.

The clerical error has been corrected, and the 12-year-old boy's father will serve in his place. Connelly Sr. is an engineer with a radio station.

Explosion Does $10,000 Damage To Negro Church

AMBLER, Pa. (AP)—An explosion ripped through the front of the Negro Bethlehem Baptist church in nearby Lower Gwynned Township Tuesday night, causing an estimated $10,000 damage.

Sgt. John Smart, of Lower Gwynned police, said the explosion probably was set off outside the front of the building.

Police said it apparently was caused by a bomb and they ordered a tarpaulin placed over the blast area to preserve evidence.

Members of the church choir had left the church just 15 minutes before the explosion.

The blast was felt in communities as far as three miles from here in the Philadelphia suburbs.

Heavy stone steps leading to the two-story stone building were reduced to rubble and wooden window framing was splintered, police reported. Pews were thrown forward and plaster was knocked from the walls.

The Rev. Silas B. Holmes estimated the damage and said he believed the explosion was caused by dynamite.

First U. S. president to ride to his inauguration in an automobile was Warren G. Harding.

Hadassah Reports on Its Activities Here; Members Hear Report Given by Local LWV

Kingston Chapter of Hadassah held its meeting on February 17. Members heard a report from the League of Women Voters on court reforms, discussed Hadassah activities and presented a life membership.

Conducting the program for LWV was Mrs. Robert Yallum. Giving the report were Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson and Mrs. John Hofler. Mrs. Hofler has served as chairman of the League's judicial study group.

In addition to court reforms, the ladies also discussed possible solutions for the election of aldermen-at-large throughout the city and redistricting of the City of Kingston.

During the Hadassah business meeting reports were heard from Mrs. Walter Suskind, membership vice president, Mrs. George Starkman, donor treasurer, and Mrs. Herbert Gertner, medical center chairman.

Mrs. Suskind stated that reenrollment of chapter members has been successful under the leadership of Mrs. Stanley London, Mrs. Harry Simon and Mrs. Manuel Lipton.

Mrs. Robert Yallum plans to have a detailed financial report in the Hadassah bulletin.

Mrs. Aaron Bahl and Mrs. Irving Dreishpoon, who heads the Hadassah New and Nearly New Shop, announced the shop will open the week of March 9-13. Members are to contact Mrs. Bahl for donor tags and volunteer workers are also needed.

The JNF drive, with co-chairmen Mrs. Murray Weiss and Mrs. William Buchbinder, is now underway. And Mrs. Joseph Horowitz, chairman of the special Hadassah benefit book has announced that books are still available.

Mrs. Alfred Horowitz is chairman of the advertising project for Israel's Day of Independence. Publication is set for April 25. Mrs. Oscar London, membership chairman, presented a life membership to Mrs. Herbert Siller after the meeting. Mrs. Siller is the 15th chapter member to be thus enrolled. A plaque with the names of those holding life memberships has been completed. Mrs. Philip Rosdal, visual aids chairman, received a vote of appreciation for her artistic contribution.

The chapter president, Mrs. Arthur Landesman, conducted the meeting which was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Herbert Gertner.

GUEST ALLERGIC TO ENTREE

Q: I invited four of my neighbors in to lunch yesterday. I served chicken a la king. One of the women didn't eat a bit of it. When I asked her if anything was wrong she said she couldn't eat anything creamed. I would like to know if it was necessary to offer her something else?

A: If there were other foods on the table that she could eat to sustain herself, such as vegetables or a salad and rolls, it was not necessary to offer her anything else. But if you were serving only the one dish and you could have offered her something else from your refrigerator, such as slices of cold meat or fried eggs which take very little time to cook, it would have been considerate to do so, although not expected.

Introducing Sister-In-Law

Q: I was recently given a baby shower by a friend at her house. My sister-in-law was detained at the office and arrived late at the shower. She was highly insulted because she was not taken around and introduced to the guests when she came in. I think it was unnecessary to do this. Am I right? If she should have been introduced, was it up to me to do so, or the hostess?

A: If only a handful of guests were present, she should have been introduced to everyone. But if it was a large party, it was not necessary to take her around the room and introduce her to each and everyone. She should, however, have been introduced to those in her immediate vicinity, and as the guests were more especially friends of yours than the hostess, you should have introduced her.

Announcing Engagement to Widower

Q: I am soon to announce my engagement to a man who is a widower. He has two children. I would like to know if their names should be mentioned in the newspaper announcement?

A: No mention is made of your fiance's children in the announcement of your engagement.

PLAN NURSES PROGRAM—Planning for a Nurses Institute for Ulster and Greene Counties on the subject of "Strokes" are (l-r) Miss Katherine A. Bower, executive director of the Heart Chapter of Ulster County; Mrs. Evelyn Lyke, RN; Mrs. Marguerite Zukor; Mrs. Gertrude Rathjen; Miss Helen Geneis, co-chairman of Nurses' Institute Committee; Mrs. Mary Keating; Sister Mary Charles, co-chairman of Nurses' Institute Committee. Others not in the picture serving on the committee are Mrs. Shirley Fletcher, RN; Miss Evelyn P. Mayhan, RN and Mrs. Marie Stewart, RN. The program, consisting of a series of four sessions, will take place from April 6-May 18. It is being sponsored by the Heart Chapters of Ulster and Greene Counties, with the cooperation of the Nurses' Associations. This is one of the many projects made possible by the annual Heart Fund Campaign which takes place during the month of February.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Know When to Butt Out

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My husband's mother, 80, lives with us. He resents her even more than I do. She hangs around him from the time he gets up and will not let us have a minute alone. Last night, we went to our room early and she, of course, went to hers. Later, we sneaked downstairs to make ourselves some cocoa. Sure enough, she had to get up to get in on it, too. Should my husband tell her that we want to be alone together once in a while?

Answer: I don't know. If he does, she is going to be very angry. Parents who intrude like this on married children's privacy do so because they feel entitled to. When they are refused the right to intrude, they feel themselves horribly abused. They may go to any lengths to make the child hate himself for his "ingratitude."

Is your husband ready to take the probable unpleasant consequences of telling his mother he wants better respect for his privacy? If he isn't, you may find yourself in an even more difficult spot. His mother's angry accusations may explode more self-accusation in him than he can stand — and he will blame you for the friction. Then you will have to deal not only with your mother-in-law's aggressiveness but with open or secret resentment in her son. My counsel to you is to stay out of the parent-child struggle until it is resolved by the people it belongs to.

Let me remind you that telling off a mother is a very different matter from telling off a mother-in-law.

As the child of this aggressive old lady, your husband's relationship to her is much more complex than yours is. It makes him infinitely more sensitive to her angry reproaches than you are. Withstanding them takes far more courage than you need to withstand them. If you can see this, you won't insist on this courage until it has been fully developed.

This is his business. It is his freedom from an old domination that is at stake — not your freedom.

Your mother-in-law's behavior simply represents an inconvenience to you. To him it represents a dictating and powerful influence against which he has struggled all his life.

As he is the person who must experience the terror and doubts involved in open resistance to it, it is his privilege to determine the time for the open resistance.

Pack 9 Meeting

The January Pack meeting was held at the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, sponsors of Pack 9. The Webelos Den, whose leader is Harold Burger, was held by Richard Wells in presenting colors, and led everyone in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Cubmaster Blankschan led the audience in singing the Advancement song, to the tune of Clementine. The four Cub Scouts and four dads sang together, and alternately, the song "Soap and Towel, to the tune of Row, Row, Row Your Boat. All joined in two contests led by Cubmaster Blankschan, the first was Tree Test and the second May Daze Quiz.

A Family Alert Dramatization was presented by Den 3, Den Mother Mrs. Doris Herring. Those taking part were Donald Herring, Chester Craig Jr., Robert Hunger and Leslie Herring.

The Blue and Gold banquet will be held Saturday, Feb. 29, at 5:30 p. m. All Cubs are to bring model cars, given as gifts at Christmas Pack Party, to be put on display at the banquet.

Charles L. Arnold, deputy director of Civil Defense of Ulster County, talked about Civil Defense and showed a film entitled For God and Country.

Cubmaster Blankschan and Assistant Cubmaster Harold Burger, presented awards. James Smith, a Lion Cub in the Webelos Den, received a silver arrow under Lion. Richard Rockwell and Richard Wells, Cubs of Den 1, Den Mother Mrs. Lillian Cameran, both received a Lion Badge.

All five Dens competed in a game of skill. The closing was a quotation by Baden Powell taken from the British Handbook of Scouting for boys and read by Cubmaster Blankschan. Den 1 served refreshments.

Don't think you're the only housewife—

● Who is always clipping recipes, but never gets around to filing them.

● Whose husband always wants to know what you did with anything he has misplaced.

● Whose children always volunteer your services when there are cookies to be baked, chauffeuring to be done, or somebody's house is needed for a teen-age party.

● Whose indispensable labor-saving devices always seem to choose the worst possible moment for groaning and giving up.

● Who always falls for the flattering words, "No one is as well qualified as you are to be the chairman of this important committee."

● Who can't quite seem to share the children's happiness at the close of another school year.

● Who is always thinking, "Next year things won't be so hectic—and I will have a little more time for myself."

● Who finds it easier to say "we'll see," or "maybe," instead of "no" to a teen-ager who can present his case with the skill of a lawyer.

● Who finds it hard to answer a husband's "Well, what have you been doing all day?" because, though you work hard trying to keep even with the housework, you rarely have any big accomplishment to mention.

Don't think you're the only housewife who fits this picture. Truly, it's typical.

Scholarship Award For Brian Mitteer

DELHI—The Directors of the Student-Aid Foundation at the State University of New York Agricultural and Technical Institute at Delhi have announced the awarding of a $300 scholarship to Brian Mitteer. The award is for the 1964-65 academic year.

Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Richard Mitteer of Hurleyville, N. Y. Following graduation from Tri-Valley Central high school, he will enroll in the Agriculture Division of the college.

MRS. JON C. ANGSTROM

Sharon Ann Herrick, Jon Clement Angstrom Exchange Marriage Vows at St. Joseph's

Miss Sharon Ann Herrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Clair of 45 Van Buren Street, this city, exchanged marriage vows with Jon Clement Angstrom, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Angstrom of 163 Hurley Avenue on Saturday, Feb. 8, at 3 p. m. in St. Joseph's Church. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. James V. Keating. Organist was Mrs. Frank Rafferty. The soloist was Richard Duffy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duffy of Garden Street, who was on leave from the Air Force.

Miss Marian Murphy was maid of honor and Miss Sharon Nakieki was bridesmaid. Andrew Angstrom was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Herrick, brother of the bride, and Michael Angstrom, brother of the groom.

A family reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Angstrom. The bride attended Kingston High School. The bridegroom, a Kingston High School graduate, is a student at Marist College.

Mr. and Mrs. Angstrom will reside at 152 St. James Street, this city.

L. I. Girl Killed, 5 Others Hurt in Crash

MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP)—A 12-year-old girl was killed and five persons were seriously injured last night when a car and an ambulance collided in this Long Island community, police said.

The injured included a Wantagh stockbroker who police said was being taken by ambulance to a nursing home in Amityville.

The crash occurred on Sunrise Highway near Broadway. Barbara Samler, 12, of Massapequa, died half an hour after the crash in Meadowbrook Hospital.

Lucy Is Blossom Queen

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—Lucy Baines Johnson, the 16-year-old daughter of President and Mrs. Johnson, has been named queen of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival.

Miss Johnson is the first daughter of a president and the first Texan to be named queen of the 37-year old festival. She will reign from April 30 to May 2.

Personals

Linda B. Oettcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis of High Woods, Saugerties, has been named to the dean's list at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. Miss Oettcher was valedictorian for her class in 1963 at Saugerties High School.

Alberta Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fox of Olive Bridge, will give a voice recital in Recital Hall of the New England Conservatory, Boston, on February 25 at 8:30 p. m.

Miss Fox is a candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree in voice. In her program, Miss Fox will include selections by Scarlatti, Haydn and Schubert.

Church Sponsored Conferences Set; For Betrothed

A Pre-Cana conference series for couples intending to be married within the next six to eight months will be held at St. Joseph's School in Kingston on March 1, 5 and 8.

The conferences on Sunday, March 1 at 2:30 p. m. will be conducted by the Rev. James Quinn of Poughkeepsie; on March 5, at 7:30 p. m. by Drs. B. J. Dutto and Herbert Zaccheo. The final conference on Sunday, March 8 at 2:30 p m. will be by a panel of married couples. According to the Rev. William Williams of St. Joseph's, who is Ulster County director of Pre-Cana Conferences, these conferences are designed to give the engaged couples a deeper understanding of marriage, its obligations, duties and privileges.

The conferences are sponsored by individual parishes under the direction of the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York. The Kingston committee chairmanship is under Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Fox.

All engaged couples in the area are cordially invited to attend. Any may do so by contacting their parish priest.

Leventhal's Pioneer Another "First."

Leventhal's is on the GO again — so "please excuse our dust" while our store is being remodeled to make way for our new LINGERIE Department. We say "First" because the Lingerie and Negligees that will be shown at Leventhal's are far from ordinary . . . distinctive . . . much finer but not necessarily higher priced! You have our assurance that nothing to compare has ever been shown in the Kingston area. Within the next few weeks these lovely personal items will be presented for your approval and delight.

Sixty-five years ago Leventhal's opened the "First" shop in the Hudson Valley dealing exclusively with Furs. Surely this was a "First." Eight years ago, Leventhal's envisioned the necessity of a fine Casual Department in Kingston, and brought it into being. Again Leventhal's was "First" to pioneer a Casual Department in Kingston that is unequalled to this day, featuring Domestics and Imports that are carried nowhere else in this area.

In 1927 Leventhal's introduced to Kingston a Cold Storage Vault for the storage and care of Furs. This was the "First" Fur Storage Vault of its kind between New York and Buffalo. It attracted furriers from far and wide who were anxious to study and determine the advisability of copying this "wild" idea, an icebox not for food but for the preservation of Furs and Clothing. Need we say this was a "First?" It must have caught on because today hardly a city or town in every State of the Union has not a vault of one type or another for the care of Furs and Garments. Again the "First" in 1963 (just last year) Leventhal's installed a filtering system in their Cold Storage Vault to alleviate all possible condensation odors that often come from the sudden change of temperature in moving garments in and out of Cold Storage Vaults.

We beg your indulgence and "please excuse our dust" while our store is being renovated and readied for our new Lingerie and Negligee Department. We promise that you will be thrilled beyond your wildest imagination when you see the refreshing dreams that we have in store for you!

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

With the World's Fair coming to New York soon, some of us perhaps think back to the 1939 World"s Fair. A change has come over New York City itself since, it seems. I remember, it was perfectly safe to ride in the subway day or night, gangs did not roam the streets or subways as they seem to do now-a-days according to the reports.

Jimmy Breslin, a New York City newspaper columnist said the other day on a TV interview, that New York City and Broadway is Lunch Town, no more night life on Broadway, people are afraid to come out after midnight. In my time, after a dance, we would go down to Broadway, to the Automat or Childs for a bite to eat after midnight, and we felt safe, and were safe. We would then go in all directions on the subway. Crime existed, as it did in all big cities, but it was in the background, ordinary people could walk about, as I remember. Now folks from small towns like Kingston, who may want to visit this World's Fair, may fear to go because of what they read in newspapers and see over TV on New York City crime.

I covered the World's Fair for the Rural New Yorker, for their June 17, 1939 issue. The article is on the back cover. I do not know what it will cost to visit the World's Fair this year of 1964, but entrance was 75 cents at the 1939 Fair. Here is my first paragraph from 1939, "You're all wrong if you say, 'But the World's Fair is so expensive.' I'm a county fair enthusiast myself, but I spent less at the World's Fair, seeing some 21 buildings, and train fare. All told that day in the city totaled me $3.60. Round trip on the West Shore on Sunday was $2. Admission to the Fair 75 cents. Hot dog and coffee at the Child's booth was 20 cents."

I had root beer at a stand for five cents. Coca Cola at their booth for five cents. It was more elsewhere. The BMT subway fare was five cents and the then new 8th Avenue Independent subway fare was a dime. Vegetables, corn muffins and coffee at the Automat in the city later was a quarter.

I further wrote at the time, for the readers of the Rural New Yorker in 1939: "Don't let New York City frighten you, if you know Times Square, just go down any subway entrance and for five cents a train going uptown will take you to the 1939 World's Fair. There are World's Fair signs all over, by subway it takes 25 minutes."

Reading the above, I realize how time has passed and how much I have forgotten. One should keep a personal notebook on all such trips, which of course I do not do, only when I run off my experiences in the column.

I wrote further in 1939: "You can bring your own lunch, for there are special free eating accommodations, where milk, coffee and soft drinks are sold; one near the American Radiator Building, one near the Westinghouse exhibit, and a third in the amusement area."

At the time, I thought it wise, "Not to drive to the Fair grounds in your car as it cost to park, and you are quite a distance from the entrance. The subway takes you right inside the Fair, to the pay booth. The minute you pay your 75 cents admission, the place is yours, the foreign and government buildings, commercial exhibits, all invite you in for free, and there are many free performances and spectacles all over the grounds. "I learned later how one family read that Rural New Yorker article and took it with them, and followed my experiences and expenses with good results, so perhaps others did also in 1939.

Rhode Island was last of the 13 colonies to ratify the U. S. Constitution.

State Certifies Realtor Course At Local College

Ulster County Community College today announced it has received notice from the New York State Division of Licensing Services that its course, Principles of Real Estate, has been certified by the Secretary of State as an approved course.

Persons successfully completing this course can substitute it for one of the two years of sales experience normally required for the broker's license.

The course in the Principles of Real Estate covers two semesters and this year is being taught by Attorney S. James Matthews and Edward C. O'Connor, licensed real estate broker. Another course was introduced last September. Thirty-two persons registered for the first semester and during the current semester 29 people are continuing with Principles of Real Estate II.

In commenting on the new program Dr. Dale B. Lake, president of the college, today said: "We are very pleased that our real estate program has been certified through the New York State division of Licensing Services and that people taking it will not only find it to be of practical value but will be able to receive credit towards the experience required for the broker's license. This marks another milestone for Ulster County Community College and we hope it is only the first of a number of programs we can develop in cooperation with various professional groups in the area we serve."

It is expected that a course in Real Estate Appraisal will be offered next year and that the Principles of Real Estate course may possibly be repeated. Information regarding the real estate program can be obtained from the college admissions office at 214 West Chestnut Street.

U. S. Families Are To Leave Viet Nam As Terror Spreads

WASHINGTON (AP)—Families of U.S. personnel in South Viet Nam are being permitted to return home in the face of stepped-up communist terrorism.

But U.S. officials have no plans at present to order home the 1,339 American wives and children still in the embattled Southeast Asian country. Dependents are still being allowed to accompany personnel newly assigned to South Viet Nam.

So far, only a few American dependents there have asked to be sent home.

There are indications, however, that the possibility of evacuating dependents is under consideration. In the past three weeks, 6 Americans have been killed and 85 wounded in the terrorist drive.

Present opinion here is opposed to any all-out evacuation.

"There are no plans to bring dependents of U.S. military personnel back from South Viet Nam at this time," the Defense Department said today. "There are no plans to forbid travel of dependens to South Viet Nam."

A similar view was expressed by State Department sources.

Officials who oppose sending the dependents home argue that such a step might indicate to the Viet Cong guerrillas that their terrorist tactics are successful.

Those who oppose this view say that removal of the dependents would permit Americans in South Viet Nam to devote their full attention to the military campaign against the Viet Cong.

They also raise the question of whether women and children should be exposed to unnecessary risks.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

With the World's Fair coming to New York soon, some of us perhaps think back to the 1939 World"s Fair. A change has come over New York City itself since, it seems. I remember, it was perfectly safe to ride in the subway day or night, gangs did not roam the streets or subways as they seem to do now-a-days according to the reports.

Jimmy Breslin, a New York City newspaper columnist said the other day on a TV interview, that New York City and Broadway is Lunch Town, no more night life on Broadway, people are afraid to come out after midnight. In my time, after a dance, we would go down to Broadway, to the Automat or Childs for a bite to eat after midnight, and we felt safe, and were safe. We would then go in all directions on the subway. Crime existed, as it did in all big cities, but it was in the background, ordinary people could walk about, as I remember. Now folks from small towns like Kingston, who may want to visit this World's Fair, may fear to go because of what they read in newspapers and see over TV on New York City crime.

I covered the World's Fair for the Rural New Yorker, for their June 17, 1939 issue. The article is on the back cover. I do not know what it will cost to visit the World's Fair this year of 1964, but entrance was 75 cents at the 1939 Fair. Here is my first paragraph from 1939, "You're all wrong if you say, 'But the World's Fair is so expensive.' I'm a county fair enthusiast myself, but I spent less at the World's Fair, seeing some 21 buildings, and train fare. All told that day in the city totaled me $3.60. Round trip on the West Shore on Sunday was $2. Admission to the Fair 75 cents. Hot dog and coffee at the Child's booth was 20 cents."

I had root beer at a stand for five cents. Coca Cola at their booth for five cents. It was more elsewhere. The BMT subway fare was five cents and the then new 8th Avenue Independent subway fare was a dime. Vegetables, corn muffins and coffee at the Automat in the city later was a quarter.

I further wrote at the time, for the readers of the Rural New Yorker in 1939: "Don't let New York City frighten you, if you know Times Square, just go down any subway entrance and for five cents a train going uptown will take you to the 1939 World's Fair. There are World's Fair signs all over, by subway it takes 25 minutes."

Reading the above, I realize how time has passed and how much I have forgotten. One should keep a personal notebook on all such trips, which of course I do not do, only when I run off my experiences in the column.

I wrote further in 1939: "You can bring your own lunch, for there are special free eating accommodations, where milk, coffee and soft drinks are sold; one near the American Radiator Building, one near the Westinghouse exhibit, and a third in the amusement area."

At the time, I thought it wise, "Not to drive to the Fair grounds in your car as it cost to park, and you are quite a distance from the entrance. The subway takes you right inside the Fair, to the pay booth. The minute you pay your 75 cents admission, the place is yours, the foreign and government buildings, commercial exhibits, all invite you in for free, and there are many free performances and spectacles all over the grounds. "I learned later how one family read that Rural New Yorker article and took it with them, and followed my experiences and expenses with good results, so perhaps others did also in 1939.

Rhode Island was last of the 13 colonies to ratify the U. S. Constitution.

AP Survey Reflects Mood of New Yorkers

Keeping the Peace Is Main Concern For '64; Glad Tragic 1963 Is Finished

Editors: Deep tragedy marked the end of 1963. What is the mood of New Yorkers as 1964 rolls into high gear? The Associated Press sampled views of a cross-section of people — about the departure of the old year, world tensions, their personal expectations in 1964.

By EARL ARONSON

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—This is the mood of New Yorkers: They are relieved that tragic 1963 has ended. They believe that world tensions will mount in 1964. They expect that their personal way of life will change but little.

Cross-Section Folk

An Associated Press query to a cross-section of folk indicated that the mood depended considerably on their station in life—their occupation, their earning power, their color.

But deep in the minds of those who responded was the disturbing question: Will we be able to keep the peace?

The survey tapped the thoughts of men and women in government, in the home, business and industry, a minister, a Negro educator, a Y.M.C.A. secretary, a college athletic director.

The assassination of President Kennedy tinged 1963 with bitter memories. Most folk were glad to push that year behind because of the tragedy.

Those reluctant about 1963's departure said the year was good to them personally.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson said "the national tragedy represented by the assassination of our President was not erased from memory at the chiming of midnight on Dec. 31."

Tensions to Stay: Wilson

"Tensions have been intensified by the efforts of atheistic communism overtly and covertly to detroy freedom," he added. "These tensions will not noticeably abate in the predictable future."

Our greatest problem, he said, "is getting more people to understand the individual responsibilities which attach to liberty and freedom."

The Rev. Edward Weiskotten, pastor of the Resurrection Lutheran Church, Syracuse, is relieved that 1963 had gone "only in the sense that the world is no worse off."

He expects little change in world tensions—only shifts in location.

To Jim Decker, Syracuse University athletic director, "we seem always at the mercy of some event" we cannot control.

Decker doesn't expect life to be more difficult in 1964 because an election year "is not one in which things seem to boom."

For author Taylor Caldwell, who lives in Eggertsville, 1963 won't be over "until the murder of our young President is avenged."

Expects Upheavals

World tensions will not ease, she said, because "communism is a diabolic dynamism that must advance or it must die, and the communists know it."

Her greatest problem this year, she said, "is to save a little after taxes—impossible to the self-employed, whom Mr. Kennedy was going to help."

"I expect national and international upheavals on a grand scale," she said. "I hope I am just a pessimist. But I think not. All my forebodings always come true."

Y.M.C.A. Secretary John B. Tulp of Buffalo believes that life in 1964 will be easier physically but more difficult mentally.

"I is difficult to make the mental adjustments necessary to cope with the combined blessing and threat of automation, emerging new power changes such as the Common Market, the threat of Red China and questionable job security," he said.

While 1963 was marred by the assassination, it was "the brightest year yet" on the civil rights front, said George A. Wiley, Negro professor of chemistry at Syracuse University.

Tough Year for Negroes

But he said, "Negroes in general face as tough a year as they did last year. Increasing automation with the drop in employment is keenly felt by the Negroes."

Wiley said the greatest problem in 1964 would be "apathy on the part of Negroes and whites about the racial problem."

State Sen. Walter J. Mahoney, R - Buffalo, majority leader, predicted world tensions would intensify "partly because of our vacillating attitude toward our allies and because too often we have allowed our nose to be tweaked by small nations. . . such as Cuba, Laos and Vietnam."

Aubame Is Named Premier of Gabon

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — Jean Hilaire Aubame, chief political foe of neighboring Gabon's ousted President Leon M'ba, has been named provisional premier in the wake of Tuesday's bloodless coup in the former French African colony.

Aubame, 51, who heads a 10-man government, said in a broadcast from the Gabon capital of Libreville that he would respect the international commitments of M'ba's pro-French regime.

He appealed for calm and said the interests of foreigners in Gabon would be respected.

He told Gabon's 420,000 inhabitants: "It is because of your anguished and repeated appeals and to spare our dear Gabon from a general revolt and its consequences that our soldiers and gendarmes have just freed the country of a regime which was leading it fatally to disorder."

The four-man revolutionary committee which directed the coup proclaimed a state of emergency and set a dusk-to-dawn curfew. Assembly of more than five persons was forbidden.

A member of the revolutionary committee, Sub-Lt. Daniel Mbene, indicated the military would exercise veto power over the provisional government. Mbene said Lt. Jacques Monbo, a gendarme officer and a member of the committee, would supervise the government.

Long Power Struggle

Other members of the committee are Lt. Jean Essone and Sub.-Lt. Daniel Nbo Edou.

The coup came after a long power struggle between M'ba, head of the Gabonese Democratic Bloc and Aubame, leader of the Democratic and Socialist Union.

M'ba last month dissolved Gabon's 67-member Parliament and called new elections for Sunday to choose a 47-member assembly. The president said the membership was being reduced as an economy measure. Opposition sources charged that the move was aimed against Aubame's party, which put up no candidates.

Army Pledges Loyalty

Gabon's 450-man army, which had pledged loyalty to President M'ba a month ago, took over without firing a shot.

The U.S. State Department announced in Washington that some 150 Americans living in Gabon were reported safe. They included 30 staff members of the U.S. Embassy and their dependents, 70 Peace Corps volunteers, 25 missionaries and dependents and 15 engineers.

American officials said there was no indication of a Communist hand in the uprising.

There was no immediate word of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who has operated a hospital for the past 50 years at Lambarene, a jungle community 100 miles southeast of Libreville.

County Vols . . .

to allow for the shrinking value of the dollar in purchasing power.

$170 for Home

It was reported that thus far $170 had been collected from 27 fire companies in the county toward the fund necessary for the Ulster County Day at the Hudson Firemen's Home.

Copies of bills affecting volunteer firemen were distributed. It was suggested that fire companies seek the assistance of religious, veteran and non-profit organizations in their support of legislation which would permit games of chance through local option. Their support in calling on the local senator and assemblyman to support such legislation, was suggested to augment the efforts being made by the firemen.

Centerville Next

Henry Ulrich, chairman, Morton Finch and Alvin Beatty were named to secure entertaiment talent for the Ulster County Day at the Hudson Firemen's Home.

The association voted to contribute $5 to the Heart Fund.

President Herbert Faurote reported that he had mailed out application to companies for participation in the annual county association parade at Rosendale. To date he had received 11 returns.

The meeting then adjourned out of respect to the memory of Wilbur Delanoy who died February 10.

Centerville firemen will be host at the March meeting.

Husband's Profit Sharing HeadedIntoTax-Exempts

Q) "My husband's company was recently merged. A profit-sharing plan in which he participated is being dropped, and he will have to take out his share. We have real estate, bank accounts, and a large amount of good stocks. I am afraid that putting this money into taxable investments will raise our income taxes considerably. Can you suggest the purchase of tax-exempt bonds?"—S. C.

A) I will be glad to, since these seem very well suited to the investment of your husband's profit-sharing funds.

There have been recently offered City of Houston, Texas, Independent School District 3.30 per cent bonds, due 1991 and 1992, to yield 3.40 per cent. These are rated A.

You might also consider Cleveland, Ohio, Housing Authority 3⅜'s (when issued) due in 1992, and offered to yield 3.25 per cent to maturity. These latter bonds are issued under contract with the U. S. Public Housing Administration and are rated AAA.

Q) "We own about 1,500 acres of land. We have inherited 1,410 shares of Dun & Bradstreet, and an additional 2,000 shares are being held in trust for us. How do you regard this stock? Should we continue to hold, as the family has done for generations?"—J. H.

A) You seem to be very well situated, financially, I am pleased to see.

Your own holdings in Dun & Bradstreet amount to about $95,000 and those held in trust are worth $134,000. Dun is a very old and very high grade situation which has shown steady growth over the past decade, both in earnings and in dividends. The company provides publications and surveys for business in the fields of credit, finance, and research.

I like the stock, but I believe that you are too heavily represented in one single situation. I believe you should diversify by selling the shares you own directly and de-investing in other growth issues that are emphasized in these columns.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Gives Church View

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP)—Archbishop W. P. Whelan says the Roman Catholic Church does not oppose racial segregation by a nation.

"The time is ripe to set out the official attitude of the Church," said the Catholic Archbishop of Bloemfontein in a statement as press director of the administrative board of the South African Catholic Bishops' conference.

The archbishop said the situation in white supremacist South Africa has its defects, but it is stable, and full of prospects for development.

Rocky Is Looking ToNewHampshire On Divorce Angle

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is looking to his New Hampshire primary campaign, which he is resuming today, to wipe out his divorce and remarriage as a liability to his effort to win the Republican nomination for president.

Sources close to the New York State governor say he views the New Hampshire primary in the same strategic light in which the late President John F. Kennedy approached the West Virginia primary.

Kennedy's victory in West Virginia, a predominately Protestant state, was hailed as proof that his Roman Catholic religion was not necessarily a bar to his winning the presidency.

In somewhat the same approach, the Rockefeller forces are saying that a victory in New Hampshire for the governor will be solid evidence that his marital situation is not necessarily a handicap in a bid for the presidency.

On the other hand, Rockefeller is risking the possibility of a sharp setback, which would be interpreted as support for the view that a divorced and remarried man cannot draw wide support from the electorate.

Rockefeller campaign aides say privately that the results of the New Hampshire primary March 10 will be the first test at the polls of how voters react to the governor's remarriage.

The governor has been pressing an intensive campaign in New Hampshire. His schedule for the current trip lists nearly 40 activities through Saturday night.

Mrs. Rockefeller did not plan to accompany the governor on this trip, which will take him through the ski resort areas of northern New Hampshire.

The governor's wife, who is expecting a child in June, has been curtailing her campaign activities.

Electrol Plans 20-Year Dinner Thursday Night

The 12th annual banquet of the Twenty Year Club of Electrol, Inc., will be held Thursday at 7 p. m. at Cuneo's Restaurant. There are 97 employes of the local firm who are eligible for membership.

The president of the club is selected on a rotating basis of employment longevity. Outgoing president, Richard Craver, will be succeeded in office by Caroline Mauff who will serve as club president for 1964. Loretta Wolff is financial secretary.

Annual dinner meetings are normally held on Feb. 21 at which time the new president is selected but due to that date coming on a Friday this year, the dinner was advanced one day to Thursday.

Renews Proposal To Bar Florida Train From Cape

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds says he will renew a proposal that the Florida East Coast Railway, target of a strike, be barred from using a new spur track at Cape Kennedy.

He said he feared picketing of the spur by the 11 striking unions would hamper the nation's missile and space program. Construction work was halted briefly at the base last week when union workers refused to cross a picket line of railroad strikers.

Reynolds met with representatives of the unions and the railroad Tuesday in an attempt to settle the wage strike, which has dragged on nearly 13 months.

Ed Ball, 75-year-old board chairman of the Miami-Jacksonville railroad, refused to accept arbitration and insisted that any talks between railroad and union officials be taken down by a court reporter.

This issue snagged joint talks, as it has previously. The unions are asking a 10.28 cent hourly raise as established in a national pattern. Ball said the railroad cannot afford to pay it.

After talking separately with Ball and with G. E. Leighty of St. Louis, chairman of the non-operating unions, Reynolds told newsmen the discussions resulted in "complete futility."

Reynolds said Ball's adamant attitude was out of the 19th century, and so was the violence which has marked the strike.

There have been three major wrecks of Florida East Coast freight trains, operated by new employes. Investigators say dynamite was used to blow up the trains. No arrests have been made.

Reynolds said he and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz previously recommended the railroad be denied use of the spur, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration refused.

He also said three members of the President's Missile Sites Labor Commission will come to Florida soon to investigate the dispute. The commission took jurisdiction last week.

Uptown Merchants Appreciate Fast Removal of Snow

George Svirsky, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, in a letter dated Feb. 18 to Acting Mayor Joseph F. Carroll Jr., commends the city administration and public works forces for efficient removal of snow at night in the uptown shopping district.

The letter:

"In behalf of the membership of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association I wish to express my appreciation to the administration and the men of the department of public works for the excellent timing and performance of snow removal in the city's business and financial district last night.

"In eight short hours the department proved that it is not only more economical to remove snow from the uptown business district at night when the men are not hampered by parked cars and congested traffic, but also provides a vast improvement of service to the many taxpayers and residents who work, shop and conduct their business in uptown Kingston.

"It was a great pleasure to behold this morning, less than a day and a half after the termination of a severe snowstorm, the freedom of our heavily traveled streets and sidewalks.

"We could not help but compare favorably this performance with previous daytime operations, which have tied up both snow removal crews and vehicular traffic for as much as five days at tremendous cost and inconvenience to the taxpayers and business area, and, at the same time tied up crews who could have been working more steadily in less congested residential areas during daytime hours.

"Please convey our congratulations and appreciation to the mayor, superintendent of public works, and the men of the department for this beneficial experiment in snow removal policy, and its resultant improvement of service and reduction of cost."

Alderman-at-Large Carroll is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor John J. Schwenk, who is on vacation.

Assembly Passage

opments in other legislation:

LIQUOR HOURS — Assemblyman John Robert Brook, R-New York City, introduced a bill that would require taverns and nightclubs throughout New York State to close by 2 a.m. daily. The present closing hours are 4 a.m. in New York City and 3 a.m. elsewhere. Brooks contended that the most troublesome hours at drinking establishments were after 2 a. m.

NEW YORK CITY TAXES — The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill intended to make the New York City government submit its tax proposals to the Legislature by the mid-way point of the annual session. The measure, hotly opposed by Democrats, was approved 76-63, a bare constitutional majority. Supporters of the bill said it was designed to prevent the New York City government from sending complicated tax legislation to the Legislature in the closing days of the session.

The trading-stamp legislation was introduced in behalf of the Joint Legislative Committee on Commerce and Economic Development, which had spent several years studying the question.

The bill would require all trading-stamp companies doing business in the state to register with the secretary of state and to obtain a bond to guarantee that the company fulfills its obligations.

The cash-redemption provision would permit persons to redeem stamps having a total cash value of $1 or more.

Aubame Is Named Premier of Gabon

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP) — Jean Hilaire Aubame, chief political foe of neighboring Gabon's ousted President Leon M'ba, has been named provisional premier in the wake of Tuesday's bloodless coup in the former French African colony.

Aubame, 51, who heads a 10-man government, said in a broadcast from the Gabon capital of Libreville that he would respect the international commitments of M'ba's pro-French regime.

He appealed for calm and said the interests of foreigners in Gabon would be respected.

He told Gabon's 420,000 inhabitants: "It is because of your anguished and repeated appeals and to spare our dear Gabon from a general revolt and its consequences that our soldiers and gendarmes have just freed the country of a regime which was leading it fatally to disorder."

The four-man revolutionary committee which directed the coup proclaimed a state of emergency and set a dusk-to-dawn curfew. Assembly of more than five persons was forbidden.

A member of the revolutionary committee, Sub-Lt. Daniel Mbene, indicated the military would exercise veto power over the provisional government. Mbene said Lt. Jacques Monbo, a gendarme officer and a member of the committee, would supervise the government.

Long Power Struggle

Other members of the committee are Lt. Jean Essone and Sub.-Lt. Daniel Nbo Edou.

The coup came after a long power struggle between M'ba, head of the Gabonese Democratic Bloc and Aubame, leader of the Democratic and Socialist Union.

M'ba last month dissolved Gabon's 67-member Parliament and called new elections for Sunday to choose a 47-member assembly. The president said the membership was being reduced as an economy measure. Opposition sources charged that the move was aimed against Aubame's party, which put up no candidates.

Army Pledges Loyalty

Gabon's 450-man army, which had pledged loyalty to President M'ba a month ago, took over without firing a shot.

The U.S. State Department announced in Washington that some 150 Americans living in Gabon were reported safe. They included 30 staff members of the U.S. Embassy and their dependents, 70 Peace Corps volunteers, 25 missionaries and dependents and 15 engineers.

American officials said there was no indication of a Communist hand in the uprising.

There was no immediate word of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who has operated a hospital for the past 50 years at Lambarene, a jungle community 100 miles southeast of Libreville.

County Vols . . .

to allow for the shrinking value of the dollar in purchasing power.

$170 for Home

It was reported that thus far $170 had been collected from 27 fire companies in the county toward the fund necessary for the Ulster County Day at the Hudson Firemen's Home.

Copies of bills affecting volunteer firemen were distributed. It was suggested that fire companies seek the assistance of religious, veteran and non-profit organizations in their support of legislation which would permit games of chance through local option. Their support in calling on the local senator and assemblyman to support such legislation, was suggested to augment the efforts being made by the firemen.

Centerville Next

Henry Ulrich, chairman, Morton Finch and Alvin Beatty were named to secure entertaiment talent for the Ulster County Day at the Hudson Firemen's Home.

The association voted to contribute $5 to the Heart Fund.

President Herbert Faurote reported that he had mailed out application to companies for participation in the annual county association parade at Rosendale. To date he had received 11 returns.

The meeting then adjourned out of respect to the memory of Wilbur Delanoy who died February 10.

Centerville firemen will be host at the March meeting.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Husband's Profit Sharing HeadedIntoTax-Exempts

Q) "My husband's company was recently merged. A profit-sharing plan in which he participated is being dropped, and he will have to take out his share. We have real estate, bank accounts, and a large amount of good stocks. I am afraid that putting this money into taxable investments will raise our income taxes considerably. Can you suggest the purchase of tax-exempt bonds?"—S. C.

A) I will be glad to, since these seem very well suited to the investment of your husband's profit-sharing funds.

There have been recently offered City of Houston, Texas, Independent School District 3.30 per cent bonds, due 1991 and 1992, to yield 3.40 per cent. These are rated A.

You might also consider Cleveland, Ohio, Housing Authority 3⅜'s (when issued) due in 1992, and offered to yield 3.25 per cent to maturity. These latter bonds are issued under contract with the U. S. Public Housing Administration and are rated AAA.

Q) "We own about 1,500 acres of land. We have inherited 1,410 shares of Dun & Bradstreet, and an additional 2,000 shares are being held in trust for us. How do you regard this stock? Should we continue to hold, as the family has done for generations?"—J. H.

A) You seem to be very well situated, financially, I am pleased to see.

Your own holdings in Dun & Bradstreet amount to about $95,000 and those held in trust are worth $134,000. Dun is a very old and very high grade situation which has shown steady growth over the past decade, both in earnings and in dividends. The company provides publications and surveys for business in the fields of credit, finance, and research.

I like the stock, but I believe that you are too heavily represented in one single situation. I believe you should diversify by selling the shares you own directly and de-investing in other growth issues that are emphasized in these columns.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Gives Church View

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP)—Archbishop W. P. Whelan says the Roman Catholic Church does not oppose racial segregation by a nation.

"The time is ripe to set out the official attitude of the Church," said the Catholic Archbishop of Bloemfontein in a statement as press director of the administrative board of the South African Catholic Bishops' conference.

The archbishop said the situation in white supremacist South Africa has its defects, but it is stable, and full of prospects for development.

Rocky Is Looking ToNewHampshire On Divorce Angle

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is looking to his New Hampshire primary campaign, which he is resuming today, to wipe out his divorce and remarriage as a liability to his effort to win the Republican nomination for president.

Sources close to the New York State governor say he views the New Hampshire primary in the same strategic light in which the late President John F. Kennedy approached the West Virginia primary

Kennedy's victory in West Virginia, a predominately Protestant state, was hailed as proof that his Roman Catholic religion was not necessarily a bar to his winning the presidency.

In somewhat the same approach, the Rockefeller forces are saying that a victory in New Hampshire for the governor will be solid evidence that his marital situation is not necessarily a handicap in a bid for the presidency.

On the other hand, Rockefeller is risking the possibility of a sharp setback, which would be interpreted as support for the view that a divorced and remarried man cannot draw wide support from the electorate.

Rockefeller campaign aides say privately that the results of the New Hampshire primary March 10 will be the first test at the polls of how voters react to the governor's remarriage.

The governor has been pressing an intensive campaign in New Hampshire. His schedule for the current trip lists nearly 40 activities through Saturday night.

Mrs. Rockefeller did not plan to accompany the governor on this trip, which will take him through the ski resort areas of northern New Hampshire.

Electrol Plans 20-Year Dinner Thursday Night

The 12th annual banquet of the Twenty Year Club of Electrol, Inc., will be held Thursday at 7 p. m. at Cuneo's Restaurant. There are 97 employes of the local firm who are eligible for membership.

The president of the club is selected on a rotating basis of employment longevity. Outgoing president, Richard Craver, will be succeeded in office by Caroline Mauff who will serve as club president for 1964. Loretta Wolff is financial secretary.

Annual dinner meetings are normally held on Feb. 21 at which time the new president is selected but due to that date coming on a Friday this year, the dinner was advanced one day to Thursday.

Cites Picketing

Renews Proposal To Bar Florida Train From Cape

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds says he will renew a proposal that the Florida East Coast Railway, target of a strike, be barred from using a new spur track at Cape Kennedy.

He said he feared picketing of the spur by the 11 striking unions would hamper the nation's missile and space program. Construction work was halted briefly at the base last week when union workers refused to cross a picket line of railroad strikers.

Reynolds met with representatives of the unions and the railroad Tuesday in an attempt to settle the wage strike, which has dragged on nearly 13 months.

Ed Ball, 75-year-old board chairman of the Miami-Jacksonville railroad, refused to accept arbitration and insisted that any talks between railroad and union officials be taken down by a court reporter.

This issue snagged joint talks, as it has previously. The unions are asking a 10.28 cent hourly raise as established in a national pattern. Ball said the railroad cannot afford to pay it.

After talking separately with Ball and with G. E. Leighty of St. Louis, chairman of the non-operating unions, Reynolds told newsmen the discussions resulted in "complete futility."

Reynolds said Ball's adamant attitude was out of the 19th century, and so was the violence which has marked the strike.

There have been three major wrecks of Florida East Coast freight trains, operated by new employes. Investigators say dynamite was used to blow up the trains. No arrests have been made.

Reynolds said he and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz previously recommended the railroad be denied use of the spur, but the National Aeronautics and Space Administration refused.

He also said three members of the President's Missile Sites Labor Commission will come to Florida soon to investigate the dispute. The commission took jurisdiction last week.

Uptown Merchants Appreciate Fast Removal of Snow

George Svirsky, president of the Uptown Businessmen's Association, in a letter dated Feb. 18 to Acting Mayor Joseph F. Carroll Jr., commends the city administration and public works forces for efficient removal of snow at night in the uptown shopping district.

The letter:

"In behalf of the membership of the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association I wish to express my appreciation to the administration and the men of the department of public works for the excellent timing and performance of snow removal in the city's business and financial district last night.

"In eight short hours the department proved that it is not only more economical to remove snow from the uptown business district at night when the men are not hampered by parked cars and congested traffic, but also provides a vast improvement of service to the many taxpayers and residents who work, shop and conduct their business in uptown Kingston.

"It was a great pleasure to behold this morning, less than a day and a half after the termination of a severe snowstorm, the freedom of our heavily traveled streets and sidewalks.

"We could not help but compare favorably this performance with previous daytime operations, which have tied up both snow removal crews and vehicular traffic for as much as five days at tremendous cost and inconvenience to the taxpayers and business area, and, at the same time tied up crews who could have been working more steadily in less congested residential areas during daytime hours.

"Please convey our congratulations and appreciation to the mayor, superintendent of public works, and the men of the department for this beneficial experiment in snow removal policy, and its resultant improvement of service and reduction of cost."

Alderman-at-Large Carroll is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor John J. Schwenk, who is on vacation.

Assembly Passage

opments in other legislation:

LIQUOR HOURS — Assemblyman John Robert Brook, R-New York City, introduced a bill that would require taverns and nightclubs throughout New York State to close by 2 a.m. daily. The present closing hours are 4 a.m. in New York City and 3 a.m. elsewhere. Brooks contended that the most troublesome hours at drinking establishments were after 2 a. m.

NEW YORK CITY TAXES — The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill intended to make the New York City government submit its tax proposals to the Legislature by the mid-way point of the annual session. The measure, hotly opposed by Democrats, was approved 76-63, a bare constitutional majority. Supporters of the bill said it was designed to prevent the New York City government from sending complicated tax legislation to the Legislature in the closing days of the session.

The trading-stamp legislation was introduced in behalf of the Joint Legislative Committee on Commerce and Economic Development, which had spent several years studying the question.

The bill would require all trading-stamp companies doing business in the state to register with the secretary of state and to obtain a bond to guarantee that the company fulfills its obligations.

The cash-redemption provision would permit persons to redeem stamps having a total cash value of $1 or more.

Because Your Family Deserves the Finest in Service, Too
YOUR DAIRYLEA MILK GOT THROUGH

Behind the trim white truck that brings Dairylea Milk to your door or store, is a six-state organization of progressive dairy farmers. Drivers of over-the-road tankers, that rush fresh milk from country plants to city receiving stations, are alerted to road and weather conditions miles in advance.

Should snow, flood, or other emergency threaten the milk supply of any community, central dispatching offices flag the tankers down and re-route them by passable roads to the endangered community.

Your Dairylea routeman is the last link in the chain. His sense of responsibility to you and your family urges him on through mounting drifts and untraveled streets until the last delivery is made or an emergency depot is set up where milk is available.

Unfailing service that saves you time, effort and money every day of the year.

Tim Wachenfeld, Railing Lead Easy Triumph

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Giving their worst performance of the season, Kingston High cagers again dipped under the .500 mark by taking a 71-52 beating before about 25 spectators Tuesday at the Arlington High court.

Maybe it was the unusual afternoon game or maybe the locals were thinking ahead to Newburgh Free Academy, whom they meet on Friday. Whatever the reasons, the Admirals looked like the Celtics as they shot with amazing accuracy and controlled the backboards on both ends of the court.

Four Quick Baskets

Tim Wachenfeld made four quick baskets to start the game and the home side was never threatened. Wachenfeld did the damage in the first half and Rich Railing was the ring leader of the second half assault.

The closest the locals came was in the second quarter. They sliced a 15-point deficit to nine but then Wachenfeld threw in a deuce and Railing a pair of free throws and the Admirals had their safe margin once again.

Coach Jack Gilligan, who was forced to sit through the "exhibition," pulled the regulars out with 3:40 left in the third period and with Arlington in front by 18 points, 45-27.

Several reserves looked good with Joe Schabot playing an excellent game in his relief stint.

It was the second loss of the season to Arlington and left the locals with a 7-8 record. They close their home season Friday night by hosting the league leading Goldies of Newburgh Free Academy.

The match between Greco Brothers and AAA Auto Glass was postponed.

Bill Stewart, 69, Dies in Boston; Noted Official

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Stewart was best known as a no-nonsense baseball umpire, but he also was the only native American ever to coach a National Hockey League team.

He won the Stanley Cup his first year, but was fired the following year. That was the way his sports career went in about 50 years—up and down. But it was more up than down.

Stewart died Tuesday of a stroke at the age of 69 at a Veterans Administration Hospital.

He also had been a minor league baseball manager, a college coach, a wrestler, a track star, a boxing referee and a major league baseball scout.

His greatest accomplishment probably was coaching the Chicago Black Hawks to the Stanley Cup in 1938. Chicago finished third in the league standings, but defeated the old New York Americans and the Montreal Canadians in the playoffs before disposing of heavily favored Toronto for the cup.

11 Unsigned

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday that outfielder Joe Gaines and pitcher John Papa have signed 1964 baseball contracts, leaving 11 players on the 44-man roster still unsigned.

Gaines, 27, appeared in 66 games with Baltimore last season, hitting .286, including six home runs.

With Hank Brown giving a superlative performance, Poughkeepsie High kept its slim Duso championship hopes alive with a 73-67 verdict over pesky Monticello last night at the Bridge City gym.

Meanwhile, Newburgh took another step towards the title by trouncing visiting Liberty, 69-47.

Brown then took over. He scored a couple of baskets and then fed Charlie McPhee with a pass. McPhee made the bucket to put his club ahead, 66-64. Frank Wells followed with two deuces to put the game out of reach.

Ty Sands scored 22 points and Dave Brownbill added 21 for Monticello, which dropped from the chase with the loss.

Newburgh had it easy against Liberty. The Goldies, warming up for their Kingston game on Friday, had a 33-16 margin at halftime.

Boxing Network Set by Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's weekly boxing show, longest straight-run program on television, has survived a near knockout, thanks to Madison Square Garden's formation of a video fight network.

The Garden plans to air about 50 bouts, beginning Sept. 14, to replace the current ABC series which expires Sept. 11.

"We're working on a year-to-year basis," said Garden boxing director Harry Markson, who announced the move Tuesday. "We don't know how many TV stations we'll have yet."

At least six championship bouts are on tap for the new circuit. The Garden will originate 26 to 32 of the proposed shows. The remainder will be beamed from other cities under independent promotion.

Coleman Signs

CINCINNATI, (AP) — Gordy Coleman is the 27th Cincinnati Red player to sign for the 1964 season, the club said today.

Coleman will be starting his fourth full season with Cincinnati. Last year he batted .247 and had 14 home runs and 50 RBIs.

Mid-City Lanes, And Corner Rest Capture 'B' Games

Mid-City Lanes defeated Schaller's Texaco, 48-44, and Corner Rest romped over City Hall, 62-41, as second half action started in the YMCA "B" basketball league last night.

Schaller's and Mid-City were deadlocked 40-40 at the end of regulation time. Rich Nagele of Schaller's took game honors with 20 points and John Brown had 16. Bill Boice led the winners with 18 and Tom McCormack dunked 12.

Corner Rest led City Hall 24-14 at the intermission and outscored them, 38-27, after the recess. Three players — Jack Niles, Jerry Bruck and Bill McCabe, scored 16 points each. J. Schrader rimmed 13 and Dan Murphy 13 for City Hall.

The New Basketball Officials

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Editorial comment on the scholastic scene is generally reserved for our man Friday and Ed Palladino does a superb job week after week.

But we're going to poach on his special preserve for just one time. From the distant sidelines we have been watching the basketball-officiating shenanigans within the Dutchess County Scholastic League. And we don't like what we see.

You know the background. The DCSL athletic directors and representatives of the Mid-Hudson Valley Board of Approved Basketball Officials had a bitter showdown over an issue that has divided labor and management since time immemorial. Wages, what else! The officials asked for more money and certain other conditions. It was an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation and the administrators refused to budge from their final offer. Since this type of conflict is seldom arbitrable, a stalemate developed.

THEY HIRED THEIR OWN AND IT ISN'T WORKING

The DCSL solved the problem by hiring faculty members and other non-qualified personnel as basketball officials. None of this new breed had ever been subjected to the stiff Board examination and, so far as we know, none had ever passed one. But rather than lose face the DCSL brass accepted these neophytes as qualified officials.

Let us interject an interesting sidelight: the athletic director who is supposed to be "teaching" the neophytes has been in baseball over 30 years and never passed an umpire's examination. That may be purely academic but it is illustrative of what can happen when men sacrifice principle for expediency.

And as we see it, the principle is this: Athletic directors have a responsibility to the Board of Education to spend school funds as wisely and economically as possible. They also have the higher responsibility of guaranteeing the best possible officials for the interscholastic contests in which their athletes participate.

WHY NOT JANITORS' JOBS FOR THE OTHERS

If these pedagogues can suddenly be transformed into acceptable basketball officials, then the whole concept of "approved officials" is ridiculous and extraneous. Why, then, waste time and money on such trivia as examinations, rules clinics, refresher courses, etc. If certain members of the faculty can qualify as basketball officials overnight, why can't others take part time jobs as janitors, bus drivers, etc. within the school system. It makes just as much sense and certainly the experience qualifications are less exacting for bus drivers and janitors.

Now that the first DCSL season under the noble experiment is drawing to a close, the administrators have to decide if they want to go along with the same system in 1964-65. We understood they plan to do so. We hear about "good rating reports" on the new breed. But there is turbulence simmering under the surface. The DCSL brass is putting up a united front in support of the neophytes. And the coaches publicly appear to be accepting the situation. We almost said gag. But remember, these fellows work for the administrators and you don't revile your boss in public. But many of them privately deplore a situation which in time may turn DCSL basketball into a joke.

A Time to End It

As Roger Doughty, sports editor of the Poughkeepsie Journal put it so succinctly: " . . . this situation has gone far enough. All right the league has shown it won't be dictated to by the officials and the officials have shown that the league needs them. Neither side has lost face. It would be senseless to let this situation drag on interminably."

More important than all this "face saving" is an overriding consideration: the players deserve a better fate. If this system continues, it is conceivable that DCSL basketball players may complete a career without ever having played a single game handled by an approved official. Isn't that a pretty thought.

Port Grapplers Defeat Kingston To Cinch DUSO

Port Jervis grapplers trounced Kingston High, 34-11, Tuesday to cinch the 1963-64 DUSO League wrestling title with eight straight wins.

Coach Ken Brown's Maroons won only three of the 12 matches and earned one draw, but all three victories were significant. In the 123-pound class, George Ector of Kingston handed Tom Baylor of Port his first setback of the season.

Richard Koyon of Kingston decisioned John Santiago in the 136-pound class for the Porter's first defeat. Tom Auringer won the 157 pound class for his 11th straight victory of the season. Last year he was 6 and 1.

The summaries:

98 pounds—Rich Santiago, PJ, by default.

106 pounds—Steve Drapala, PJ, decisioned Gary Charlton, K, 12-2.

115 pounds—Bill Oliver, PJ, pinned Phil Davis, K, 4:38.

123 pounds—George Ector, K, decisioned Tom Bayer, PJ, 2-0.

130 pounds — Mike Drapala, PJ, pinned Bob Brodhead, K, 5:07; 136 pounds—Richard Koyon, K, decisioned John Santiago, PJ, 4-3; 141 pounds—Lou Sarno, PJ, decisioned Dennis Reilly, K, 9-0; 148 pounds—Charles Bayer, PJ, decisioned James Knox, K, 11-0; 157 pounds—Tom Auringer, K, decisioned Lester Buchanan, PJ, 13-3; 165 pounds — John Gould, PJ, pinned Neil Bechtold, K, 5:08; 183 pounds—Art Jackson, K, and Bill Blassber, PJ, draw; Unlimited — George Gardner, PJ, decisioned Brooke Jenkins, Kingston, 4-2.

Kingston completed its regular season with a record of 4 wins and 7 losses. The DUSO League wrestling meet is scheduled Saturday at Liberty.

Tim Wachenfeld, Railing Lead Easy Triumph

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Giving their worst performance of the season, Kingston High cagers again dipped under the .500 mark by taking a 71-52 beating before about 25 spectators Tuesday at the Arlington High court.

Maybe it was the unusual afternoon game or maybe the locals were thinking ahead to Newburgh Free Academy, whom they meet on Friday. Whatever the reasons, the Admirals looked like the Celtics as they shot with amazing accuracy and controlled the backboards on both ends of the court.

Four Quick Baskets

Tim Wachenfeld made four quick baskets to start the game and the home side was never threatened. Wachenfeld did the damage in the first half and Rich Railing was the ring leader of the second half assault.

The closest the locals came was in the second quarter. They sliced a 15-point deficit to nine but then Wachenfeld threw in a deuce and Railing a pair of free throws and the Admirals had their safe margin once again.

Several reserves looked good with Joe Schabot playing an excellent game in his relief stint.

It was the second loss of the season to Arlington and left the locals with a 7-8 record. They close their home season Friday night by hosting the league leading Goldies of Newburgh Free Academy.

Bill Stewart, 69, Dies in Boston; Noted Official

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Stewart was best known as a no-nonsense baseball umpire, but he also was the only native American ever to coach a National Hockey League team.

He won the Stanley Cup his first year, but was fired the following year. That was the way his sports career went in about 50 years—up and down. But it was more up than down.

Stewart died Tuesday of a stroke at the age of 69 at a Veterans Administration Hospital.

He also had been a minor league baseball manager, a college coach, a wrestler, a track star, a boxing referee and a major league baseball scout.

His greatest accomplishment probably was coaching the Chicago Black Hawks to the Stanley Cup in 1938. Chicago finished third in the league standings, but defeated the old New York Americans and the Montreal Canadians in the playoffs before disposing of heavily favored Toronto for the cup.

11 Unsigned

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday that outfielder Joe Gaines and pitcher John Papa have signed 1964 baseball contracts, leaving 11 players on the 44-man roster still unsigned.

Gaines, 27, appeared in 66 games with Baltimore last season, hitting .286, including six home runs.

Runnersup with a 65 per cent were Milton Tompkins, Hurley, and I. H. Wheatcroft, Kingston. Miss Dorothy Maroon and Mrs. P. B. Lodge were third with 60 per cent. Fourth place went to Mrs. John Olivet and Mrs. Irving Adner, Kingston, with 58½ per cent.

Boxing Network Set by Garden

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's weekly boxing show, longest straight-run program on television, has survived a near knockout, thanks to Madison Square Garden's formation of a video fight network.

The Garden plans to air about 50 bouts, beginning Sept. 14, to replace the current ABC series which expires Sept. 11.

"We're working on a year-to-year basis," said Garden boxing director Harry Markson, who announced the move Tuesday. "We don't know how many TV stations we'll have yet."

At least six championship bouts are on tap for the new circuit. The Garden will originate 26 to 32 of the proposed shows. The remainder will be beamed from other cities under independent promotion.

Coleman Signs

CINCINNATI, (AP) — Gordy Coleman is the 27th Cincinnati Red player to sign for the 1964 season, the club said today.

Coleman will be starting his fourth full season with Cincinnati. Last year he batted .247 and had 14 home runs and 50 RBIs.

The New Basketball Officials

By CHARLES J. TIANO
(Freeman Sports Editor)

Editorial comment on the scholastic scene is generally reserved for our man Friday and Ed Palladino does a superb job week after week.

But we're going to poach on his special preserve for just one time. From the distant sidelines we have been watching the basketball-officiating shenanigans within the Dutchess County Scholastic League. And we don't like what we see.

You know the background. The DCSL athletic directors and representatives of the Mid-Hudson Valley Board of Approved Basketball Officials had a bitter showdown over an issue that has divided labor and management since time immemorial. Wages, what else! The officials asked for more money and certain other conditions. It was an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation and the administrators refused to budge from their final offer. Since this type of conflict is seldom arbitrable, a stalemate developed.

THEY HIRED THEIR OWN AND IT ISN'T WORKING

The DCSL solved the problem by hiring faculty members and other non-qualified personnel as basketball officials. None of this new breed had ever been subjected to the stiff Board examination and, so far as we know, none had ever passed one. But rather than lose face the DCSL brass accepted these neophytes as qualified officials.

Let us interject an interesting sidelight: the athletic director who is supposed to be "teaching" the neophytes has been in baseball over 30 years and never passed an umpire's examination. That may be purely academic but it is illustrative of what can happen when men sacrifice principle for expediency.

And as we see it, the principle is this: Athletic directors have a responsibility to the Board of Education to spend school funds as wisely and economically as possible. They also have the higher responsibility of guaranteeing the best possible officials for the interscholastic contests in which their athletes participate.

WHY NOT JANITORS' JOBS FOR THE OTHERS

If these pedagogues can suddenly be transformed into acceptable basketball officials, then the whole concept of "approved officials" is ridiculous and extraneous. Why, then, waste time and money on such trivia as examinations, rules clinics, refresher courses, etc. If certain members of the faculty can qualify as basketball officials overnight, why can't others take part time jobs as janitors, bus drivers, etc. within the school system. It makes just as much sense and certainly the experience qualifications are less exacting for bus drivers and janitors.

Now that the first DCSL season under the noble experiment is drawing to a close, the administrators have to decide if they want to go along with the same system in 1964-65. We understood they plan to do so. We hear about "good rating reports" on the new breed. But there is turbulence simmering under the surface. The DCSL brass is putting up a united front in support of the neophytes. And the coaches publicly appear to be accepting the situation. We almost said gag. But remember, these fellows work for the administrators and you don't revile your boss in public. But many of them privately deplore a situation which in time may turn DCSL basketball into a joke.

A Time to End It

As Roger Doughty, sports editor of the Poughkeepsie Journal put it so succinctly: " . . . this situation has gone far enough. All right the league has shown it won't be dictated to by the officials and the officials have shown that the league needs them. Neither side has lost face. It would be senseless to let this situation drag on interminably."

More important than all this "face saving" is an overriding consideration: the players deserve a better fate. If this system continues, it is conceivable that DCSL basketball players may complete a career without ever having played a single game handled by an approved official. Isn't that a pretty thought.

Port Grapplers Defeat Kingston To Cinch DUSO

Port Jervis grapplers trounced Kingston High, 34-11, Tuesday to cinch the 1963-64 DUSO League wrestling title with eight straight wins.

Coach Ken Brown's Maroons won only three of the 12 matches and earned one draw, but all three victories were significant. In the 123-pound class, George Ector of Kingston handed Tom Baylor of Port his first setback of the season.

Richard Koyon of Kingston decisioned John Santiago in the 136-pound class for the Porter's first defeat. Tom Auringer won the 157 pound class for his 11th straight victory of the season. Last year he was 6 and 1.

The summaries:

98 pounds—Rich Santiago, PJ, by default.

106 pounds—Steve Drapala, PJ, decisioned Gary Charlton, K, 12-2.

115 pounds—Bill Oliver, PJ, pinned Phil Davis, K, 4:38.

123 pounds—George Ector, K, decisioned Tom Bayer, PJ, 2-0.

130 pounds — Mike Drapala, PJ, pinned Bob Brodhead, K, 5:07; 136 pounds—Richard Koyon, K, decisioned John Santiago, PJ, 4-3; 141 pounds—Lou Sarno, PJ, decisioned Dennis Reilly, K, 9-0; 148 pounds—Charles Bayer, PJ, decisioned James Knox, K, 11-0; 157 pounds—Tom Auringer, K, decisioned Lester Buchanan, PJ, 13-3; 165 pounds — John Gould, PJ, pinned Neil Bechtold, K, 5:08; 183 pounds—Art Jackson, K, and Bill Blassber, PJ, draw; Unlimited — George Gardner, PJ, decisioned Brooke Jenkins, Kingston, 4-2.

Kingston completed its regular season with a record of 4 wins and 7 losses. The DUSO League wrestling meet is scheduled Saturday at Liberty.

Three Foul Out To Hurt Hawk Chances for Win

Three regulars fouled out and the Hawks of New Paltz State lost a 70-60 verdict to visiting Albany State last night at the New Paltz Central gym.

Ace Fred Sadler, who scored the first nine points of the game and who had 19 at halftime, played only a little more than a minute in the second half. He picked up his fourth foul at the start of the session and sat things out until the 3:00 minute mark.

Not more than a moment later, the big boy picked up his fifth personal and the New Paltz chances were snuffed out. To compound matters, Joe Facciolli and Alex Hazelton also fouled out in the late stages.

Coach Doug Sheppard's quintet, sparked by Sadler's tremendous first half performance, moved to a 37-35 lead at the interim.

Seven Straight Points

High-scoring Dick Crossett opened the second half with seven straight points and the Peds were never headed, though the home side tied the score on three different occasions.

It was still a barn burner at 58-56, when Crossett scored from inside and was fouled by Sadler. He made the free throw. Sadler went to the bench with his fifth personal and the Hawks were dead.

New Paltz is now at 8-11 and will close its regular season Saturday night by hosting Quinnipiac College.

Knicks Losing Skein Ends at 9

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers ended a downhill flight, the Detroit Pistons had no such luck and Pittsburgh fans got their first "live" look at the champion Boston Celtics in Tuesday night's far-flung National Basketball Association activity.

The Knicks snapped a nine-game losing streak—two shy of the club record—by nipping Los Angeles 118-117 at New York.

Boston topped Philadelphia 103-93 in the first NBA game ever played in the Steel City.

Foul Helps Knicks

An offensive foul called against Laker star Jerry West with 11 seconds to play helped New York crack the victory column and hand Los Angeles its 12th loss in 14 games.

West and Elgin Baylor had led a rally that trimmed a seven-point New York lead to one. The Knicks' Art Heyman then missed a free throw. Baylor grabbed the rebound and fed West, who collided with Heyman on his jump-shot try.

Johnny Green paced the Knicks with 26 points. West had 45 for the Lakers.

The Warriors got another 52-point performance from Wilt Chamberlain, who also pulled down 32 rebounds. San Francisco ran off 10 straight points late in the final period to overtake the Pistons. Don Ohl led Detroit with 29 points.

San Francisco leads St. Louis, idle Tuesday, by one game in the Western Division race.

Boston led most of the way against the 76ers, who played without three injured regulars. Frank Ramsey's 22 points paced the Celts, who now lead Cincinnati by two games in the East.

Buick Tourney Is Blacked Out

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A Buick spokesman said Tuesday that a disagreement over television rights will black out next summer's Buick Open Golf Tournament.

The tournament is set for June 11-14 at nearby Warwick Hills. The spokesman said the event would not be televised because of a dispute with the Professional Golfers Association.

He said the PGA reportedly wanted 20 per cent of the television proceeds, or about $11,000 of the total $55,000 tourney tab.

"We don't want to enter into that hassle," he added.

The issue over ownership of television rights to PGA tournaments came up earlier this month at the Phoenix Open. Golfers threatened a boycott unless they were given rights already sold. A compromise averted the boycott.

Snead Joins Seniors In PGA Tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Nine members of Golf's Hall of Fame, including a brash young newcomer named Sam Snead, are among more than 400 who will tee off Thursday in the $30,000 PGA Seniors Teacher Trophy Tournament.

The 51-year-old Snead joins the select group for the first time in this favorite event of golfers past the golden age. The winner will earn $2,500 and a trip to England to play the British Senior champ.

Other Hall of Famers in the competition will be Jock Hutchinson, 79, winner of the first Seniors tournament in 1937; Denny Shute, 59; Gene Sarazen, 61; Paul Runyan, 55; Mike Brady, 76; Jimmy Demaret, 53; Fred McLeod, 81, and E.J. (Dutch) Harrison, 54.

Lane Risking Shot At Lightweight Title

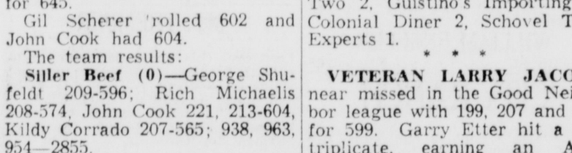

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Southpaw Kenny Lane meets Erie's Johnny Bizzarro tonight in a scheduled 10-round fight which could cost Lane a shot at Carlos Ortiz's lightweight championship if he loses.

Pete Petrosky, Lane's manager, said "We have a signed contract" to fight Ortiz April 4 in Puerto Rico.

However, promoter Don Elbaum of Erie said he has heard that if Lane loses to Bizzaro the Ortiz fight is off.

Lane, of Muskegon, Mich., a 12-5 favorite tonight, will enter the ring with a 75-11-2 record, including 15 knockouts. Bizzarro has a 46-6-2 with 20 knockouts.

The one on top is a world famous legend.
The one below it is the same legend redesigned into an all new station wagon.
It has the deluxe interior appointments and comfortable ride of a fine passenger car . . . carries six big adults plus more luggage and equipment than you can imagine. It's powered by America's only automotive overhead cam engine, the high torque Tornado OHC . . . offers optional extras such as automatic transmission, independent front suspension, power steering and power brakes. But the all new Wagoneer is really a 'Jeep' vehicle at heart.
The 'Jeep' Wagoneer goes up steep hills, over rough rugged terrain and through snow and mud that leave other cars helpless. And around slippery turns that cause fishtailing and skidding, it hugs the road with traditional 'Jeep' traction.
The big reason is 4-wheel "Drivepower."* All four wheels are power wheels instead of just two. Take a demonstration drive soon. You've never driven a car that can do the things this one can.

Three Foul Out To Hurt Hawk Chances for Win

Three regulars fouled out and the Hawks of New Paltz State lost a 70-60 verdict to visiting Albany State last night at the New Paltz Central gym.

Ace Fred Sadler, who scored the first nine points of the game and who had 19 at halftime, played only a little more than a minute in the second half. He picked up his fourth foul at the start of the session and sat things out until the 3:00 minute mark.

Not more than a moment later, the big boy picked up his fifth personal and the New Paltz chances were snuffed out. To compound matters, Joe Facciolli and Alex Hazelton also fouled out in the late stages.

Coach Doug Sheppard's quintet, sparked by Sadler's tremendous first half performance, moved to a 37-35 lead at the interim.

Seven Straight Points

High-scoring Dick Crossett opened the second half with seven straight points and the Peds were never headed, though the home side tied the score on three different occasions.

It was still a barn burner at 58-56, when Crossett scored from inside and was fouled by Sadler. He made the free throw, Sadler went to the bench with his fifth personal and the Hawks were dead.

New Paltz is now at 8-11 and will close its regular season Saturday night by hosting Quinnipiac College.

Knicks Losing Skein Ends at 9

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers ended a downhill flight, the Detroit Pistons had no such luck and Pittsburgh fans got their first "live" look at the champion Boston Celtics in Tuesday night's far-flung National Basketball Association activity.

The Knicks snapped a nine-game losing streak—two shy of the club record—by nipping Los Angeles 118-117 at New York.

The Pistons dropped their seventh in a row and tied their all-time season low of 46 defeats by bowing to San Francisco 108-98 at Lansing, Mich.

Boston topped Philadelphia 103-93 in the first NBA game ever played in the Steel City.

Foul Helps Knicks

An offensive foul called against Laker star Jerry West with 11 seconds to play helped New York crack the victory column and hand Los Angeles its 12th loss in 14 games.

West and Elgin Baylor had led a rally that trimmed a seven-point New York lead to one. The Knicks' Art Heyman then missed a free throw. Baylor grabbed the rebound and fed West, who collided with Heyman on his jump-shot try.

Johnny Green paced the Knicks with 26 points. West had 45 for the Lakers.

The Warriors got another 52-point performance from Wilt Chamberlain, who also pulled down 32 rebounds. San Francisco ran off 10 straight points late in the final period to overtake the Pistons. Don Ohl led Detroit with 29 points.

San Francisco leads St. Louis, idle Tuesday, by one game in the Western Division race.

Boston led most of the way against the 76ers, who played without three injured regulars. Frank Ramsey's 22 points paced the Celts, who now lead Cincinnati by two games in the East.

Buick Tourney Is Blacked Out

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A Buick spokesman said Tuesday that a disagreement over television rights will black out next summer's Buick Open Golf Tournament.

The tournament is set for June 11-14 at nearby Warwick Hills. The spokesman said the event would not be televised because of a dispute with the Professional Golfers Association.

He said the PGA reportedly wanted 20 per cent of the television proceeds, or about $11,000 of the total $55,000 tourney tab.

"We don't want to enter into that hassle," he added.

The issue over ownership of television rights to PGA tournaments came up earlier this month at the Phoenix Open. Golfers threatened a boycott unless they were given rights already sold. A compromise averted the boycott.

Snead Joins Seniors In PGA Tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Nine members of Golf's Hall of Fame, including a brash young newcomer named Sam Snead, are among more than 400 who will tee off Thursday in the $30,000 PGA Seniors Teacher Trophy Tournament.

The 51-year-old Snead joins the select group for the first time in this favorite event of golfers past the golden age. The winner will earn $2,500 and a trip to England to play the British Senior champ.

Other Hall of Famers in the competition will be Jock Hutchinson, 79, winner of the first Seniors tournament in 1937; Denny Shute, 59; Gene Sarazen, 61; Paul Runyan, 55; Mike Brady, 76; Jimmy Demaret, 53; Fred McLeod, 81, and E.J. (Dutch) Harrison, 54.

Lane Risking Shot At Lightweight Title

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Southpaw Kenny Lane meets Erie's Johnny Bizzarro tonight in a scheduled 10-round fight which could cost Lane a shot at Carlos Ortiz's lightweight championship if he loses.

Pete Petrosky, Lane's manager, said "We have a signed contract" to fight Ortiz April 4 in Puerto Rico.

However, promoter Don Elbaum of Erie said he has heard that if Lane loses to Bizzaro the Ortiz fight is off.

Lane, of Muskegon, Mich., a 12-5 favorite tonight, will enter the ring with a 75-11-2 record, including 15 knockouts. Bizzarro has a 46-6-2 with 20 knockouts.

The one on top is a world famous legend.

The one below it is the same legend redesigned into an all new station wagon.

It has the deluxe interior appointments and comfortable ride of a fine passenger car . . . carries six big adults plus more luggage and equipment than you can imagine. It's powered by America's only automotive overhead cam engine, the high torque Tornado OHC . . . offers optional extras such as automatic transmission, independent front suspension, power steering and power brakes. But the all new Wagoneer is really a 'Jeep' vehicle at heart.

The 'Jeep' Wagoneer goes up steep hills, over rough rugged terrain and through snow and mud that leave other cars helpless. And around slippery turns that cause fishtailing and skidding, it hugs the road with traditional 'Jeep' traction.

The big reason is 4-wheel "Drivepower."® All four wheels are power wheels instead of just two. Take a demonstration drive soon. You've never driven a car that can do the things this one can.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Most employes engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and at least one and one-half times their regular rate of pay for hours worked after a maximum workweek of 40 hours, unless specifically exempt. Also, most employes in certain large retail, service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce, who have been entitled to a minimum wage of at least $1.00 an hour since September 3, 1961, must be paid overtime pay of not less than one and one-half times their regular rates for all hours worked after a maximum workweek of 44 hours, unless specifically exempt. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 2-1235.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Most employes engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.25 an hour and at least one and one-half times their regular rate of pay for hours worked after a maximum workweek of 40 hours, unless specifically exempt. Also, most employes in certain large retail, service, construction and other enterprises engaged in or producing goods for commerce, who have been entitled to a minimum wage of at least $1.00 an hour since September 3, 1961, must be paid overtime pay of not less than one and one-half times their regular rates for all hours worked after a maximum workweek of 44 hours, unless specifically exempt. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. 10452 WYandotte 2-1235.

OFFICERS ELECTED—The Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company has re-elected Ross K. Osterhoudt (center) of Stone Ridge to serve as president of the agency formerly the Olive Cooperative Fire Insurance Association. Other officers are Kenneth P. Pangburn of Kingston, (left) secretary and assistant treasurer, and Howard J. Stauble, treasurer and assistant secretary. (Freeman photo)

Agency Changes Its Name To Colonial Cooperative

At its annual meeting on Thursday, February 13, members of the Olive Co-operative Fire Insurance Association unanimously voted in favor of changing the name of the association to Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company.

The change had been under consideration for some time by the management of the association. It was brought out that the association has grown from a local to a state-wide operation since 1942 and is now represented by over 150 independent insurance agencies. It is felt that the new name will be more appropriate due to the association's state-wide operation and yet still fulfill the local image.

No Policy Changes

Management of the association advises that this new name will in no way affect the present Olive Co-operative insurance policies now in force The effective date of the new name will be May 1, 1964.

Other business transacted at the meeting which was held at the home office at 68 Main Street, was the election of officers and directors.

Ross K. Osterhoudt of Stone Ridge was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected are Frank Aldrich, Kingston, vice president; Kenneth P. Pangburn, Kingston, secretary and assistant treasurer; Howard J. Stauble, Hurley, treasurer and assistant secretary.

Board of Directors

Directors re-elected were Frank Aldrich, Kenneth P. Pangburn, William F. Murray and Alfred Ronder, all of Kingston.

The remaining members of the board of directors are Aubrey L. Berry, West Hurley; Peter A. Black, Kingston; Pratt A. Boice, Lake Katrine; Sam N. Mann, Kingston; William H. Merrill, Kingston; Howard J. Stauble, Hurley; Robert M. Ortale, Kingston; Ross K. Osterhoudt, Stone Ridge, and Grover C. Winchell, Olive Bridge.

Some of the historical points brought out at the meeting was that the association had been in business since 1896. It is the only insurance company organized in Ulster County that is still in business today. In 1963 the Olive Co-Operative reported an all time high in assets, surplus and premiums written.

The board of directors received and accepted with great regret, the retirement of Augustus S. Weeks, a director for 44 years. Mr. Weeks had served as treasurer and then as president during the early years of the company.

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS IN THIS ACTION:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of the Hon. Raymond J. Mino, Judge of the County Court, County of Ulster, dated the 3rd day of February, 1964, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster at Kingston, New York, on the 3rd day of February, 1964.

This action is brought pursuant to foreclosing a certain interest in real property owned by the defendants situated at South Washington Avenue, Kingston, Ulster County, New York and more particularly described as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the buildings thereon, situate on the easterly side of South Washington Avenue in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the easterly side of South Washington Avenue at the southwesterly corner of the lands of now or formerly James C. Rigney, said point being 126.6 feet on a course of south 26 degrees 15 minutes east from the southeasterly corner of South Washington Avenue and the Boulevard; thence from said point of beginning and on a course of north 68 degrees 23 minutes east along lands now or formerly Rigney, 100 feet to lands of now or formerly Mary Jones, thence on a course of south 26 degrees 15 minutes east 80 feet to a point; thence on a course of south 68 degrees 23 minutes west and along other lands of said Mary Jones 100 feet to the easterly side of South Washington Avenue aforesaid; thence along the said easterly side of South Washington Avenue north 26 degrees 15 minutes west 80 feet to the point and place of beginning.

The above description being in accordance with a survey made by James F. Loughran C.E. in December, 1947.

Being the same premises conveyed by Mae Brodhead to Pauline Gardner by deed dated October 18, 1955 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber of Deeds 946 at page 534.

New York Firm Is Low Bidder For OCS Bonds

Marine Trust Company of Western New York outbid six other banking firms in the sale of Onteora Central Schools District bonds Tuesday.

The firm, which has offices at 121 Broadway in New York City, bid high premium of $2,012,305.26, with interest rate of 3.20 per cent.

The other six bidders also bid an interest rate of 3.20 per cent.

The Marine Trust's sealed bid was the seventh and last opened by George Smith, Business Manager of the Onteora District at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Board of Education office at the Onteora school. Representatives of the various bidders were present when the sealed bids were opened.

The other bids submitted were:

Kingston Trust Company, rate 3.20, premium, $2,008,287.81.

C. J. Devine and Company, Associates: rate 3.20; premium, $2,009,086.88.

Smith-Barney Associates: rate 3.20; premium, $1,999,697.68.

Morgan Guaranty Trust: rate 3.20; premium, $2,007,977.00.

Harris Trust and Savings, White, Wells and Co. and J. C. Bradford Co.: rate 3.20; premium, $2,001,392.00.

Halsey, Stuart, Inc.: rate 3.20; premium, $2,003,053.84.

The low bid by Marine Trust was accepted by unanimous vote of the Board of Education.

State Senator Will Address Democratic Club

Woodstock Democratic Club officials are expecting a large turnout for Thursday night's monthly meeting featuring State Senator Jack Bronston of New York City. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at the Town House.

Club President Peter W. Rakov announced that letters of invitation to the meeting have been sent to all enrolled Democrats in the township. The meeting is open to the public.

One of the dynamic young state senators, Bronston is currently the ranking minority member on several important Senate committees, including the Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Education Law. He is also on the Committee on School Financing and the Affairs of Cities Committee.

Senator Bronston will give a progress report on the current legislative session and then will answer questions from the floor.

Protestants Set Worship Series

The Protestant churches of Woodstock will join together in four worship services during Lent. At these services, the relationship of the church to a number of contemporary problems will be explored. The schedule of services is as follows:

Sunday, March 1 — Service at Christ Lutheran Church, 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Donald Hicks, minister of the Woodstock Reformed Church, will lead a presentation on the topic: The Church and Race Relations.

Sunday, March 8 — Service at Overlook Methodist Church, 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Lloyd Uyeki, vicar of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, will preach on the topic: The Church and the Family.

Sunday, March 15 — Service at the Woodstock Reformed Church, 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Norman Krapf, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, will preach on the topic: The Relevance of the Church — Three Case Studies.

3 Men Killed, Earth Gives Way

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) —Three men were killed and a four injured Tuesday when the side of a 20-foot-deep ditch gave way at a construction site.

The men were employed in the construction of a new sewage treatment plant 2½ miles southeast of Stillwater.

Kissing Rock Is GoingWithCollege

CARTHAGE, Ill. (AP)—Kissing Rock, a romantic landmark of the Carthage College campus for a half century, will be moved to Kenosha, Wis., along with the rest of the college.

The college will be relocated in the summer. Members of Beta Phi Epsilon fraternity have volunteered to truck the two-ton piece of granite to the new campus.

The stone was placed on the Carthage campus by the class of 1913. The Carthage tradition is that any male student finding a girl sitting on the rock is entitled to a kiss.

Siamese Twin Dies 5 Days After Surgery

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — A Siamese twin boy died Tuesday in Chelsea Naval Hospital, five days after he was separated by surgery from the body of his dead brother.

Michael Richard, Born Jan. 17, died of a ruptured bowel. His brother, Mark, joined to him at the head, died last Friday and the operation was performed immediately.

The boys were the children of Air Force T. Sgt. and Mrs. Alfred F. Richard of Pawtucket, R.I. They were born while Richard was stationed in Italy 9and brought to the Chelsea hospital Jan. 23.

OFFICERS ELECTED—The Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company has re-elected Ross K. Osterhoudt (center) of Stone Ridge to serve as president of the agency formerly the Olive Cooperative Fire Insurance Association. Other officers are Kenneth P. Pangburn of Kingston, (left) secretary and assistant treasurer, and Howard J. Stauble, treasurer and assistant secretary.
(Freeman photo)

Agency Changes Its Name To Colonial Cooperative

At its annual meeting on Thursday, February 13, members of the Olive Co-operative Fire Insurance Association unanimously voted in favor of changing the name of the association to Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company.

The change had been under consideration for some time by the management of the association. It was brought out that the association has grown from a local to a state-wide operation since 1942 and is now represented by over 150 independent insurance agencies. It is felt that the new name will be more appropriate due to the association's state-wide operation and yet still fulfill the local image.

No Policy Changes

Management of the association advises that this new name will in no way affect the present Olive Co-operative insurance policies now in force. The effective date of the new name will be May 1, 1964.

Other business transacted at the meeting which was held at the home office at 68 Main Street, was the election of officers and directors.

Ross K. Osterhoudt of Stone Ridge was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected are Frank Aldrich, Kingston, vice president; Kenneth P. Pangburn, Kingston, secretary and assistant treasurer; Howard J. Stauble, Hurley, treasurer and assistant secretary.

Board of Directors

Directors re-elected were Frank Aldrich, Kenneth P. Pangburn, William F. Murray and Alfred Ronder, all of Kingston.

The remaining members of the board of directors are Aubrey L. Berry, West Hurley; Peter A. Black, Kingston; Pratt A. Boice, Lake Katrine; Sam N. Mann, Kingston; William H. Merrill, Kingston; Howard J. Stauble, Hurley; Robert M. Ortale, Kingston; Ross K. Osterhoudt, Stone Ridge, and Grover C. Winchell, Olive Bridge.

Some of the historical points brought out at the meeting was that the association had been in business since 1896. It is the only insurance company organized in Ulster County that is still in business today. In 1963 the Olive Co-Operative reported an all time high in assets, surplus and premiums written.

The board of directors received and accepted with great regret, the retirement of Augustus S. Weeks, a director for 44 years. Mr. Weeks had served as treasurer and then as president during the early years of the company.

TO THE ABOVE NAMED DEFENDANTS IN THIS ACTION:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of the Hon. Raymond J. Mino, Judge of the County Court, County of Ulster, dated the 3rd day of February, 1964, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster at Kingston, New York, on the 3rd day of February, 1964.

This action is brought pursuant to foreclosing a certain interest in real property owned by the defendants situated at South Washington Avenue, Kingston, Ulster County, New York and more particularly described as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the buildings thereon, situate on the easterly side of South Washington Avenue in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the easterly side of South Washington Avenue at the southwesterly corner of the lands of now or formerly James C. Rigney, said point being 126.6 feet on a course of south 26 degrees 15 minutes east from the southeasterly corner of South Washington Avenue and the Boulevard; thence from said point of beginning and on a course of north 68 degrees 23 minutes east along lands now or formerly Rigney, 100 feet to lands of now or formerly Mary Jones, thence on a course of south 26 degrees 15 minutes east 80 feet to a point; thence on a course of south 68 degrees 23 minutes west and along other lands of said Mary Jones 100 feet to the easterly side of South Washington Avenue aforesaid; thence along the said easterly side of South Washington Avenue north 26 degrees 15 minutes west 80 feet to the point and place of beginning.

The above description being in accordance with a survey made by James F. Loughran C.E. in December, 1947.

Being the same premises conveyed by Mae Brodhead to Pauline Gardner by deed dated October 18, 1955 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber of Deeds 946 at page 534.

3 Men Killed, Earth Gives Way

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) —Three men were killed and a four injured Tuesday when the side of a 20-foot-deep ditch gave way at a construction site.

The men were employed in the construction of a new sewage treatment plant 2½ miles southeast of Stillwater.

Kissing Rock Is GoingWithCollege

CARTHAGE, Ill. (AP)—Kissing Rock, a romantic landmark of the Carthage College campus for a half century, will be moved to Kenosha, Wis., along with the rest of the college.

The college will be relocated in the summer. Members of Beta Phi Epsilon fraternity have volunteered to truck the two-ton piece of granite to the new campus.

The stone was placed on the Carthage campus by the class of 1913. The Carthage tradition is that any male student finding a girl sitting on the rock is entitled to a kiss.

Siamese Twin Dies 5 Days After Surgery

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — A Siamese twin boy died Tuesday in Chelsea Naval Hospital, five days after he was separated by surgery from the body of his dead brother.

Michael Richard, Born Jan. 17, died of a ruptured bowel. His brother, Mark, joined to him at the head, died last Friday and the operation was performed immediately.

The boys were the children of Air Force T. Sgt. and Mrs. Alfred F. Richard of Pawtucket, R.I. They were born while Richard was stationed in Italy and brought to the Chelsea hospital Jan. 23.

The low bid by Marine Trust was accepted by unanimous vote of the Board of Education.

State Senator Will Address Democratic Club

Woodstock Democratic Club officials are expecting a large turnout for Thursday night's monthly meeting featuring State Senator Jack Bronston of New York City. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at the Town House.

Club President Peter W. Rakov announced that letters of invitation to the meeting have been sent to all enrolled Democrats in the township. The meeting is open to the public.

One of the dynamic young state senators, Bronston is currently the ranking minority member on several important Senate committees, including the Joint Legislative Committee to Revise the Education Law. He is also on the Committee on School Financing and the Affairs of Cities Committee.

Senator Bronston will give a progress report on the current legislative session and then will answer questions from the floor.

Heart Sunday Is High Point of '64 Fund Drive

The Heart Sunday Volunteer Army have been on the March since Feb. 17 to give many residents of Kingston and the county a personal opportunity to fight the nation's Number One health enemy — the heart and blood vessel diseases. The county-wide drive will be continued through Feb. 23, Heart Sunday.

Local residents will visit homes in many sections of Kingston and the county to accept contributions for the 1964 Heart Fund and, as educationl ambassadors, to distribute pamphlets containing heart-saving facts.

Where the volunteer finds no one at home, he or she will leave a pre-addressed mail-in envelope in which a contribution may be sent conveniently to Heart Fund Headquarters during the next few days.

Heart Sunday marks the high point in the Ulster County Heart Chapter's annual Fund drive which makes possible the crusade against the cardiovascular diseases.

"Heart Sunday is that special day of the year on which your Heart Chapter asks you to recall all you have read and heard about the cardiovascular diseases," Charles Carpenter, County Heart Sunday Chairman, said.

"It is the day on which you have the responsibility of assuring the success of your Heart Chapter's mass assault on the heart diseases during the coming year," he continued.

"The decision is yours because it is your contribution that makes possible the attack on the heart problem. By the size of your gift you help determine the amount of research that can be carried on to seek new knowledge, and the extent to which the benefits of heart research can be passed on to your physician to serve you, your family and your neighbors," he explained. "More will live the more you give to the Heart Fund," he pointed out.

Workers Pledge Over $7,000 for Church Building

Canvassers pledged $7,385.60 Tuesday night as their part in the current building fund campaign of the Port Ewen Methodist Church.

A family night supper preceded the second training session for stewardship crusade workers. The Rev. Dr. Frank L. Hicks, crusade director, conducted the session. There was a general discussion of the need for and aims of expanded educational facilities in a growing community. A film strip entitled Ye Are My Witnesses was shown.

The campaign is designed to raise $15,000 of the total $50,000 needed for building the new educational unit and refurbishing of the church proper. Church extension will assist in the expansion program. Pledges are made for a period of three years April 1, 1964 to April 1, 1967.

The advanced gifts campaign is being conducted this week with visitation of the membership slated for Sunday afternoon and evening.

Area Notes

The monthly meeting of the Town of Esopus Republican Club will be held Thursday 8:30 p. m. in the town auditorium. All members are requested to attend and new members are invited.

Girl Scout Troops 51 and 121 will meet Thursday 6:30 p. m. at the Reformed Church during Lent.

Women's Guild of the Reformed Church will hold a food sale Saturday 11 a. m. in the town auditorium.

Scare Campaign Seethes In Bomb-Jumpy Saigon

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—In bomb jumpy Saigon today a grenade was reported about to explode inside the U.S. Information Agency building, an American soldier accidentally shot a Vietnamese street vendor, and the Viet Cong radio station warned people to stay away from Americans.

All streets around the U.S. Information Agency building were blocked off during the noon-hour grenade scare.

The grenade, found in the library, turned out to be a plastic dummy.

An hour earlier a pistol fell out of the shoulder holster of a U.S. Army enlisted man several blocks from the information agency building. The pistol went off when it struck the pavement and the bullet hit a street vendor. The Vietnamese was not seriously wounded.

The Communist guerrilla radio station warned that persons near Americans are liable to be killed along with the Americans. U.S. officials regarded the broadcast as a Communist effort to scare Americans in Saigon. Since Feb. 1, six Americans have been killed and 87 wounded in terrorist incidents.

A major objective in the Communist campaign is believed to be the shattering of American morale, making a negotiated settlement and neutralization of South Viet Nam acceptable to Washington.

The United States minted half-cent coins in 1792.
